HYLAN BARS TRUCKS FROM CITY STREETS; 12,000 FIGHT SNOW

None but Traffic Necessary to Public Health Will Be Permitted Today.

50,000 MORE MEN NEEDED

Surface Cars Still Blocked and May Not Resume Normal Operations for Days.

CITIZENS GIVE SUNDAY AID

"Block Parties" Clear Neighborhoods — Brooklyn Transit Service Restored.

Twelve thousand men struggled yesterday to free the city's streets of snow and ice so that business might move forward at a better pace today. They were aided by many more thousands who devoted a part at least of the day of rest to cleaning up in their immediate neighborhoods. Progress was made, but New York will not be normal this morning, and a call went out last night for 50.000 men to get at the job today.

So much ice had formed in the streets during the thaws and freezes that intermitted with the snow and sleet storms last week that unless the weather comes to the rescue it probably will be weeks before the last of the ice and drifts are gone. On hundreds of streets it has been found that the ice underlying the snow which was turning to slash in yesterday's mild atmosphere was so thick that shovels would not penetrate it. It was a job for picks and crowbars, axes and sledges. To make matters worse, the chunks thus dislodged are so thick and solid they dare not be thrown into the sewers for fear of clogging them and menacing the health of the whole city, so each cartload must be hauled to one of the rivers.

Not only has a general inspection of the streets revealed that one of the hardest snow removal jobs in years confronts the Street Cleaning Department, but the Manhattan trolley lines are in far worse straits than was supposed. For several days it was believed the chief trouble lay in the clogging of the third-rail slots, but more thorough examination has revealed that the feed-wire conduits have been frozen full of ice, and that unless the weather moderates decidedly these will have to be thawed almost foot by foot. Thousands of motormen and conductors who would have been idle otherwise again aided the regular repair and emergency forces, and some progress was made. There remains much to be done, particularly along the lines of the New York Railways Company, now in the hands of Job E. Hedges as Receiver, which operates the green cars. Not only is it confronted with clogged channels and frozen conduits, but in many places curves and switches lie under sheets of thick, solid ice, which must be chopped away.

Only Forty Blocks Open.

Though Mayor Hylan has directed Commissioner Arnold B. MacStay to undertake some of the work of cleaning the company's right of way with the idea of making the corporation repay the expense under its franchise, it will probably be days before the street cleaners can turn their attention in that direction.

No prediction as to resumption of service could be got from the company last night. It was said that day and night forces were doing their utmost, but that the job was a staggering one. Out of the entire New York Railways system, only forty blocks on a single line were operating. That was the Lexington Avenue line from Fifty-ninth to Ninety-ninth Street. The Broadway, the Seventh Avenue, the Sixth Avenue, and the rest of the Lexington Avenue north and south lines were idle. Not a single block of crosstown service had been restored. The crosstown routes are the Spring, Eighth, Fourteenth, Twenty-third, Thirty-fourth and 116th Street lines.

The Third Avenue Railway announced that service had been resumed from Fort Lee Ferry to 152d Street and Amsterdam Avenue via Manhattan Street and Amsterdam Avenue; from Tenth Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street to Broadway on Tenth Avenue; from Broadway west on Fifty-ninth Street; from the East River to Broadway on Grand Street, and that Yonkers, New Rochelle, Mount Vernon and other lines of the company north of the Harlem River were in full operation.

The management said it hoped to restore service today from Fort Lee Ferry to Eighth Avenue and 125th Street and "probably" the 125th Street and Fifty-ninth Street crosstown lines and the Third Avenue route, from Sixty-fifth Street north.

A survey late last night by members of the Mayor's Emergency Snow Committee, by the Street Cleaning Commissioner and by the Mayor himself was followed by a meeting of some members of the Snow Committee and city officials at City Hall, after which the Telegraph Bureau at Police Headquarters was directed to send this order to every precinct in the city:

All Trucks Ordered In.

"Notify all stables and garages no trucking will be allowed tomorrow—Monday—except for cartage of milk, foodstuffs, coal, snow and newspapers."

Thus Mayor Hylan's request that other forms of trucking cease and all trucks and laborers be turned over to the city

Red Rising Against Japan on Island of Sakhalin

TOKIO, Jan. 31 (Associated Press).—Bolshevist uprisings against the Japanese on the Island of Sakhalin are reported. Important Japanese mining and petroleum plants have been attacked.

A rescue party in thirty sledges has been sent to the scene.

Count Tsunetada Kato, special Ambassador of Japan to Siberia, in an interview at Seoul on his way here from Omsk, said that Japan was compelled either to withdraw her troops from Siberia or to determine to assist Russia unreservedly and find a new centre of influence in Siberia with which to co-operate.

He declared that the Cossacks undoubtedly were still an influence in Russia.

NITTI PREPARED TO GIVE UP FIUME

Will Oust d'Annunzio by Force if London Treaty Is Accepted, He Says.

DEPLORES ATTACKS ON US

Denounces as Stupid the Action of the Italian Pres in "Sowing Seeds of Poison"

ROME, Feb. 7.—Premier Nitti discussed the Italian foreign policy in the Chamber of Deputies today. He began his speech by asking for a suspension of the work of the chamber for a few days, as he had to be in London on Thursday at a meeting of the allied Premiers.

"In the critical hour of our history," said the Premier, "it is indispensable to tell the entire truth, even if we have to do so with an aching heart. Foreign policy has an influence on home policy, and home policy on foreign policy, so the two must harmonize.

"My Government has been accused of weakness by those desiring reactions. Such criticisms cause discontent and render more difficult the task of the Government, which much protect the interests of the community without allowing itself to be biased by the sentiments of any group.

"Those who most insisted that we enter the war render now the worst possible service to the war by saying that we obtained nothing. We must remember that almost all Italians who desired war asked only for Trent and Trieste. It is therefore a mistake to say that nothing was obtained, when our terms are more than satisfied.

Alternatives at Fiume.

"In other questions, where Italy is most interested, namely, the Adriatic, Constantinople and Asia Minor, Italy must be guided by the broadest principles of nationality. The spontaneous plebiscite at Fiume, declaring a desire to join Italy, created a new political situation which caused a series of difficulties. There can be only two solutions—either the Compact of London, which we claim as our right, or the solution we invoke in the name of justice, consisting of harmonizing the interests, tendencies and aspirations of the Italian people with those of the Jugoslav people."

He emphasized the success obtained by having France and Italy acknowledge the right to apply the Treaty of London, saying that after an evasive answer is given by Belgrade to a compromise plan France and England must decide what to do.

"I still hope to reach an agreement with the Jugoslavs," asserted Signor Nitti, "for while protecting Italian interests I wish also to protect the interests of peace. We do not need to apply the Compact of London, firstly, because we have the backing of France and England, and, secondly, because we already occupy more than what that compact grants us. By applying the compact we must immediately give Fiume to the Croatians and divide Albania between Serbia and Greece, according to Article 7 of that treaty.

The Socialist Deputy, Bombacci, interrupting, asked: "Who rules in Fiume —the Italian Government or d'Annunzio?"

"It would be dishonest if I accepted the Compact of London without pledging

LABOR OPENS FIGHT TO DEFEAT ITS FOES IN FALL ELECTIONS

Federation Sends Call to 40,000 Locals to Mobilize Forces to Elect Friends.

TO INDEX ALL ASPIRANTS

Plans to Make Announcements on Merits of Candidates in Unmistakable Terms.

URGES NEED OF LEGISLATION

Charges Congress with Failing in Its Duty and with Scorning Unions' Program.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Charging that the Congress of the United States has "failed to do its duty," the American Federation of Labor issued a proclamation tonight to all affiliated organizations calling upon them to organize a great political machine in every section of the nation to defeat aspirants for office who have refused to meet labor's demands.

The proclamation, which goes to the 40,000 locals, with membership of 4,000,000, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, is put out by the General Committee in charge of the campaign, which includes President Gompers and the members of the Executive Council of the Federation and fourteen other prominent labor leaders, among them three women. President Gompers, Frank Morrison, Secretary of the Federation, and James O'Connell, President of the Metals Trade Department of the Federation, have been selected as an Executive Committee to direct the campaign.

It is reported that labor has a large fund with which to back its activities, but the labor leaders, as emphasized in their proclamation, have definitely abandoned the idea of supporting a third party, such as the Labor Party, and call upon the workers to direct their energies to obtaining their desires through the existing political organizations and by methods of campaign as directed through the Central Campaign Committee now set up.

It is the intention of the American Federation of Labor to make a complete index of the records and activities of aspirants to office and to use its power to the utmost to overthrow unfavorable candidates. For the moment, at least, the effort will be directed, so far as the National Government is concerned, at the legislative branches of the machinery, but labor leaders here assert that if a candidate for the Presidency should be nominated by either great political party who is objectionable to labor, opposition to his candidacy would be made known in definite and unequivocal terms.

No mention of the Plumb Plan for the nationalization of the railroads or of proposals for nationalization of natural resources is made in the proclamation issued tonight. Such programs have not been formally indorsed by the American Federation of Labor, and are being pushed by the Plumb Plan League, dominated by the railroad brotherhoods.

Sees Democracy Endangered.

The proclamation in part says:

"The inherent rights and principles of our people are threatened.

"The free institutions of our country are menaced.

"The ideals of democracy are in danger.

"The Congress of the United States has failed to do its duty. It has failed to meet the emergency. It has given encouragement and support to autocratic and reactionary policies. Its dominating thought has been the repression of labor.

"Every effort to secure remedial and constructive legislation has been strangled. Every appeal for redress has met with subtle and open hostility. The halls of Congress have been used by Labor's enemies to foster and spread a vicious propaganda against the efforts of the toilers to exercise their normal and lawful activities for the protection and promotion of their interests and welfare. Labor has appealed for relief in vain.

"The hour has arrived when those who believe in the maintenance of democratic institutions must marshal their

Schleswig Danes Plan Fete to Celebrate Plebiscite Day

HADERSLABEN, Schleswig, Feb. 7.—Eleven committees are working earnestly to make the plebiscite in this district a day long to be remembered.

Following an old Danish yeoman custom, gaily dressed heralds will ride on horseback from house to house, inviting the populace to join in the festivities.

Though plebiscite day has been fixed as Wednesday, services will be held in all the churches, the Danish worshippers going straight from church to the polls.

ASQUITH ASSAILS TREATY OF PEACE

Would End Trouble with Russia, Define Germany's Liability and Let Austria Off.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Speaking at Paisley tonight Mr. Asquith criticised the Peace Treaty. He said the new frontiers of Central and Eastern Europe must necessarily be purely provisional and there must be opportunity for calm and deliberate revision, for which the League of Nations would furnish an appropriate instrument and authority, to be guided always by the main governing considerations of nationality and self-determination.

"The future of Russia," he added, "dominates and overshadows the whole scene from the Baltic to the Black Sea. Every arrangement must be not only provisional, but transient, and the new States will have no assured prospect either of internal stability or external safety until there is peace with Russia." [Cheers.]

The powers, he thought, were now unanimous in the determination not to burn their fingers any more by meddling with the internal affairs of Russia.

Speaking of the financial provisions of the treaty, he said they were all agreed Germany should pay a large sum as promptly as possible for her war damage, but he was not sure that it was not more important for the permanent interests of the world to accelerate as far as possible the restoration of the normal economic life of Europe, in which Germany must continue to be an important factor. Germany's total liability—and this was the defect of the treaty—was nowhere defined. She was left with a millstone round her neck.

"As a question of practical business capacity," he went on, "is it conceivable that Germany will be able with her crippled resources to meet liabilities of that kind? To my mind it is absolutely impossible.

"Conditions in Austria are even more severe. Austria is a bankrupt State. The treaty imposes an undefined liability upon her as regards the total amount she is to hand over, in addition to which she is to provide 19,000 head of cattle, horses and sheep, and that in a country where the condition of the population is such that we are making appeals in our churches and on platforms in order that they may be saved from starvation.

"This is not statesmanship. It is not business or common sense. It is not that clean peace which always meant a peace that would end war. It is not that clean peace that all of us, without distinction of party, were demanding and clamoring for eighteen months ago."

Liberals are Exulting.

Mr. Asquith's campaign at Paisley is filling the Liberals throughout the country with exultation. "The old man is coming back," is the prediction heard at every end and turn in the Liberal clubs, and Lloyd George's political enemies already feel their fingers twitching about his scalp.

There was a triumphant ring in A. G. Gardiner's weekly article in today's Daily News, which is being issued as a broadsheet for the instruction of the Paisley electorate. Mr. Gardiner may possibly misread the signs of the times in counting on Asquith's success, for many of the acutest observers confess their inability to determine definitely which way the vote is going to jump at a moment when old traditions and old forces are in the melting pot. But his view that the two great currents shaping themselves are those of capital and labor is shared by most people of judgment.

Gardiner is more Radical than Liberal, and, it may be, more anti-Lloyd Georgean than either. His appeal to Paisley to elect Asquith is not only a paean sung in Asquith's praise, but also one of the most virulent philippics against Lloyd George ever penned. He writes of Asquith:

"He stands out from the tumult of these days a great and solitary figure in whom public honor and probity burn with an undimmed flame, and whose sense of duties of citizenship is uncontaminated by any mean motive or any personal ambition. That so rare a union of gifts should be lightly esteemed is not only an insult to him, it is a reproach to the nation that can be so indifferent to its own highest interests.

"Can any one who speaks of England today be insensible of humilitation at the fact that while the Bottomleys and Billingses, and Grant Mordens are in

Report Says Pope Will Permit Divorcees To Remarry; Priests Here Express Doubt

VIENNA, Monday, Feb. 2.—The marriage of divorcees will be instituted in Austrian Catholic churches this month, under an announcement authorized by the Pope. Fears have been entertained here recently that Catholic divorcees would leave the church altogether because at present priests are directing them to remarry before Registrars.

Members of the Catholic clergy were somewhat puzzled by the foregoing dispatch, stating that the Catholic Church was about to authorize the marriage of divorced persons in Austria. Belief was expressed that the reported authorization of the Pope might apply to the remarriage of a divorced pair, although even that was said to have been contrary to church polity.

"The Catholic Church will never recognize divorce," said the Rev. Dr. William F. Hughes, pastor of St. Gregory's Roman Catholic Church, "in cases where the marriage has been blessed by the Church. So far as the dispatch is concerned there may have been some new order of the Austrian Government which created a new civil condition concerning the remarriage of a divorced pair.

"In these cases, the Catholic Church has not remarried these persons. Not recognizing divorce, it has always considered the marriage binding and still in force. A second marriage is, of course, unnecessary."

Official Catholic comment upon the dispatch could not be obtained. Neither the Very Rev. Gherardo Ferrante, Judge of the Matrimonial Court of the Archdiocese of New York, nor the Rev. John R. Mahoney, Defender of the Marriage Vow, could be reached last night.

NOT A CANDIDATE, HOOVER SAYS, BUT TELLS HIS ATTITUDE

"Must Vote for the Party That Stands for the League with Necessary Reservations."

WON'T DECLARE HIS PARTY

"I Decline to Pledge My Vote Blindfold," His Answer to That Question.

AGAINST PROFIT OR PRIVILEGE

Also Against Socialism—Has No Organization, and No One Is Authorized to Speak for Him Politically.

Herbert Hoover issued a statement last night, defining his attitude toward the Presidential nomination.

Mr. Hoover announced that he was not a candidate and was not seeking the Presidency, but did not say that he would not accept a nomination. He declared that no one was authorized to speak for him politically. If the League of Nations were made an issue in the election, Mr. Hoover said that he would vote for the party that stood for the League with any necessary reservations.

The uncertainty as to whether Mr. Hoover is a Democrat or a Republican was in no way cleared. He stated that, in response to requests that he declare his allegiance to one or the other of the great parties, he would wait until it more definitely appeared what the party managers stand for.

"I will exercise a prerogative of American citizenship," he said, "and decline to pledge my vote blindfold."

Mr. Hoover made it clear that his sympathies were not with reactionaries, by saying that he could not vote with a party dominated by groups which sought to set aside the rights of free speech and free representation or which hoped to re-establish control of the Government for profit and privilege. He said that he was opposed to any form of socialism, including the nationalization of industry, which William J. Bryan has declared to be a leading issue. Mr. Hoover's statement follows:

"In order to answer a large number of questions all at once, let me emphasize that I have taken a day off from the industrial conference to come to New York solely to attend to pressing matters in connection with the Children's Relief. I want to say again:

"I have not sought and am not seeking the Presidency. I am not a candidate. I have no 'organization.' No one is authorized to speak for me politically.

"As an American citizen by birth and of long ancestry, I am naturally greatly interested in the present critical situation. My sincere and only political desire is that one or both of the great political parties will approach the vital issues which have grown out of the war and are new with a clear purpose, looking to the welfare of our people, and that candidates capable of carrying out this work should be nominated.

"If the treaty goes over to the Presidential election (with any reservations necessary to clarify the world's mind that there can be no infringement of the safeguards provided by our Constitution and our nation's old traditions), then I must vote for the party that stands for the League. With it there is hope not only of the prevention of war, but also that we can safely economize in military policies. There is hope of earlier return of confidence and the economic reconstruction of the world.

"I could not vote for a party if it were dominated by groups who seek to set aside our Constitutional guarantees for free speech or free representation, who hope to re-establish control of the Government for profit and privilege. I could not vote with a party if it were dominated by groups who hope for any form of socialism, whether it be nationalization of industry or other destruction of individual initiative.

"Both these extremes, camouflaged or open, are active enough in the country today. Neither of these dominations would enable those constructive economic policies that will get us down from the unsound economic practices which of necessity grew out of the war. Nor would they secure the good-will to production in our farmers and workers or maintain the initiative of our business men. The issues look forward, not back.

"I do not believe in more than two great parties. Otherwise, combinations of groups could, as in Europe, create a danger of minority rule. I do believe in party organization, to support great ideals and to carry great issues and consistent policies. Nor can any one man dictate the issues of great parties. It appears to me that the hope of a great majority of our citizens in confronting this new period in American life is that the great parties will take positive stands on the many issues that confront us, and will select men whose character and associations will guarantee their pledges.

"I am being urged by people in both parties to declare my allegiance to either one or the other. Those who know me know that I am able to make up my mind when a subject is clearly defined. Consequently, until it more definitely appears what party managers stand for, I must exercise a prerogative of American citizenship, and decline to pledge my vote blindfold.

"I am not unappreciative of the many kind things that my friends have advanced on my behalf. Yet I hope they will realize my sincerity in not tying myself to undefined partisanship."

TREATY UP TODAY, WIDE DEMAND FOR ACTION; BIG ORGANIZATIONS BRINGING PRESSURE; BRYAN ON HIS WAY TO TAKE PART IN FIGHT

Chief German War Culprits Flee to Switzerland; Capelle and Von der Lancken Are Among Them

GENEVA, Feb. 8.—Anxiety is growing in Swiss official quarters lest many Germans accused by the Allies of war crimes enter Switzerland to escape liability under the Peace Treaty.

It is reported from Basle that Vice Admiral von Capelle, former Minister of the German Navy, crossed the frontier yesterday. Baron von der Lancken, Civil Governor of Brussels during the German occupation, is reported to have arrived in Switzerland from Munich. Former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria has been staying at Davos.

There is no Swiss law against the entrance into the country of fugitives.

ZURICH, Feb. 7.—Swiss newspapers publish this evening what apparently is an official or semi-official note saying that the Government would refuse to have Germans accused of war crimes by the Allies tried in Switzerland, in the event that this should be proposed by Germany.

The view is held here that Germany may suggest this in reply to the Entente's note.

BRITAIN RESERVED ON CULPRIT LISTS

Semi-Official Hint That London Will Not Support 'Unknown' Indictments.

PRESS ATTACKS DEMANDS

Premier May Go to Paris to Harmonize British and French Views.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—A semi-official statement issued tonight speaks of a "misunderstanding" with regard to the list of Germans demanded by the Allies. It says that the French and Belgian portions of the list have not been seen in England, and therefore it cannot be assumed that Great Britain will lend full support to such unknown lists, which are bound to become the subject of communications between the Allies and the Germans.

The British list, however, it adds, remains without modification and holds good.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 9.—Lloyd George's election pledges are coming home to roost is the way in which the Liberal papers describe developments in the war criminals imbroglio, an imbroglio which seems more than likely to turn into a fiasco. The Northcliffian press is raising exultant shouts about the Prime Minister "wabbling again," for Loyd George's difficulties make Lord Northcliffe's opportunities, even when the latter was prime instigator of the policy creating those difficulties.

The Premier has undoubtedly been caught in a trap. The British list of war criminals was expansive, but its 120 names were selected with a certain amount of discrimination which it is thought here has not been exercised by other members of the Entente, who swelled the total of Germans "wanted" to 880. The views of Paris and London are as wide as the Poles asunder, and the well-known tactfulness and persuasive abilities of Lord Birkenhead will be put to a severe strain to bring them into line Reports, in fact, are current, today that Lloyd George may find it useful to make a flying trip to the French capital despite the demands upon his attention to the domestic situation, which, according to most observers, is becoming seriously critical for the coalition.

The Daily Chronicle, in an editorial on the Entente's demand for the surrender of German war criminals, says that insistence on that demand is possible only if the list is reasonable, and urges the allied statesmen to confine it to the names of palpably guilty persons, so as to leave Germany in no position to refuse to give them up.

"We do not know whether the unofficial list whose publication has created such a sensation in Berlin is genuine or not, says The Chronicle. We can, however, say with knowledge that if so the British Government's assent was never procured to it. It is in any case an utterly preposterous list, and if a duplicate of it is really to be presented to the German Government in Berlin it is obvious that the interallied diplomatic machine, which has its seat in Paris, has once more committed an inexcusable folly. The list is in nearly every respect what it ought not to be. It would be insulting the intelligence of our readers to explain the self-evident reasons why such names as those of Hindenburg, Ludendorff or Bethmann Hollweg ought never to have appeared on it."

The Daily News, which accepts the list as genuine, says:

"The Allies have not only heaped folly, but provocation on provocation. The list of incriminated persons apparently includes precisely the kind of names we were authoritatively assured it would not contain—those of directors of general policy, like Bethmann Holl-

URGES APPOINTING GREY'S SUCCESSOR

London Times Suggests H. A. L. Fisher—Would Make Envoy's Salary £20,000.

INDORSES PREMIER'S VIEWS

Reprints New York Times Interview and Commends Attitude of Lloyd George and Grey.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The London Times republishes from THE NEW YORK TIMES Charles H. Grasty's conversation with Premier Lloyd George and editorially indorses the Prime Minister's views.

"Mr. Lloyd George," it says, "informed his visitor that he could never put himself in the position of advising America about her own affairs; neither, we may be sure, could Lord Grey. His letter was wanted at home, wanted to expose the handful of foolish or malicious persons who do not shrink from the folly and wickedness of trying to make bad blood between two countries. That friendly Americans who have seen the mischief such persons do should be delighted to have the real state of American opinion explained with sympathy and knowledge is a natural, but incidental, effect of Lord Grey's action."

As regards Mr. Lloyd George's eloquent testimony, in his conversation with Mr. Grasty, to the greatness of the services which America rendered to Great Britain and Europe in the war, The Times says:

"Those sentiments are beyond doubt the sentiments of the British people. They share this feeling of gratitude with Mr. Lloyd George, and are anxious that it should be shown by something more than words."

The Times proceeds:

"Americans have long felt regret and something resembling resentment at the makeshift arrangements for British representation in Washington. They must not be suffered to continue. Washington is the most important post in the whole of our Diplomatic Service. It is essential to the cultivation and even to the maintenance of the friendship to which we attach such high moment that this post should be filled by a man whose character and abilities will win the regard and confidence of the American people. Whom do the Government mean to appoint to it in place of Lord Grey? Various names have been mentioned, but of them all that of H. A. L. Fisher commands the most general approval among competent judges. Some that have been put about are manifestly unfit. Sir Auckland Geddes has been mentioned; but Washington can be no dumping ground for unpopular Ministers or for others whose claims are of a party or personal kind. We must have the best man for the place, and in order to have him the salary must be an amount which will not leave the possession of large private means a necessary qualification for the representative of one great democracy to another. We believe £20,000 is the least on which a citizen without such means can adequately discharge the duties of this high and arduous diplomatic position."

RESCUE DRIFTING SCHOONER

Captain and Family Marooned Three Weeks in East River.

After drifting for three weeks with the ice floes in the East River, the seventy-ton schooner B. F. Jayne was rescued yesterday by the police boat Patrol, in charge of Sergeant A. G. Elliss, of Harbor A Squad, and Captain Henry Van Wien and his wife and two small children were able to get on shore.

Their position was growing serious because food and water were running short on board. The captain said he had hoisted distress signals for several days, but the tug boat skippers took no notice of them. The schooner was towed by the Patrol to the foot of 151st Street, East River, and anchored.

TO PASS LODGE MOTION

Treaty With Reservations Would Then Be Reported Tomorrow.

BREAK IN LINES PREDICTED

But Hitchcock Says That the Democrats Are Not for Surrender.

NEW PRESSURE ON SENATE

Conference Representing 35 to 40 Great National Organizations Demands Compromise.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. — There is every indication tonight that the United States Senate will tomorrow take up the Treaty of Versailles, where it was laid aside by the vote of the Senate on Nov. 19, last, and recommit it to the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations with the understanding that it is to be reported back promptly to the Senate for consideration and action.

The indications, too, are that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will report the treaty to the Senate not later than Tuesday afternoon, with recommendations that it be ratified with the Lodge reservations. The effect of this action will be to bring the treaty once again before the Senate for discussion, first in Committee of the Whole and later for a vote in the Senate itself on the treaty and reservations.

In accordance with the notification he gave last Monday, Senator Lodge, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, will, tomorrow, ask for unanimous consent to suspend Rule XIII., with a view to taking up the treaty with reservations. Failing to obtain such consent, Senator Lodge will move to suspend the rules, in order that the Senate may have an opportunity to reconsider its final vote upon the resolution of ratification and the subsequent action which was taken to prevent a reconsideration of such vote. A two-thirds vote will be needed to put through the Lodge motion.

Senator Hitchcock, who has been leading the treaty fight for the Democrats, said tonight that the Democratic side would not oppose the Lodge motion. There seems to be no doubt tonight that it will prevail. The understanding is that, after the rules are suspended under the Lodge motion, Senator Lodge will then move to recommit the treaty to the Foreign Relations Committee for reconsideration, and that it will be reported back to the Senate with a recommendation that the Lodge reservations be approved by that body.

In this way it is expected to circumvent present obstacles in the rules of the Senate and to bring about a consideration of the treaty de novo in the hope that a satisfactory compromise can be reached such as will be able to command the vote of two-thirds of the Senate for ratification. Every possible effort will be made to effect the ratification of the treaty with the least possible delay. If the President were to yield on the Lodge reservation in relation to Article X. the treaty could be promptly ratified, as it is known that enough Democrats would then be willing to vote for a compromise which the Republicans would accept.

Efforts to Block the Motion.

The group of irreconcilables in the Senate will oppose the granting of unanimous consent when it is asked for by Senator Lodge tomorrow. Senator Borah said tonight that he would stand ready, if necessary, to object to unanimous consent. Asked for his view, Senator Borah said tonight:

"In view of President Wilson's refusal to yield on reservations and the fact that the supporters of the Lodge program also refuse to yield, I think it would be a waste of time to bring the treaty back before the Senate. What we ought to do is to clean up the Senate calendar and go to the country with the treaty, because the verdict on it must come from the country finally."

While objection by Mr. Borah or any of the other irreconcilables will force Senator Lodge to move for suspension of the rules, there appears no doubt tonight that the necessary votes can be obtained to carry the Lodge resolution. Both of the motions Mr. Lodge contemplates making tomorrow are debatable, however, and if the irreconcilables are disposed to conduct a filibuster they can delay the decision of the Senate by a vote to recommit the treaty to the committee. What Senator Borah and the irreconcilables are most solicitous about just now is that they shall not be barred by closure from debating the treaty when it does come back before the Senate.

"We are for action," said Senator Hitchcock to THE NEW YORK TIMES tonight. "We are for compromise. But we are not for surrender. The other side is not for compromise."

A Republican Senator, who did not care to be named, gave THE NEW YORK TIMES tonight this view of the situation in the Senate respecting the treaty:

"The treaty question could be settled by the Senate in a single afternoon but for one man. I have reference to the President of the United States. Except for the attitude of the President I am confident there would be no delay in the Senate reaching an agreement on the reservation and treaty. I mean that literally nearly the whole Democratic side is ready, willing and anxious to take the reservation to Article X. and the one on the Monroe Doctrine, as well as such changes as could be readily agreed to between the Republicans and Democrats on the other reservations, and that such a program, provided the President's attitude were not what it is, would command the support of 35 of the 49 Republican Senators, as well as that of 35 Democrats, which is easily over two-thirds of the Senate. The attitude of the President is all that prevents such a compromise agreement. It is all that prevents sufficient Democrats to vote for such a program to put it through at this time. It is no secret in the Senate that Democratic Senators say they would like to vote for such a program, but explain that they do not like to split with the President."

Big Conference to Urge Action.

Further pressure in favor of decisive action on the treaty by the Senate will be exerted as the result of a conference to be held here tomorrow of representatives of leading national organizations that have gone on record in favor of early ratification of the treaty. It is understood that this conference will serve a final warning tomorrow that hair splitters of all kinds in the treaty fight should get together in favor of prompt action in the Senate. The conference tomorrow will be a resumed session of the conference first held in Washington on Jan. 13, at which twenty-six national organizations were represented on the joint invitation of the League to Enforce Peace and the American Federation of Labor.

Oscar S. Straus presided over the January conference, which made vigorous representations to President Wilson, to Senator Lodge and Senator Hitchcock in favor of immediate ratification. A committee was appointed, consisting of Oscar S. Straus, Chairman; Hamilton Holt, Charles S. MacFarland, Frank Morrison, Herbert Myrick, William H. Short and Mrs. Philip North Moore, to reassemble the conference if it was considered expedient to do so.

The breaking off of the Senatorial bipartisan conference on Jan. 21 and Senator Lodge's decision to call up the treaty tomorrow, following Senator Hitchcock's announcement that he would call it up on Tuesday, induced the committee to reconvene the representatives of the national organizations in Washington tomorrow. A vigorous affirmative response to their suggestions came from all quarters.

Instead of the twenty-six organizations which sent delegations to the Jan. 13 meeting, between thirty-five and forty organizations will be represented at tomorrow's session. Former President Taft hoped to attend tomorrow's conference on behalf of the League to Enforce Peace, but an engagement detains him in the West. A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard, who is Chairman of the League's Executive Committee, will be here tomorrow in place of Mr. Taft. The fact that Senator Lodge and President Lowell have more or less "gotten together" on treaty questions lends special significance to the presence in Washington of President Lowell. Mr. Straus, in an interview tonight, made this statement to THE NEW YORK TIMES:

Straus Favors Any Compromise.

"Tomorrow's meeting will affirm, perhaps a little more positively than a month ago, that the people of the United States, irrespective of political affiliations, want the Peace Treaty ratified. They want it ratified, we thoroughly believe, with any reservations that will not require its resubmission to the signatory powers. Speaking entirely for myself, I believe that Viscount Grey's statesmanlike presentation of the case is sufficient to insure the United States that our European associates will accept a treaty with the Senate's proposed reservations. I cannot conceive—and again I am ventilating only my personal views—that, in the last analysis, the President will refuse to accept such a treaty as a constitutional majority of the Senate may eventually send to him.

"Of one thing I am irrevocably convinced. That is that the tens of millions of Americans who will be represented at tomorrow's conference have no terest in, and less patience with, the diplomatic niceties or terminological irrevelancies that statesmen in Washington are squabbling over. What the people want is ratification. They want the war ended in all formality. They want the peace era re-established as it has been re-established in Europe. They want the decks of Congress cleared for pressing domestic legislation. Above all they want set up without further delay such machinery for clinching our victory—namely, machinery for facilitating reconstruction and preserving peace—as the League of Nations provides. That is the great issue at stake after all. Just how it is accomplished I am certain the broad masses of our people care very little. They are certainly sick and tired of the endless waste of time that has ensued in the attempt to accomplish it."

Senate Democrats Waver.

The treaty fight, on the surface, presents the same perplexing and uncompromising aspects today as a month ago. It is just as much involved in factional and partisan politics as following the Jackson Day dinner of Jan. 8, when President Wilson opposed the Lodge reservations and insisted upon acceptance by the Senate with interpretative reservations only, and William Jennings Bryan urged surrender by the Democratic Senators to the Lodge reservations.

President Wilson, in his letter of Jan. 26 to Senator Hitchcock, which was read to the Democratic conference yesterday, indicated that his position had not changed since his Jackson Day statement was issued, although the letter was written before Lord Grey had spoken and defined Great Britain's position as one of tolerance toward reservations demanded by the Senate majority.

It became evident tonight from what THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learned from some leading Democratic Senators that several powerful representatives of the party were wavering and at no far-distant time would move in a way to break the present front on the treaty dispute. No active attempt will be made, however, it was indicated, until Senator Hitchcock, spokesman for the White House, has exhausted his efforts to get an agreement. These Senators, among whom may be included Senators Underwood and Simmons, while quite strong for a League of Nations, hold that the interests of the country and the entire world now call for such action on the treaty as will permit the return to peace conditions.

Senator Underwood has been selected by a group of conservative Democrats to lead the fight against the President if the administration offers or accepts no suggestions for a compromise which will lead to prompt disposition of the treaty wrangle. Senator Underwood is a firm believer in the benefits of the Leage of Nations, but he says he also believes just as strongly in government by the majority, and that, above everything else, the situation calls for peace. While he has not disclosed his plan to bring the different elements together, in the event of a continued deadlock, it is believed that he will sponsor a resolution to declare war with Germany at an end. He will also offer a compromise plan for the ratification of the treaty which will propose an acceptance of the Lodge reservations with slight modifications, unless the treaty is disposed of otherwise.

There are those familiar with the feelings of Democratic Senators and the mild reservationist group in the Republican ranks who are confident that when the treaty is again placed before the Senate tomorrow there will be developments that will ultimately force prompt action by the Senate on the treaty. Those making such predictions do not believe that the President will modify his attitude, but that sentiment and political strategy will bring about a break sufficient to win two-thirds of the Senate over to the modifications that the Foreign Relations Committee will report after the treaty is again referred to it upon the motion of Senator Lodge.

Bryan to Take a Hand.

William Jennings Bryan, according to his friends, is on his way to Washington and will make a determined effort to force his followers in the Senate to accept the final modifications offered by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The politics involved in the situation is worrying practical politicians in the Democratic Party. Some astute political diagnosticians profess to perceive in the persistence of the President to inject the treaty into the coming campaign rather than surrender to the Lodge reservationists the possibility that he may seek a third term or exert his influence to nominate for President one who holds steadfastly to his views on the League of Nations. As against such a course there looms William Jennings Bryan, who counsels acceptance of the Republican reservations and the creation of other issues such as the Government ownership of railways and prohibition.

President Wilson has given no indication of his preference in the Presidential race. It is believed by many now that the Administration hosts will be divided, with the oldtime politicians supporting former Secretary McAdoo and the more conservative elements behind Attorney General Palmer.

It is Mr. Burleson's efforts and his talk in the Democratic cloakrooms that has given rise to the report that there is an energetic movement under way to nominate McAdoo, with Herbert Hoover as his running mate. Mr. McAdoo is believed to have made himself invincibly solid with labor and Mr. Hoover is regarded as irresistible among the women voters.

The published statement that Senator Hoke Smith spoke in yesterday's Democratic conference in favor of acceptance of the Lodge program is declared to have been a mistake, as Senator Smith made no speech in the conference.

Illness of Senator Johnson.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who is ill at his home here with influenza, tonight was reported by his physician to be "about the same." The Senator has been confined to his bed for several days, but his condition was said not to be serious.

WIFE SHOOTS S. J. CUMMING.

Fires on Virginia Ex-State Senator in Hampton Street.

HAMPTON, Va., Feb. 8.—S. Gordon Cumming, former State Senator and brother of Dr. Hugh Cumming, recently nominated by President Wilson to be Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, was shot in the street last night by his wife, Mrs. Mittie Jester Cumming, while returning to his home.

It is reported tonight that he has a fighting chance for recovery. Mrs. Cumming fired five shots at close range, one entering her victim's neck and penetrating a lung. Another passed through the abdomen.

Mrs. Cumming is said to have asserted that she did not get enough to live on and that she would see to it that Mr. Cumming did not marry again. Mr. Cumming obtained a divorce from her, but her appeal was granted and a separation was ordered. Cumming first married Miss Waller of Old Point, who divorced him ten years ago. He has a child by each of his wives.

Parliament the greatest subject of the King is outside by the deliberate will of the people? I want to see that humiliation wiped out. Paisley can wipe it out next week."

Of Lloyd George Gardiner says among much more:

"When Lloyd George seized a moment of national delirium to snatch victory at the polls he made all that has followed inevitable. He silenced the nation. He chloroformed every independent voice that could catch the ear of the press and the attention of the country. He turned Parliament into a tied house filled with men who held their seats in virtue of holding their tongues. He substituted loyalty to his dictatorship for loyalty to the nation's interests. With Parliament hamstrung behind him and all effective criticism gagged, Lloyd George went to Paris and played the game of politics there with the life and death of the continent and with the hopes of humanity, leaving at home a mob of underlings without policy and without leadership to bring the affairs of the nation to the abyss where they now lie."

The only hope according to Gardiner is for men to save the State.

"When a mad driver," he says, "is in charge of an engine it's no use talking of changing the directorate of the line. You have got to change the driver or put him under control. Paisley can return to Parliament the biggest personal force outside it. It can give the nation a voice and a man. It is men alone that can save the State—clean men who will bring back clean politics, men who will not lie to the public, men to whom facts are sacred and principles are sacred and the honor of the nation is sacred."

It is for Paisley, concludes Gardiner, to show that democracy can choose wisely.

"Its choice is not between Asquith and Biggar, the Labor candidate; it is something infinitely greater. Its choice is between Lloyd George and Asquith."

The latest betting from Paisley is 2 to 1 on Asquith, 6 to 1 against Biggar, and 10 to 1 against MacKean, the Coalition candidate.

Lady Bonham Carter has not been sent away by her father, as the correspondent of a Coalition paper suggested would be necessary. On the contrary, she is dotting the "i's" and crossing the "t's" of her father's campaign. The Prime Minister hardly has been mentioned by name in any of Asquith's speeches. His daughter, however, in a speech today declared, "Wizardry is played out." It was said with a smile, and, says one correspondent, "the audience did not need the word Welsh before wizardry to understand."

Most newspapers devote more space to the words and deeds of Lady Bonham Carter than to those of her father. Local correspondents are divided in their opinions as to whether or not she is advancing her father's interests. One dispatch says she is obtaining many votes of women electors. Another asserts that she has exploded a bomb in the Asquithian camp by describing trade unionism as "a merciless machine in which every man is a docile, helpless cog." Where should we be without liberalism now, she asked, and herself supplied the answer, "between the devil and the deep sea, or more accurately, between the Coalition and the Labor Party."

"On the one hand," she continued, "we should have the Tory Party—it calls itself the Coalition, but the Liberal element in it is pure camouflage. On the other hand we should have the merciless machinery of the great trade unions, that machine in which every man is a docile, helpless cog, in which individual freedom and conscience and individual impulse and sympathy, have been eliminated, which recognizes only one great rule of mechanical, automatic solidarity. That would be a very dangerous world to live in between these two great clashing parties, one struggling to keep and the other struggling to get."

This frank speaking, it is predicted, is likely to create interesting developments. One Paisley correspondent telegraphs:

"There is nothing so dangerous in politics as the brilliant amateur, and the brilliant amateur is the most dangerous of all when she is a woman.

"On the publicity side of the campaign, an important aspect these days, Lady Bonham Carter has been of utmost service. Journalists found her bright and witty sayings their meat and drink, and camera men massed around her picturesque and picturesquely dressed presence.

"Her chaff of her father, of his questionable taste in ties and of his white sheet of penitence at women's meetings, though embarrassing to its object, is amusing and harmless, and her chaff of her father's old friend, Lord Haldane, and his spiritual home may even have been helpful; but on other days she made all her father's friends, and probably her patient father himself, sit up with a spring by an amazing attack upon the ticket system of voting in the trade union movement.

After reciting the points of her speech given above, the dispatch continues:

"Lady Bonnam Carter is not old enough to remember the anger with which the Liberals and workingmen of the country resented the late Lord Salisbury's description of trade unionism as a cruel organization, or she would have foreseen that anything of the kind coming from her would be a frightful blow at her father's credit."

The correspondent who makes this statement is an old, experienced political journalist, and if the poll should show that Asquith's hopes have been wrecked by his daughter's frankness another modern instance will have been provided of a wise old saw.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT OPENS TOMORROW

Nationalization of Coal Mines May Be First Controversial Question to be Taken Up.

LABOR WANTS AN ELECTION

Revised Home Rule Bill May Offer New Irish Plan—Speculation on a Labor Government.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—The British Parliament will be opened in State by the King on Tuesday. The members will plunge almost immediately into highly controversial topics, and there will possibly be an insistent demand for a general election.

The Prime Minister, David Lloyd George, will make a statement of the Government's proposals in regard to the coal mines during the debate on the address to the King, and it is considered likely that the Labor Party will reply by inviting the Government to decide the issue at the polling booths.

Lloyd George has declared against nationalization in a private interview he had with the miners' leaders. The miners, on their side, are going to have a special meeting of the whole Labor Party to consider what action to take. Some extremists will doubtless advocate calling a general strike to enforce nationalization. These, however, are believed to be in a minority, and the opinion prevails that the most the labor leaders will do will be to invite the Government to allow the country to settle the issue by means of a general election.

The Prime Minister's proposals are understood to involve some kind of a central control of the coal mining industry as a whole, accompanied by a system of co-operation between the owners, managers, miners and consumers. It will be interesting to see how near the proposals come to what the miners mean by nationalization. Nationalization, as interpreted by the miners, appears to be a remarkable harking back to the mediaeval organization of industry. Ownership of the mines by the State is, of course, the basis of their policy, but they have been driven into adopting guild socialism as their method of actually running the mines by the strong case their critics were able to make out against Government operation.

A New Kind of Control.

England had plenty of experience during the war of Government controls and bureaucratic red tape and is thoroughly sick of them, and the inefficiency of the telephone system and the extraordinary expense of operating the post office monopoly have been large quoted as reasons against any extension of Government activities in the industrial field. So the miners have had to parry attacks by concurring with every onslaught on bureaucracy and its methods and asserting that they are thinking of something entirely different. They want the mines controlled by actual expert miners and this, they argue, is not bureaucracy because it assumes every man with authority will have direct personal experience, and it is not syndicalism because co-operation in the management will be asked from the highest brain workers as well as manual laborers and mines will be run in the interest of the community, the employes only drawing fair remuneration. The apostle of this idea is a young man, G. D. H. Cole, the very reverse of the popular idea of a labor agitator. Just over 30, he is a graduate of Balliol, the most intellectual college at Oxford, and has been a Fellow of Magdalen, the most aristocratic. He has also been a professor of philosophy at Armstrong College, Newcastle, and is now Honorary Secretary of the Labor Research Department, of which Bernard Shaw is Vice Chairman, and is conducting an active Socialistic propaganda at the old universities.

His idea as explained to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is that each industry should be managed by a committee selected by men of all ranks and functions engaged in it. It would be elected democratically in the sense that every worker would have the same voting power as every other, but perhaps a certain proportion of the committee would be chosen from the manual laborers and a certain proportion from the managing element, while definite qualifications would be required for each job. The organization of these governing bodies would have to be modified for each trade but the one essential would be elimination of the shareholder who takes no active part in the business.

"Where, then would the capital come from?" the correspondent asked.

"From the State," was the reply. "But some industries need very little and turn it over quickly. All would be expected to pile up reserve funds for exceptional outlays and in case there was special need for a large sum, application would have to be made to Parliament."

Cole admits there will have to be some Government departments with supervision over industry, but he holds they will merely criticise and keep the work of the managing committees up to standard, and that will be a very different thing from bureaucratic operation and control. Asked about foreign trade, he replied:

"I don't believe that is a difficulty which requires an expert knowledge, as we are told it is in the case of the big industries like coal or textiles. We should work through an organization something like the "staples" of the Middle Ages. For example, we should have some centre in, let us say, New York, and we should send all our goods over to it and they would be distributed from there."

Use of Co-operative Societies.

As for the smaller industries, those that deal in a thousand miscellaneous articles, he held they could be sold through co-operative societies, which, he said, were gaining great strength on the Continent. They would, according to his idea, exchange such products as they had in bulk against British exports to the advantage of all concerned.

Foreign trade, however, is not giving Cole any anxiety at present, as the universal demand for goods is likely to be so large for many years that it will adjust itself. Cole advocates expropriation, not confiscation, of capital, and believes the ultimate extinction of private wealth will come by way of taxation.

"Of course," he said, "there is not the same social objection to small accumulations as there is to large fortunes. But if you raise the question of how will the widows and orphans of workers live, we reply that one of the main principles is that every industry must look after those engaged in it."

For this kind of organization the co-operation of "blackcoated" labor is evidently necessary, and the meeting of professional and clerical associations called on Saturday will, it is hoped by Cole, form a federation that may be ultimately enlisted by him in the fight for his cause.

Revised Home Rule Bill.

LONDON, Feb. 7 (Associated Press).—The financial situation, the question of nationalization of mines and railroads and the Irish problem are three of the most important subjects with which the session of Parliament opening on Tuesday is expected to grapple without delay.

Forecasts of King George's speech predict that it will be an unusually long and important pronouncement.

Premier Lloyd George is expected to begin the session with a review of the general state of Europe and of the British policy toward various developments such as relations with Russia and the Polish and Italian situations.

Among announcements expected at the opening session is a statement of whether the Government favors the proposed international conference for discussing the world's financial ailments. Confirmation also is expected of the Government's previous statements that Great Britain has not considered asking further loans from the United States.

The Home Rule bill probably will be brought forward at an early day, the Cabinet having overhauled it during the past week at conferences with Viscount French, Lord Lieutenant and Governor General of Ireland and James Ian MacPherson, Chief Secretary for Ireland. The bill may prove considerably different from that which had been expected. One proposal which is finding support in England is that it should be made an enabling bill rather than one which would impose a new system upon Ireland, leaving it to the Irish people to decide by some form of referendum whether they will accept it and try to put it into effect.

Heavy clouds appear to be gathering behind the Coalition Government owing to the steadily increasing power of the Labor Party. Some of the best informed politicians profess to see the "handwriting on the wall" that the formation of a new Ministry by the Laborites is only a question of time, and that the hour may strike within the next few months.

Viscount Haldane, who was one of the most conservative members of the old Liberal Government which brought Great Britain into the war and a close political friend of Herbert H. Asquith and Viscount Grey, threw a bomb into that group when he gave an interview declaring that "the Labor Party alone has a vision which will enable it to possess and serve the future."

Speculation as to the personnel of the next Cabinet advances Arthur Henderson, the Laborite leader, as a possible Premier; Viscount Haldane as Lord Chancellor, and Professor John Maynard Keynes, British delegate on the reparations sub-commission of the Peace Conference, and whose defection from the Peace Conference and book dissecting the Treaty of Versailles have made him one of the most prominent personages of the day, as Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The publication of these records will be resumed by The New York Times as soon as possible.

BELIEVE MARCONI CAUGHT SUN STORMS

French Wireless Men Conclude That Signals Were Not Sent by Instruments.

AND WERE NOT FROM MARS

But, They Assert, Violent Disturbances on Distant Planets Make Themselves Felt Here.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—French military wireless operators have come to the conclusion after co-ordinated study that the famous "wireless messages from Mars" are thunder storms in the sun. Since the question of untraceable and undecipherable messages was opened they have kept a close watch at all the receiving stations, working on the basis that if Mars was sending out Hertzian waves they would reach all the earth stations simultaneously. But they have found that these mysterious troubling messages do not come simultaneously or last the same length of time. Therefore they conclude they are not sent out by any instrument or power resembling the Marconi installation.

On the other hand, they have found that over certain areas what are called parasitic waves disturb messages when magnetic storms are going on, caused by sudden activity in the sun.

"When a star that lights up the earth indulges in any of its tremendous eruptions," one authority says, "it seems to send out waves into interplanetary space. When these reach our atmosphere they set up a magnetic disturbance which produces unrecognizable dots and dashes on the Marconi instruments."

Frenchmen are content enough with this marvel.

"It would be something extraordinary," they say, "if we could hear the people of Mars or any other planet trying to talk to us, but surely it is wonderful enough that we can hear a thunderstorm going on in the sun some hundreds of millions of miles away. Considering the force of the sun eruptions necessary to travel the distance, it is certain that we should never be able, without burning up the earth, to reply to any messages from Mars."

FOUR SEEK TRIP TO MARS.

American Soldiers and ex-British Flier; Unconditional Volunteers.

More volunteers who want to travel to Mars via Professor Goddard's super-rocket have sent letters to THE TIMES offering themselves as candidates. Peter P. Devlin of 591 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, who tested parachutes while a Lieutenant in the British Royal Flying Corps during the war, wrote that he would volunteer to go to Mars without restrictions or conditions. He said that he had once dropped 4,800 feet in a parachute in a Fourth of July celebration at Marion, N. Y.

Sergeant Joseph F. Montague, Private Charles Stevens, and Private F. C. Perez, stationed at Fort Slocum, wrote that they offered themselves "as pioneers in the first interplanetary flight of earth." In making their offer to go by rocket or any other way, they said they would impose no conditions.

JAPANESE INTERFERE WITH OUR SHIPPING

Rivalry in Yokohama Leads to Harbor Fights—Consul Demands Protection.

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

YOKOHAMA, Feb. 8.—For several weeks serious trouble has been developing in Yokohama harbor between Japanese steamship companies and the United States Shipping Board vessels, which have been calling in increasing numbers.

Last week a lighterage boycott was declared against the Admiral Line ships. Lighters intended for these vessels repeatedly were towed away half loaded and scattered about the harbor, because the business was given to an American formed lighterage company.

Yesterday the company obtained a number of lighters from Tokio. Last night a tug loaded with Japanese thugs armed with knives and clubs smashed their way on to the lighters and cut them adrift. The thugs then boarded the steamer Lake Gitano and seriously beat the American mate and a number of the crew. The thugs later visited the home of the Japanese foreman of the American Lighterage Company and murdered him.

Consul General Skidmore has sent a strong demand to the Japanese authorities for police protection for American shipping. Ambassador Morris is taking the matter up with the Tokio Foreign Office and with Washington.

There are now seventeen American cargo steamers in Yokohama Harbor, and there have been increasing signs of Japanese awakening to the seriousness of American competition in the Pacific.

NITTI PREPARED TO OUST D'ANNUNZIO

myself to evacuate Fiume, even by force if necessary," said the Premier. "A curious state of mind has been gaining strength in Italy. Instead of subverters, there are Conservatives who incite the army against discipline."

"Those who called themselves defenders of our institutions are actually undermining them. We are witnessing a revolting spectacle—generals allowing themselves to be captured while the Conservatives applaud.

"This is a cause of weakness. Nothing has more damaged the prestige of Italy than these facts, together with unbridled language by the Conservative leaders, which is imitated by the press. It is not America which refuses to lend to Italy, but it is Italy which is lowering her credit that prevents America from lending to us now."

Deplores Attacks on Foreign Lands.

Signor Nitti deplored the attacks on foreign countries and foreign rulers, especially America, saying: "I deplore the attitude of the Italian press in sowing the seeds of poison despite the censorship. This is so stupid."

"Yesterday Signor di Cesaro read a secret document, again proving that there is a Conservative who can accomplish revolutionary acts. I am glad that that document was brought to the Chamber by an opponent, as it shows with what idea I protected Italian interests in America.

"Did the Conservatives expect me to act like a Don Quixote? Did they expect me to declare war on America? I spoke as an honest man with perfect sincerity, making an appeal to the American sense of justice."

The Premier said that once the difficulties of these first years were over he was convinced Italy would be economically one of the strongest countries of Europe. He desired to gain the confidence of the Jugoslavs, adding:

"Some smile at this statement, but there has never been any high sentiment at which vulgar people have not smiled. We have common interests with the Jugoslavs and I consider them even now in a state of friendship with us, which must exist even against their will.

"We must avoid exaggeration, such as calling the Adriatic an Italian lake. In doing so we are committing a crime. Some have reproached me for not sitting tight and continuing to occupy the disputed territory. But do you know what it costs?"

The Socialist, Serrati, shouted "A hundred and fifty billions."

"The feeling prevails that America will not lend us money unless the war spirit is over, unless the money spent is employed in reconstruction. We must work to bring about true peace—not one for the victors, not one for the vanquished. We must forget all rancors and bring about in our foreign relations a broader sense of humanity."

There was loud applause at this, especially from the Catholics, to whom the Socialists cried: "All the same, you pray also for war."

The Premier went on:

"We must render it possible for the vanquished peoples to co-operate with us. A resumption of relations with Russia is of great importance, especially for us. I have done my best to re-establish relations with Russia, which has had a moderating effect on that country. Europe runs the risk of falling into decadence and ruin, if not animated by sentiments of humanity, if it does not take seriopus steps in the grave economic situation."

Incident of Secret Document.

The incident of the secret document read by Signor di Cesaro, alluded to in the Premier's speech, occurred during a debate yesterday on the Cabinet's foreign policy. Di Cesaro, attacking the Premier, asserted that the latter compromised the Fiume question, representing Italy as if on the point of bankruptcy and unable to resist. In support of this charge he read a telegram which, he said, Premier Nitti had addressed to Secretary of State Lansing, Oct. 21, 1919.

This telegram contained an appeal to the sentiment of justice in America with a view to obtaining the annexation of Fiume to Italy and stating it was useless to entertain illusions about the gravity of the situation in Italy, as the nation had reached the extreme limit of resistance. Refusal of the Italian aspirations, the message continued, might even lead to revolution.

"That is a very fine telegram," interrupted Premier Nitti, "but it is not quite exact. Tell me how you got it."

"I will tell you privately," responded the Deputy.

"No, you must say it to the Chamber," returned Premier Nitti.

Signor di Cesaro refused. The Socialists thereupon attacked him, saying: "He is the nephew of his uncle," apparently alluding to the fact that the Deputy is Baron Sonnino's nephew.

Deputy di Cesaro asked Premier Nitti whether it was true that on Jan. 17, when Paul Deschanel was elected President of France, Nitti found on his desk a sheet of paper in the handwriting of Premier Lloyd George, divided into two columns, one containing what Italy had already received and the other what was still under discussion. He further inquired whether the first column was headed, "Italian Sovereignty," and the next "The Day That Nitti Renounces That Sovereignty."

"That is not true," Premier Nitti responded.

The Deputy concluded by demanding application of the Treaty of London.

The Socialist Deputy Ciccotti then declared that after the collapse of Russia some persons had insisted on a revision of the compact of London with the view of insuring Fiume to Italy, but that Baron Sonnino had remained unmoved, insisting that Fiume must go to Croatia because it was impossible to conceive of the annihilation of Austria. He also criticised Baron Sonnino for not having negotiated with the Jugoslavs after Italy's victory and coming to an understanding with them which would have prevented Italy from being submitted to "impositions of the Allies." Sonnino, however, was a "monomaniac," he said, about the compact of London, so that Italy was forced to undergo "alimentary blackmail by the Allies."

"You have bled Italy to the advantage of the usurious imperialism of the Allies," he continued, "thinking to fight the militarist imperialism of the Central Empires."

"Tell us what we must do now," inquired Deputy Sembenelli.

"Send all Nationalists to the lunatic asylum," interjected Deputy Barberis.

Deputy Ciccotti concluded by asking Premier Nitti whether sudden Anglo-French support of the compact of London did not conceal a promise of Italy to join their alliance.

"We have taken no engagements," responded the Premier.

Deputy Gasparotto, a Nationalist, discussing Nitti's compromise on the Adriatic, said it would leave the Italian eastern frontier open to any enemy invasion. He declared he thought Nitti too remiss toward America and urged that the Government apply the compact of London as the best solution.

Nitti Triumphant Over His Foes.

ROME, Feb. 7.—Premier Nitti's fall has been predicted so often that it has almost become proverbial. When the odds against him are overwhelming and every one is saying his hours are counted, the Premier in some miraculous way succeeds in winning the day.

The public press has again attacked him fiercely these last few weeks for his attitude taken after the negative Jugoslav answer to the memorandum presented by the Entente. Nitti's enemies rubbed their hands with glee and predicted that after a statement on the Government's foreign policy the Chamber would ask for a vote, which would go against him.

The Premier spoke, delivering a strong, straightforward speech in which he told his opponents a few homely truths about the situation in which Italy finds herself. The atmosphere of the Chamber changed as if by magic. Nitti's foes retired disconcerted. No one dared ask for a vote, knowing the Cabinet would have a large majority.

The Premier again leaves for London, after gaining a marked victory at home, in the hope of at last definitely settling the Adriatic question.

D'ANNUNZIO SIGHS FOR EAST.

Calls West a Bank of "Ruthless Transatlantic Plutocracy."

FIUME, Feb. 6.—Gabrielle d'Annunzio, speaking at a banquet he had given in honor of the Japanese poet, Harukici Sciemoi, who is his guest, said:

"We wish to pay homage to this messenger of the Rising Sun, the envoy of that empire which every minute has awaited the whirr of my wings. More than once I have cried out:

"'Let us forget the West, which hates us and does not want us. Let us turn our backs on the West, which every day debases itself more, infects itself, dishonors itself in stubborn injustice and obstinate slavery. Let us separate ourselves from the degenerate West, which forgets the splendor of spirit and has become an immense bank in the service of the ruthless transatlantic plutocracy.

"'From the Fiume of Italy, gate to the East, let us hail that Far East which for seven centuries has been joining slowly but surely the Latins.'"

Speaking recently on a visit he proposed to make to America, Gabrielle d'Annunzio said:

"I yearn to reach America on wings. I will fly to America across the Pacific and land on your fair Pacific coast. When my task in Fiume is done and when Fiume is part of Italy's realm, I am going to Tokio through the clouds. Then I will look across that vast expanse of the Pacific, lift myself from this earth and start toward your land, your free America, stepping from island to island."

GERMANS PUSHING TRADE WITH FRANCE

Eager to Resume Old Business Relations—Importers Get Heavy Mail From Germany.

MEET PROPOSALS COOLLY

But the Advanage of Dealings With Mark Depreciated Is Not Spurned in France.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Since the Peace Treaty was ratified three weeks ago and business relations renewed between France and Germany every French importer's mail has been heavy with letters and circulars from German firms eager to resume the old relations. Whatever may be the uncertainties of the political situation, the German trader has lost no time getting to work. His efforts are so far, however, confined mainly to mail business, as few can obtain passports to come and push their trade personally.

Those few who have come have been courteously, if coldly, received. And for any coldness there is in their reception they have this comfort, that they get business just the same. The Frenchman is too much alive to the advantage of buying in marks to allow feeling to stand in the way of profit.

The large industrial syndicates are trying as far as possible to prevent the purchase from Germany of goods which can be manufactured in France and to confine purchases to necessities. At the same time they complain that a great deal of business is being done by English and American buyers in Germany who are selling in France and profiting both ways from the low exchange rates.

One of the greatest difficulties Frenchmen are faced with is the settling of prewar accounts. At the same time that is also one of Germany's greatest difficulties, for in most cases there is no disposition to do new business till old accounts are settled.

Uptown-Downtown

In large cities men go downtown to work—they are away all day.

Their little world is downtown until night—then it's uptown to home.

And in their homes it's usually uptown all day. Children and tradesmen, sewing, cooking, cleaning, visiting and perhaps a trip downtown to buy.

The average home is quite busy all day. The "lady of the house" has a real job, a varied and sometimes a complex job.

If you doubt it, stay home three days and watch.

For the home, the modern departmental women's magazine is a multiplex technical journal.

The gilded rolling pin and be-ribboned piano leg jest went out of fashion with the red heavies, the dickey and the congress gaiter.

The men downtown earn their money; the women uptown save and spend the family income with the not infrequent suggestion or counsel of the great women's magazines.

"Flu" Convalescents Gain Through Using Grapefruit

It's an interesting medical fact that the citrus acid of grapefruit and oranges produces in the system an alkaline condition ideal to combat the germs of "Flu" or colds. Your doctor or anybody's doctor will tell you this.

The best fruit is none too good under conditions of this kind. Deerfield Grapefruit and Oranges represent the highest quality, flavor and juiciness. This fruit is grown in the heart of the Indian River district of Florida. Every fruit is stamped with the name "Deerfield" and you can identify it when purchasing.

This fruit is valuable as a preventive, aiding in making your system resistant to the "Flu" germs. Order a box from your grocer to-day—cheaper and better that way.

LODGE PAYS TRIBUTE TO EINSTEIN THEORY

Sir Oliver Explains "Ether of Space" in Lecture in Shubert Theare.

HE AVOIDS ALL FORMULAE

British Scientist Takes Hearers to What He Terms "Boundary of Knowledge."

Discussing "The Ether of Space" at the Shubert Theatre last night, Sir Oliver Lodge took an audience, obviously not made up exclusively of learned mathematicians and physicists, to what he termed was the "boundary of knowledge." Without using a single formula the famous English scientist explained to his hearers, the majority of whom must hitherto have looked upon complicated theories as capable of explanation only by a bewildering jumble of equations, that ether, far from being beyond all conception, is the most substantial thing, perhaps the only substantial thing, in the universe.

"If this be true," Sir Oliver asked, "why have we been so long discovering it? I answer, just because it is so universal. Imagine a deep-sea fish at the bottom of the ocean. It is surrounded by water; it lives in water; it breathes water. Now, what is the last thing that fish would discover? I am inclined to believe the last thing the fish would be aware of would be water. And that is why we are so late discovering the ether of space.

"Experiment on the ether of space has failed because of a negative result, because all forces have passed through it unaffected and yield the same degree of force as was exerted at the beginning. Your own scientist, Michaelson, of Chicago, obtained this negative result, and here Einstein began with his relativity of space and time.

"I thought, then, that physicists were playing hanky-panky with space and time, but in 1915 Einstein brought gravitation into the scheme. Simon Newcomb found that the orbit of Mercury erred in its course forty-two seconds. Then the world woke up. Einstein no longer could be ignored, but he kept on working during the war. I don't know how he did, but I think he must have been a pacifist. At any rate, since he wrote from Zurich, we called Einstein by politeness a Swiss.

Records "Dramatic Triumph."

"Well, Einstein predicted that a ray of light passing through a field near a large body would be deflected. To prove this it was necessary to wait for an eclipse before photographs could be made of stars near the sun. Last May there was an eclipse when the sun was known to be backed by numerous stars, and the British sent an expedition to Africa, and the United States sent astronomers to Brazil. Both expeditions took numerous photographs which took time to measure.

"Now, if light is deflected by a massive body, it looks as if it had weight; so, on that principle, deflection could be worked out by Newton's astronomy. But Einstein's prediction was a deflection twice that. The result, after the photographs of the eclipse of last May were measured, in the opinion of astronomers, justified Einstein. It was a dramatic triumph.

"What is the meaning of this triumph? Is the death knell of ether sounded? Is a fourth or even a fifth dimension necessary to explain this warp or curvature in space? Is either bounded or unlimited? According to Einstein there is a third alternative. If space has a curvature, not only a ray of light but a straight line will be deflected, and you find yourself returning whence you came. You have completed the circuit without knowing it, although you thought that you went in a straight line.

"We are now reasoning out of our depth," remarked Sir Oliver, and his audience laughed with him. "But if it is not clear to us, we are in the same predicament as most mathematicians.

"It is possible that this disturbance in ether called light also has weight, but it is also probable that this disturbance in the ether of space will explain the electron as the unit from which matter is made. Einstein showing light deflected by gravity gives us a hint, but how that will be worked out I cannot say, for we have now reached the boundary of knowledge."

Sir Oliver began his discourse on what lies between the atom and what fills empty space. "We become aware of space," he said, "by muscular exertion free." On the other hand, we become aware of matter by an obstruction which requires muscular effort to move.

"To our senses," he admitted, "space is empty, yet I like to think of the ether of space as a substance which fills it without a gap, and ether is to be found everywhere if it exists at all. Newton realized the need of an ether and called it by that name."

Pain Beyond the Body.

French physicians, he explained, in experimenting on supersensitive patients found that their subjects were made aware of pain beyond the body, a phenomenon which he termed "exteriorization of sensibility." If the body has sensations beyond its existence, so, in the realm of physics a magnet has exterior force as it sweeps up iron. This, according to Newton, is not direct action, but rather due to some intervening medium which he called ether.

"The only action at a distance I know of," Sir Oliver said in digression, "is mental action, or telepathy, which is the action of mind upon mind. Thought is not carried by 'brain waves.' Wipe that idea from your minds. Thought transfer is not like any physical phenomena, but when I deny action at a distance I do not deny telepathy."

The action of gravitation, magnetism, electric force, he went on, requires some intervening medium. And Sir Oliver gave as an illustration of action by attraction that of a nurse pushing a perambulator.

"A horse and cart is a more obscure illustration, for you will say that the horse is pulling the cart. He is not. The horse is pushing the cart. The cart is attached to a collar, the horse's head is put through the collar—the horse is pushing the cart. The magnet also pushes; it so modifies the ether of space that the ether works behind the object that it causes attraction. When ether is modified by the proximity of the earth the result is gravity attraction.

Illustrating his claim that there is the medium for magetic force Sir Oliver passed a cane over a candy box on the table in front of him. "Would it be magic if I caused that box to move by passing this wand over it?" he asked, but his hearers were so rapt by this time that most of them expected anything might happen. He waved the cane again. The box moved; the audience gasped. Then he raised the cane above his head and the box left the table.

"When you see action of that kind," remarked Sir Oliver, "always look for the thread."

This thread, or intervening medium, he likened to the ether of space. In chemical affinity and cohesion, too, it is ether that holds matter together, he said. When it is admitted that light comes through empty space, Sir Oliver said the argument for the existence of ether becomes indispensable and that it becomes clear that the substance penetrates to the furthest confines of the visible universe.

"The properties of ether seem to be perfect. Matter is less so; it has friction and elasticity. No imperfection has been discovered in the ether space. It doesn't wear out; there is no dissipation of energy; there is no friction. Ether is material, yet is it not matter; both are substantial realities in physics, but it is the ether of space that holds things together and acts as a cement. My business is to call attention to the whole world of etherealness of things, and I have made it a subject of thirty years' study, but we must admit that there is no getting hold of ether except indirectly."

By way of another illustration, comparing matter and ether, Sir Oliver pictured a swarm of bees. "It differs from one bee, yet the swarm is made up of bees, so, matter is made up of atoms, atoms of electrons, and, perhaps, electrons are made up of ether. I consider the ether of space the one substantial thing in the universe."

MAGISTRATES TO MEET.

State's Lower Court Judges to Hear of Drug Evils.

The New York State Association of Magistrates, which comprises in its membership the judicial officers of all the lower courts of the State, will hold its eleventh annual meeting next Friday and Saturday at the Hotel Astor. Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright will make the opening speech at the conference. Other speakers will include Chief Justice Frederic Kernochan of Special Sessions, President of the association; Health Commissioner Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Dr. Charles H. Johnson, Secretary of the State Board of Charities; Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo, Manhattan Borough President Henry H. Curran, Miss Mary V. Clark of the Women's Prison Association, and Mayor James O'Connor of Utica.

A report of the Committee on the Drug Evil will be presented by Justice Cornelius F. Collins of the Children's Court.

GIRL FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

Edna Casey Discovered Lying in Street After Home Quarrel.

Edna Casey, 15 years old, of 947 Sheridan Avenue, the Bronx, was found by neighbors at 11 o'clock last night, lying unconscious from injuries, in the snow on the sidewalk in front of her house. After she had been moved to the Lincoln Hospital Policeman Charles Schnizler of the Morrisania Station found footprints corresponding to those of the girl on the roof of the five-story building.

The footprints on the roof stopped right above the spot where the girl was found. It was learned that the girl had quarreled with her mother earlier in the evening because her mother did not want her to go out.

SERVICE MEN PAID TO DATE.

Mailing of $23,562,420 to Disabled Veterans Ends December Payments.

WASHISGTON, Feb. 8.—Completing the task of mailing out December checks, totaling $23,562,420, the Bureau of War Risk Insurance announced tonight that issuance of compensation checks to disabled former service men had been placed on a current basis. Allegations have been made in the past that the bureau was in arrears in its issuance of checks.

The December checks, which aveaaged $268.93 per recipient, contained retroactive adjustment due to the Sweet law raising the compensation rate.

WORLD LEADERSHIP LOST, SAYS BAKER

America Has Abandoned Spirit of Chateau-Thierry and Argonne, Secretary Declares.

RESULT OF TREATY DELAY

Should Support Captain of Ship Now in Troubled Sea, He Tells Free Synagogue.

"We have lost the spiritual leadership of the world, and abandoned the spirit of Château Thierry and the Argonne," declared Secretary of War Baker in an address before the Free Synagogue in Carnegie Hall yesterday morning. He said that the country should have thrown itself enthusiastically into support of the Peace Treaty as soon as it was completed, instead of adopting a policy of doubt and delay which had brought its own reward.

Although Secretary Baker never mentioned the President by name, he alluded to him as the captain of a ship which carried the interests of mankind. "The captain stands fast," he went on, "and you and I, the crew, must gather around him."

Beginning his address with an appeal for recruits in the great social conflict now facing the world, Mr. Baker recalled two former post-war periods in American history, those following the Revolution and the civil war, when the people had suffered moral paralysis and had lost faith in their leaders.

"Now we are in the midst of a third critical period," he continued. "We have just emerged from a great war. There is nothing so sublime as the singleness of purpose with which America gave herself to the cause. Throughout the land there was a feeling that the country must be saved, and no one, young or old, thought of anything else but that. Then the war was over, and we were tired.

Says We Have Lost Confidence.

"Like an orator after his speech, America is riding home in a taxicab, fighting the war over in its mind, and, as it thinks, fighting it better. We have lost confidence in our own strength. We are scattered and tired. But we shall stop discussing the war and turn from a military to a social, political and moral conflict. We must perfect our life, make safer and sounder the relations between the worker and the employer, and see to it that the worker is recognized. This industrial conflict lies before us, and civilization must advance. My application for recruits now is not to carry muskets, but ideals, and to inspire and sustain the leaders in this new movement.

"Obviously, we cannot get far without some sort of treaty of peace. The fact is there are still a lot of wars going on in the world, and there is no general acceptance as yet that the 'war to end all wars' is really over. This has chiefly come through delay in ratifying the Peace Treaty.

"My opinion is that it never has made so very much difference whether language was expressed in these words or those words so long as there was a spirit in the whole. If we had thrown ourselves whole-heartedly behind the treaty as soon as it was signed and supported it with enthusiasm, we should have made the whole world sure of our spiritual adhesion. But we have lost the spiritual leadership of the world through our delay. We have abandoned the spirit of Château-Thierry and the Argonne and have adopted the spirit of the other critical periods of our history in doubting the strength of our democracy.

"Ultimately the burden of militarism will pass, but our duty in this hour is clear. The ship which carries the interests of mankind is now upon a troubled sea. We cannot say where the port is, but the captain stands fast. The crew—you and I—have faith in democracy. Let us gather around the captain and we shall ride out the storm. The harbor will be reached, and the future will be indeed a pleasant prospect to the children of men."

Message of Zionism.

Judge Julian W. Mack followed Secretary Baker with a speech on "Zionism and Its World Message." The proposed return of the Jews to Palestine, he said, did not mean that Jews would be compelled to leave any country and go there. It did mean that in the course of time 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 Jews would be the predominant element in Palestine, a thing impossible in any other part of the world, and that there would be again developed a Jewish civilization. Judge Mack closed his remarks with an appeal for subscriptions to the $10,000,000 Palestine Restoration Fund.

Secretary Baker spoke last night at a dinner of the Zionist Organization of America, held in the Hotel Astor, indorsing the movement for a Jewish homeland and paying tribute to the Jewish tradition. He said that his interest in the homeland plan began years ago, and long before he became Mayor of Cleveland.

"I learned long ago," he said, "and I think that it is important in the Zionist movement, that it is possible for a man to love the traditions of his childhood and his race, and to love the traditions of his language and his literature and religion, and to love them without the least detraction from the loyalty that he gives to the country of his birth."

Judge Julian W. Mack of Chicago presided. Another speaker was Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, of the New York Court of Appeals.

SAVED FROM 'REDS,' SINGER HERE A BRIDE

Mme. Lipkowska and Husband, Lieut. Bodin, Arrive by the Adriatic.

WEDDED TO HER RESCUER

Romance Follows Felucca Trip in Black Sea and Night Expedition to Succor Daughter.

Mme. Lydia Lipkowska, a Russian operatic soprano with the Boston Opera Company before the war, arrived yesterday from Cherbourg on the White Star liner Adriatic with her husband, Lieutenant Pierre Bodin, of the French cavalry. She told a romantic story of their first meeting in Odessa, when Lieutenant Bodin rescued her from the Reds, and their flight by night on a ship to escape the Bolsheviki.

"I was in Petrograd when the war broke out, singing at the Imperial Opera House, and my daughter, Aldenna, was attending school there," the singer said. "When the Russian armies went to the front the artists at the Opera House, including the dancers, gave performances for the benefit of the widows and orphans and continued to do so until the revolution in 1917. Up to that time living conditions in the capital had been possible. Coal and lighting were scarce and dear but could be obtained. The revolutionists did not interfere with people in the streets, but when the Bolsheviki got into power I fled to the Caucasus with my daughter, where we lived in peace until they came into that remote section of Southern Russia. Finally we reached Odessa and remained there until April, 1919, when the Bolsheviki entered at night as we left the port with the troops on a steamer for Constantinople.

"The Bolsheviki were very free with the money in Petrograd. A very small artist received 10,000 to 12,000 rubles a week and the masses, who knew nothing of music and had never entered a theatre in their lives, packed the Opera House at each performance, paying from 500 to 1,500 rubles for their seats. The sufferings of the Russian people under the Bolshevist rule cannot be realized by any one who has not visited the country and seen evidences of their cruelty at first hand.

"I wish my husband to tell you of our escape from Russia because my daughter and I owe our lives to him, as we should have fallen into the hands of the Reds if he had not taken us away."

Lieut. Bodin declared he had done nothing beyond his duty as a soldier of France toward a woman in distress.

"I had heard Mme. Lipkowska singing in Odessa for the widows and orphans of the war, but had never spoken to her until the night we were ordered to leave the Russian port, as the Reds were advancing in strong force and we could do nothing to stop them. I went to madame's hotel and warned her that she must flee at once and managed to get her out of the city dressed as a peasant woman with the aid of my brother officers. We had such a rush that it was impossible to go outside the city for Aldenna, who was living in a convent.

"After our arrival in Constantinople Mme. Lipkowska said she would make an attempt to get back to Odessa in disguise and rescue her daughter. We purchased a small fishing felucca, and six French officers disguised as Russian sailors, with myself as the Captain and a Black Sea pilot, started for Odessa, which we expected would take three days, but instead it was six and our provisions ran out.

"We landed at the port in the night and I and three officers with madame, who is now my wife, went ashore and managed to reach the convent, where we roused the people and got Aldenna safely away on board the felucca. From the Turkish capital we all returned to France together, and madame and I were married in Paris last September."

Relates Bolshevist Atrocities.

Lieutenant Bodin said the officers who entered Odessa last Fall after its evacuation by the Bolsheviki found traces of tortures and crimes too horrible to think of. Houses were found with bodies suspended from the beams in every room and in some of them, which evidently had been used as torture chamber, they discovered finger nails and teeth and hands, arms and legs thrown in heaps in the corners.

Major S. A. Pike, a British infantry officer on his way to Washington, said the question of the ownership of Saloniki was a problem that was puzzling the Allied Council in Paris.

"The French want it, the Greeks want it, and the Serbs want it because the fine new roads built during the war lead right into the heart of their country and give it an outlet to the sea," Major Pike said. "The fire which occurred eighteen months ago destroyed three-quarters of the city and was the biggest blaze that had been seen in Europe for twenty-five years. The French engineers talk of making a new city there with a subway system and big piers for shipping, with a four-track railroad into the interior."

Another passenger on the liner was W. G. Faulkner, special correspondent of The London Evening News, who has been commissioned by Lord Northcliffe, the proprietor, to bring about a closer relationship between the United States and Great Britain by means of motion pictures. Mr. Faulkner, who is accompanied by his wife and daughter, said:

"Through unification of ideas and closer relationship in aims and ideals of the two great English-speaking nations the trade interests of both should be greatly fostered. It is my belief that the 'movies,' which speak a language understood by all, are the greatest source not only of entertainment, but social harmony, ever known in the history of civilization.

"The British people want to know more of the American people and the only practical means of acquiring an intimate knowledge of each other is through the medium of visualization. Therefore why should not America and England exchange ideas through this medium?"

Has Message from Northcliffe.

Mr. Faulkner added that he had a message from Lord Northcliffe to Americans on a closer bond between the two countries. This he will make public on Tuesday at a luncheon to the representatives of the American motion picture industry. With him on the Adriatic was Arthur Levey, an American motion picture exporter who proposed the idea to Lord Northcliffe.

Commissioner David C. Lamb of the Salvation Army Headquarters in London arrived on his way to New Zealand and Australia via Canada, accompanied by Lieut. Col. Charles Taylor. He said his object was to inquire into economic conditions before sending out any more emigrants to those countries. He added that labor conditions in England were better and the majority of the demobilized soldiers had obtained jobs. It was more difficult, he said, for the young officers, who refused to take subordinate positions. Many of these, he thought, would emigrate.

J. F. Byrnes, who was on the steps of the Reichstag in Berlin on Jan. 9 when the firing began in the uprising on that date, said the number of killed was far more than had been reported in the cables. The demonstration was made by the Socialists and Bolsheviki, he said, and when the military turned the machine guns on the mob he took cover. The hotel proprietors in Berlin, he added, had raised their rates 1,000 per cent. in some cases to make up for the depreciation of the German mark. The wharves at Antwerp were loaded with goods for the peoples of Central Europe, who were in dire need of them, he said, and no freight was being moved when he passed through the city.

Samuel Vauclain, President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, returned from a trip to Europe accompanied by his daughter Constance. He said the American engines made in Philadelphia for the war were doing good work in peace time. You could easily tell a Baldwin locomotive because it would be drawing a train three times as long as the ordinary French train.

Baron John Mannerheim, known as the "Swedish wood-pulp king," arrived on the liner to confer with buyers of wood-pulp and make a trip into Canada. He said that if the freight rates were lower Sweden could assist this country in helping out the print paper shortage.

Another passenger was Samuel A. Wallace, an American, who took charge of big industrial plants in England for the Government three years ago and managed them successfully. He was the head of Woolwich Arsenal, the Enfield Small Arms factory and the Slough Transportation factory, and had 637,000 employes under his control. The factory at Slough covered 649 acres of ground and turned out thousands of motor transports during the war.

Chief Steward A. L. Gosling of the Adriatic said the people in England were rationed to an ounce of butter per head each week, with control butter at two shillings and sixpence, but could buy fresh butter at four shillings a pound when it was offered for sale. Sugar was rationed, half a pound per head per week, he said. There was plenty of meat, he added, and the Government wanted the people to eat more of it, but they did not do it because they had become accustomed to going without during the war.

The Adriatic had 1,000 passengers. According to Captain J. B. Ranson, the voyage was fairly fine and uneventful.

RECTOR FACES TROUBLE.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—Latest developments in the elopement and wedding of Laurens Morgan Hamilton and Mrs. Gertrude Warren indicate trouble for the Rev. Charles V. Brine, rector of Christ Church, Portsmouth, N. H., who married the couple.

It is said that unless it can be definitely established that Hamilton's bride is not a divorced woman the rector must stand trial before the Episcopal Bishop of New Hampshire, as there is a canon of the Episcopal Church which forbids the marriage of divorced persons, except for social reasons, and then only on proof.

The canons of the Episcopal Church provide that a clergyman before marrying a divorced person must see a legal document prepared by an attorney known to the clergyman and resident of the diocese, showing that the party to be married was the injured party in the divorce action. This document must then be submitted to the Bishop for approval.

Bishop Parker received no such document, nor did Rector Brine, so far as is known. The only obstacle in the way of this trial is proof that Mrs. Hamilton is not the Mrs. Gertrude Warren who was twice married and once divorced.

CALLS JAPAN CHINA'S HOPE.

Forum Speaker Says Powers Will Do Less Than Empire.

Speaking last night at the Community Forum of the Church of the Messiah, Dr. Gilbert Reid, for many years a resident of China, said it appeared that the only thing left for China to do was to negotiate directly with Japan concerning Shantung. This was his advice to the Chinese, he said, in spite of their sentimental protests against such direct dealing.

Dr. Reid argued that China probably could gain more by a friendly appeal to Japan than by hoping for aid from any of the Powers. To support this assertion he pointed out the bestowal of the German rights in Shantung on Japan.

Mr. Ta Chen, a student at Columbia University, objected to the award of Shantung to Japan on many grounds, chief among them being that two of the main lines of communication between North and South China would be controlled by Japan and the third threatened.

EXTRADITION LIST DELIVERED IN BERLIN

Cabinet Considering That and Two Allied Notes Officially Presented to It.

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—The allied list of war criminals and the covering letter accompanying it were handed to Premier Gustav Bauer at 9 o'clock Saturday night by M. de Marcilly, the French Chargé d'Affaires. A letter from Premier Millerand accompanied the note and list, explaining the new procedure of the Allies as the outcome of the refusal of Baron Kurt von Lersner to transmit the list to the German Government.

Premier Bauer expressed to the French Chargé the Government's disapproval of von Lersner's action.

The Cabinet is sitting today to discuss the allied demands.

The covering note says that not all Germans guilty of infractions of the laws of warfare are included in the list; but for reasons of practicability only those are cited to whom the greatest responsibility attaches. The allied powers, however, do not propose amnesty for those not included, but reserve the right to prosecute them in the event that they are apprehended in their territory. Possession of all German documentary evidence and access to the archives are also demanded to facilitate proscution.

In a supplementary note the allied powers reply to the German communication of Jan. 25, which explained Germany's reasons for not carrying out the extradition provision. Premier Millerand, in a letter to Gustav Bauer, intimates that he does not hold the German Government responsible for Baron von Lersner's action in quitting Paris, because he assumes taht Germany will not attempt to evade a treaty obligation to which its signature was affixed.

Official quarters thus far have declined information regarding the size or nature of the list.

One of the Germans demanded by Poland for war crimes is Herr von Kries, Vice President of the Prussian Diet. Herr von Kries was chief of the civil administration of the occupied districts of Poland during the war.

A secret meeting of army and navy leaders a month ago, in anticipation of a demand for extradition, compiled a set of regulations for common action. These instructions, which are signed by Generals von Heeringen, von Gluck and Falkenhayn, as well as others, declare that it is no violation of honor for one to place himself outside the pale of seizure by his own Government or the Entente. Therefore, officers must refuse to surrender, refuse to recognize the legality of a foreign court and do nothing in the shape of personal defense or otherwise, acknowledge such a court, but make the following common declaration in the German language:

"I have merely done my duty as a German soldier. As such I refuse to recognize a foreign court and also decline to make any further statement."

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—There is no change in the attitude of the Government toward the allied demand for the surrender of war culprits. The leaders of the parties forming the Government met today and discussed the possibility of Chancellor Bauer and other members resigning from the Cabinet as having been too conspicuously identified with the signing of the Peace Treaty. In that case, it was urged, Philip Scheidemann, who resigned rather than sign, would be Bauer's logical successor. Others contended that no change was necessary, because if the Entente should insist on its present demands the reins would slip from the Ministers' hands no matter who they were and everything soon would be chaos.

Herr Scheidemann, who was present, said that the Government was between the devil and the deep sea. If the extradition demands were acceded to, he said, there would be hundreds of risings which no German Government could suppress because the military forces themselves would be found among the rebels. That would be only the beginning of civil war in its worst form. If Germany refused the Entente's demands, he said, it would give the Allies, especially France, a free hand throughout Germany and would inevitably lead to bloodshed, because no German Government would have the power to restrain the outraged feelings of the people.

In this dilemma, he said, all that the Government could do was to make every effort to induce the Entente to consent to some modus vivendi. If it failed, then the Government must hold out against whatever might be Germany's fate and not surrender to the Independents or anarchy.

One of the leaders reported a conversation which he said he had had with a certain high member of the French commission who said that nobody would hereafter believe that Germany intended to execute the peace treaty if the first demand based upon that treaty met with a blank refusal. It would be said, he continued, that Germany from the beginning had meant to break the engagement solemnly undertaken by the signing of the Peace Treaty.

To this Herr Scheidemann replied that his party certainly intended to carry out faithfully all the conditions imposed upon Germany so far as possible, but to accomplish the impossible the Allies must look to some deity, not to man. Regarding the charge of dishonesty implied by the Frenchman, he said he could only say that if Germany had not been fraudulently led to believe in a peace based on President Wilson's Fourteen Points no such situation as the present would have arisen.

PARIS PRESS PESSIMISTIC.

Most Papers See Little Hope of Germany's Giving Up Culprits.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—The more prominent names on the extradition list are published by the newspapers this morning. Most of them adopt a pessimistic attitude regarding the probability of Germany giving up the accused persons, and virtually all the papers dwell upon what one of them terms "the change in policy of Lloyd George."

The Matin says:

"Asking for the extradition of the Generalissimo, the former Chancellor and the Admiral is an act to which the high allied command would probably not have subscribed. Unless the delivery of the former Kaiser is exacted from Holland, von Hindenburg, Bethmann Hollweg and von Tirpitz can hide behind his responsibility. Germany can plead inability to arrest the culprits."

L'Homme Libre says:

"This is the most critical phase of the execution of the treaty. German resistance is assuming an intensity heretofore unknown."

L'Oeuvre comments tersely:

"The allied Governments hesitatingly are requesting the extradition, and Germany is unhesitatingly refusing."

"It is certain," says the Petit Parisien, "that as long as the officers and diplomats of the former régime remain all-powerful in Germany we cannot hope for sincere adhesion to the Treaty of Versailles."

TRYING TO DETACH ONE OF THE ALLIES

Erzberger Reported to Have Offered "Sacrifices" to Avoid Yielding War Culprits.

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 9.—Germany has been trying to deatch one of the Allies from the extradition demand by offering to conclude a treaty with that power, according to a statement attributed to Mathias Erzberger, German Vice Premier and Minister of Finance, by The Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent. He is reported as saying:

"I have gone so far as to be ready to purchase the renunciation of this surrender demand by the Allies at the price of sacrifices of other kinds. I have negotiated with one allied power, declaring myself ready to conclude the negotiations if this power is willing to bring its influence to bear over the other Allies. Nnfortunately, the assurance given to one of my Ministerial colleagues and myself has not been kept."

The Daily Mail correspondent learns that the negotiations were of a technical nature and did not conflict with the spirit of the Peace Treaty, and that the German Government supposes the negotiations have been reported to the other Allies.

FIRE HITS HARD BUT DOES NOT HALT
The Halifax Herald

HALIFAX, Canada, Feb. 8—Shortly after midnight fire broke out in the lithographing department in our job printing office and the tons of water that poured down through the building caused serious damage to our newspaper plant. Although seriously inconvenienced we will be able to publish our papers tomorrow and take this opportunity of assuring our advertisers that the publication of The Halifax Herald, The Evening Mail and The Atlantic Leader will not be interrupted.

Falling and rolling into the deepest snowdrift is one of the joys of being at a roly-poly age of anywhere on that path of up to six.

Toddlers and how to keep them rosy-cheeked and in the bouncing spirits of perfect health claim our attention now. Something fuzzy-wuzzy and warm that keeps both pink ears from the nippiest of winds and protects them from the most sudden of tumbles, is what really helps to make winter memories pleasant for both mother and the little ones.

Mothering all the youngsters of snowball throwing ages is usually a strenuous task. But this store has had a lot of experience in that line and is ready for more. Here are some helps and many of the snow and cold-defying articles listed below are greatly reduced in price. And they are, oh, so warm and ever so light in weight and snug and yet free enough to allow the most energetic and active snow fun.

Slip-on sweaters of all wool, with sailor collars, $6.49

Sweaters in coat styles, belted, and with convertible collar to snugly button under the chin, $7.49

Leggins with reinforced heels, in sizes 5 to 6, 94c

CHICAGO RADICALS MEET IN PROTEST

Rabbi Judah Magnes One of Speakers Who Denounce Restrictions on Free Speech.

WANT POWER FOR MASSES

Fifty Operatives of the Department of Justice Watch the Proceedings and Hear the Speeches.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—As a protest against the alleged restrictions on free speech, a mass meeting was held today at the Coliseum, participated in by members of the labor unions and radicals in about equal numbers. Incidentally fifty operatives of the Department of Justice watched the proceedings. John Fitzpatrick, leader of the Chicago Federation of Labor, acted as Chairman.

On the speakers' platform were the leaders of every radical organization in the city, and prominent among the speakers was Rabbi Judah Magnes of New York.

"The old and glorious America made its first utterance to the world in the Declaration of Independence," declared Rabbi Magnes. "It maintained the right of the people to alter or abolish existing Governments and to institute new ones. But it has become treasonable to give utterance to such thoughts in the America of today.

"We answer that fundamental changes are needed in the world today fully as much as when the Declaration of Independence was written.

"Economic dictatorship must be taken out of the hands of the small oligarchy of big business men and their satellites, lawyers, teachers and clergymen, and the power put in the hands of those to whom rightfully it belongs—the masses, who work with hand and brain."

Rabbi Magnes was followed by Senator J. I. France of Maryland, Scott Nearing, Sidney Heilman and Duncan McDonald.

ASKS WILSON INDORSEMENT.

Palmer Appeals to Missourians to Elect Supporter of His Principles.

Special to The New York Times.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Feb. 8.—With the special Congress election in the Third Missouri District one week away, Attorney General Palmer last night asked an audience of 1,500 to indorse the man who stood for the principles of the Administration and the League of Nations.

"The hope of the world has been blasted by the jealousies of men who hold their political fortunes above the world's need," he asserted. "The Republicans will come out in the Fall and say they've saved America by the reservations. That's what they are getting ready for. Why, President Wilson knows more about the Constitution, the law of the land and it's life, in one day than these Senators will ever learn in a lifetime."

Influenza and bad roads will play a part in the election. While outwardly the campaign committees of both parties appear confident of success, they admit privately these factors will cut down the vote.

TWENTY-FIVE SAVED FROM THE BRADBOYNE

Steamer Believed to Have Foundered at Sea With the Rest of Her Crew.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 8.—The British steamer Bradboyne, from New York for Cherbourg, is believed to have foundered in mid-Atlantic, and loss of life is feared, according to radio messages received here tonight. The British steamer Oxonian, from New Orleans for Liverpool, reported that she had rescued twenty-three of the crew, and the British steamer Monmouth reported picking up two of the crew.

The Bradboyne registered 3,100 tons.

PRINCESS ANNE STICKS.

May Be Necessary to Lighter Cargo, Say Rescuers.

The Old Dominion steamship Princess Anne, which grounded at 2 A. M. Friday morning off Rockaway Point in a snowstorm, was still fast on the West Bar last night, but is in no immediate danger. The captain of the wrecking tug Rescue, which is standing by, said it may be necessary to lighten some of the cargo today. A start will be made to pump the water out of No. 3 hold, he said.

There are only forty of the crew on board, and the life-saving crews make a trip out daily to see that everything is all right. The captain of the Rescue hopes to get alongside the stranded steamship today.

The condition of Captain Frank Seay, master of the Princess Anne, who is suffering with a heavy cold and injuries to his knees, was reported by his wife last night to be much improved. Captain Seay, who lives at 275 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, will require several weeks' rest before he can recover the use of his knees, she said.

MORGAN RUMOR DENIED.

Will Not Form "Worldwide Steel Trust," Firm Member Says.

A report that J. P. Morgan had gone abroad to organize "a worldwide steel trust" was branded yesterday as untrue in every respect. Mr. Morgan spent the day at his home in this city and, it was stated for him, does not contemplate any trip overseas in the immediate future.

"There is no truth in that story," said a member of the Morgan firm last night, "and I deny it in toto."

The report which was credited with arising out of the speculations of "British industrial leaders," hazarded the guess that Mr. Morgan was negotiating with Italian steelmasters. It was also stated that the plan under contemplation provided for an allotment of the world's steel trade, in order to eliminate competition.

PETITIONS FOR HITCHCOCK.

Nebraskans Wonder if Bryan Will Oppose Senator for Presidency.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 8.—Petitions for the nomination of Senator Hitchcock, Senate minority leader, for President, will be placed in circulation n Nebraska tomorrow.

The attitude that Bryan will take toward the Hitchcock candidacy is a subject of lively interest. It is known that he plans to control the Nebraska delegation, though it is reported that he is undecided as to whether he will present himself as a candidate either for delegate or the Presidential nomination.

Under the courtesy system no other candidate will compete for Nebraska against Hitchcock, and Bryan must either come forward himself or sit supine. Hitchcock has defeated Bryan twice in contests in Nebraska.

LABOR OPENS FIGHT TO DEFEAT ITS FOES

forces in defense of their rights and ideals.

"Conscious of its responsibilities, impressed by the grave problems resulting from the great war, the American Federation of Labor at its annual convention in June, 1919, adopted a reconstruction program. This program defined the essential industrial policies and legislative enactments required to establish a full measure of justice and opportunity for labor.

"Because of grave emergencies which arose since that convention, it became imperative that the representatives of organized labor and of farmers should assemble and confer for the purpose of guarding their rights and liberties as free men and citizens. On Dec. 13, 1919, a conference of representatives of labor and of farmers met in Washington, D. C.

"This conference expressed 'labor's grievances, protests and demands.'

Says Its Program Was Scorned.

"No favorable legislative action upon the recommendations contained in the American Federation of Labor reconstruction program, or those expressed at the December conference, has been taken by Congress. Instead, many Congressmen have endeavored to enact legislation providing for compulsory labor. Despite the patriotism and sacrifice of the masses of labor of America during the world war, under the guise of anti-sedition laws, the effort has been made to repress free association, free speech and free press.

"Scorned by Congress, ridiculed and misrepresented by many members of both Houses, the American labor movement finds it necessary to vigorously apply its long and well-established nonpartisan political policy.

"Confronted by a succession of hostile Congresses, the American Federation of Labor, in 1906, announced its historic 'Bill of Grievances.' This was followed by a vigorous and successful nonpartisan political campaign. In 1908, 1910 and 1912, the same program was energetically applied. As a result, many of labor's enemies in Congress were defeated and all of the essential legislation in 'Labor's Bill of Grievances' of 1906 was enacted.

"Constructive legislation has never been so necessary as at present. Never has it been so essential to secure the defeat of labor's enemies and the election of its friends and supporters.

"Sinister forces are already actively engaged in efforts to confuse and nullify labor's political power. Their object is to divide the labor vote so that the election of reactionaries and enemies of labor will be assured. Unless labor holds steadfastly to its non-partisan political policy, the enemies of labor will be successful in their efforts. Labor cannot, labor must not, permit its political strength to be divided in the present crisis. Organized labor owes allegiance to no political party. It is not partisan to any political party. It is partisan to principles—the principles of freedom, of justice and of democracy.

"It is the duty of trade unionists, their friends and sympathizers and all lovers of freedom, justice and democratic ideals and institutions, to unite in defeating those seeking public office who are indifferent or hostile to the people's interests and the aspirations of labor.

"Wherever candidates for re-election have been friendly to labor's interests they should be loyally supported. Wherever candidates are hostile or indifferent to labor's interests, they should be defeated and the nomination and election of true and tried trade unionists or of assured friends should be secured.

"Complying with the instructions of the last convention and the Labor and Farmer Conference of Dec. 13, 1919, the American Federation of Labor announces its determination to apply every legitimate means of all of the power at its command to accomplish the defeat of labor's enemies who aspire for public office, whether they be candidates for President, for Congress, for State Legislatures or any other office."

POET AT ASCENSION FORUM.

Vachel Lindsay Reads His Verses—Dr. Grant to Have Brief Absence.

Bishop Charles Sumner Burch's order prohibiting radical speeches at the Sunday night forums at the Church of the Ascension at Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street, was observed last night when Vachel Lindsay, the poet, addressed an audience which almost filled the church. He read selections from his "Golden Whales of California and Other Rhymes in the American Language." Instead of asking questions from the floor, as was formerly its custom, the audience handed written questions to the presiding officer. Mr. Lindsay, by request, recited his "Congo" and his verses "In Memory of Joyce Kilmer."

Former United States Assistant District Attorney Harold A. Content of the Ascension vestry, who presided, announced that Dr. Grant was going out of town today for his health but would return before Sunday.

Canada's Net Debt $1,900,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Feb. 8.—The Dominion financial statement for January shows Canada with a net debt of $1,900,000,000. The current revenue for ten months of the fiscal year was $288,230,911, being $17,000,000 more than ordinary expenditure. For the ten months the war expenditure was $298,815,088. At the present rate the revenue for the fiscal year ending with March should be nearly $350,000,000, the largest in the history of the Dominion.

ESCAPES DEATH IN SUBWAY.

Girl Dodges Wheels and Is Only Bruised by Trucks.

Josephine Matrozzo, 19 years old, of 248 Mott Street, slipped and fell from the platform of the Lexington Avenue subway station at 110th Street at 8 o'clock last night when a southbound train was pulling into the station.

Hearing the shrieks of others on the platform and seeing the girl on the tracks, Motorman Louis Rutoon threw on the brakes, but could not stop the train until the first car and part of the second had passed completely over the girl. When the train came to a stop, however, she was calling loudly for help.

Policeman William Hood of the East 104th Street Station telephoned to Hook and Ladder Company No. 43. After some minutes the girl was pulled up in the space between the front and second cars and lifted on the platform. The wheels had not touched her. Had she remained perfectly still after falling she might have escaped entirely uninjured. As it was she suffered severe bruises, lacerations and possible internal injuries from contact with the trucks, which run twenty-three inches above the roadbed. The girl was taken to the Harlem Hospital for treatment for her injuries, which are not believed to be serious.

Girl Leaves Home After Quarrel.

The police of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station were asked last night by Mrs. May Nunziato of 315 West Sixty-fourth Street to send out an alarm for her daughter Ledre, 14 years old, a schoolgirl, who left home on Feb. 1 and has not been seen or heard from since. The girl left her home, Mrs. Nunziata told the police, after a quarrel, when her daughter insisted on giving up her studies and going to work. The mother said the girl borrowed $25 and she believes her daughter has left the city.

THE ETON COAT-DRESS
IS NEW FOR SPRING and FOR MISSES

The Eton Silhouette is Characteristic of Youth
The Eton Fashion is Symbolic of Springtime

THE dusky Indian maidens who, many years ago, walked with silent-slippered feet over the woodland trails, practiced symbolism in their simple dress. Blue beads told of the sky, green beads of the grass, red ones of the life blood, and the brown background of their leather garments represented the Earth, mother of all things.

Today the Misses' Dress Shop Introduces
A Fashion Symbolic of Spring

It is the Eton Coat-Dress, which, where the saucy little jacket-bodice parts from the skirt, reveals the sparkle of brocade or the gleam of color shining through—like the brightness of Spring seeking the sunshine!

The Eton Coat-Dress is a tailored frock for immediate wear, fashioned of navy blue tricotine, Poiret twill or serge, here with a blouse of checked taffeta, there with a vest of metallic brocade, an accordeon pleated skirt, a skirt with improvised tiers, a short sleeve, a girdle of embroidered ribbon, a sash of satin—smart in every variation.

INTEREST ON LOANS PUZZLES CONGRESS

Inability of Allies to Meet Payments Due United States a Serious Problem.

RIGHT TO DEFER UNCERTAIN

Treasury Officials and House Committee Seeking an Equitable Solution of the Question.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The most difficult interallied financial problem of the war confronting Congress is that of whether the payment of interest on the $9,500,000,000 loans to the allied Governments made by the United States during the war shall be postponed, according to Treasury officials and Ways and Means Committee members, who have been considering the best step to take to preserve accord among the Allies and yet conform to sound business procedure.

For more than two months Treasury officials have been pleading with the Ways and Means Committee to give a decision as to the law involved in the solution proposed by the former in the case of foreign loans. When Congress reconvened in December, Secretary Glass informed the Ways and Means Committee that his advisory council had given him an opinion that the Secretary of the Treasury had ample authority under the loan acts to delay interest payments on the foreign loans and to refund the notes at hand into long-time bonds.

Mr. Glass said he felt confident of his right to proceed without additional legislation, yet he hesitated to take such an important step if the Ways and Means Committee considered enabling legislation necessary for the negotiations over the delayed interest and the maturity of the bonds that would be given by the foreign countries for the 5 per cent. short-term notes.

Interest a Problem.

In the conferences held between Treasury officials and the Ways and Means Committee the former have not been able to present a definite plan of action. The great difficulty met has been to provide for interest on the deferred interest. The interest amounts to $475,000,000 a year, and unless interest is charged on the deferred interest this Government will suffer a loss of many millions at the end of a period of fifteen or twenty years. One reason why the Treasury officials have been so indefinite is the lack of information from the foreign countries as to their ability to meet payments.

While officials of Great Britain have not proposed any plan for an adjustment of the terms of the notes and the interest, the American Government has learned unofficially that the British fiscal authorities are suggesting that no interest at all should be paid and that the United States should assume the interest charges as its part of the war debt. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Albert Rathbone, who has been in England for several months, has suspended his negotiations with the British Government, pending a plan of adjustment by Congress, or until England submits a proposal that can be laid before Congress.

Opinion in the Ways and Means Committee is divided as to whether the Treasury has authority of law to defer the interest payments or refund the notes into long-time bonds. At the meeting last week the committee was evenly divided on this question, and a subcommittee, composed of Representatives Fordney, Kitchin and Green, was named to continue the conferences with the Treasury and report to the full committee tomorrow.

Bonds for Interest Suggested.

There is no disposition by members of the committee to criticise the Treasury for such deferring of the interest payments as was necessary. The real question involved is whether this Government shall defer the interest payments for, say, a period of three years or more, and make no provision for securing interest on the deferred interest. One suggestion has been made that if the interest is deferred for three years, this and the interest on the deferred interest shall be added to the principal, and bonds representing the principal and deferred interest, with interest thereon, be issued for a period of twenty-five years.

As this question has a direct bearing on the rate of exchange and, therefore, on business intercourse between the United States and the foreign Governments involved, the Ways and Means Committee and the Treasury officials are proceeding with the utmost care, with the idea of doing what is best for all. The matter will come before the committee this week, with indications that a bill will be framed authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to conclude the negotiations along definite lines.

Some members of Congress say the transaction is a purely business one, and that with taxes higher in the United States than elsewhere, and economies enforced here, it would not be wise to forego the payments of interest, although the easiest and most lenient terms should be imposed on the countries unable to meet their present obligations.

SAYS SOVIET FOE SLEW CZAR

Purpose to Discredit Bolsheviki, Asserts Paper, Reporting Trial.

The murder of the Czar and his family was engineered by Yakhontov, ex-member of the Ekaterinburg Soviet, for the purpose of discrediting the Soviet régime, according to an account of the trial of Yakhontov and his accomplices, published in the Moscow newspaper Pravda and reprinted in Soviet Russia, organ of the Soviet Bureau in New York.

Yakhontov, it was said, chief of the twenty-eight defendants at the trial conducted by the Bolsheviki, "admitted that the murder of the ex-Czar's family was organized by him, for the purpose of discrediting the Soviet régime in the interest of the Left Social-Revolutionaries, to which he belonged."

The murder was first attempted at Tobolsk, but the guards prevented it from being carried out, according to the Bolshevist version, but at Ekaterinburg, when confusion reigned among the Soviet authorities, due to the approach of the Czechoslovaks to the city, Yakhontov, as Chairman of the extraordinary commission, issued the order for the murders.

"In his evidence," the account continued, "Yakhontov specially emphasized the last words uttered by Nicholas Romanoff, 'For my death my people will curse the Bolsheviki.'"

Yakhontov was the only one of the defendants found guilty of murder, and he was sentenced to be shot. Several others were found guilty of robbing the victims and they were also sentenced to be shot. The others were acquitted.

HYLAN BARS TRUCKS FROM CITY STREETS

becomes a positive order to the extent of forcing the stoppage of other sorts of haulage.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, announced that it was upon his initial suggestion that the definite order was issued, since he felt it to be imperative for safeguarding the health of the city that the work of snow removal be impeded as little as possible. It is hoped this will accomplish a double purpose; first, to keep the streets free for the snow removers, and second, to induce many concerns, since they cannot operate anyway, to turn their trucks and workers over to the city today. This is expected to some degree to offset the annoyance of passenger cars which have not heeded to any marked degree requests that they keep off the streets. They are lighter, however, and do not so often get stalled, and when they do the job of shoving them out of the way is not so great.

Mr. MacStay said last night that there was need for 50,000 men if the job was to be finished in another day. The Mayor again appealed last night for pleasure vehicles to keep off the streets in a statement issued after his tour, which said:

"With Street Cleaning Commissioner Arnold B. MacStay I made an inspection of many streets in the city today and found that a great deal had been accomplished in the past twenty-four hours. The street cleaning forces are to be commended. Many of them are almost exhausted because of the long hours of labor, but are still sticking to their job.

"I wish to thank the business men of the city and the people generally for their co-operation. Their assistance for the next two days will be most necessary. If the people will help open the gutters in front of their homes and business places, in the event of a thaw it will aid greatly in ridding the city of this most phenomenal snowfall.

"I hope pleasure vehicles will keep off the streets for the next day or two, as the street cleaners and other snow removers can perform better service if there is less congestion.

"I wish also to thank the press for its co-operation."

Sewers Opened.

Engineers of the Street Cleaning Department toured the city yesterday examining sewers to determine the extent to which they may safely be opened for snow removal by private shovelers. Wherever the sewers were found capable of caring for the extra load permission to open them was granted, and an inspector was sent to see that they were not clogged with ice and débris. Department stores and other big business houses which volunteered their forces for snow removal were assigned to the blocks in which their businesses were situated and the sewers were opened for them.

The engineers studied their charts and maps to outline a regular progressive removal campaign in all five boroughs so that the most important streets might be cleared first. The city is divided into twenty-five districts, with 103 sections, and the street cleaning stable in each district has been designated as employment headquarters.

Cessation along the docks yesterday turned a big tide of workers against the snow drifts and accounted in some part for the big accretion of workers. In addition there were many volunteer girls and men, the New Era Club at 275 East Broadway, for example, turning over 100 young men who announced that they were inspired by a sense of civic responsibility and expected no compensation.

In some neighborhoods, even in fashionable residence districts, snow "block parties" became temporarily popular and whole families got a lot of fun out of fighting the snow. As an example of what happened in a number of places, residents in Seventy-fourth Street, between Lexington and Third Avenues, cleared 100 feet of street surface and swept tons of snow into the sewer. Charles W. Bowring of 160 Seventy-fourth Street telephoned to Walter S. Sullivan of 154 East Seventy-fourth Street, suggesting the idea of a neighborhood skirmish with the snow. Dr. Howard Mason of 156 East Seventy-fourth Street, Stowe Phelps, and several other residents took up the idea. Shortly after 2:30 o'clock two score of the men, women and children living along the hundredfoot strip were at work, and children came from blocks around pledging to lend a helping hand. After several tons of snow had been mined, it was recognized that the work was simply that of transforming a snow plateau into a snow mountain, unless the snow itself should be got rid of. Employes of the Street Cleaning Department were called but could not find a manhole. Finally a city worker was sent down a manhole several blocks away to make overhead soundings until he could find a hole in the street near the snow battlefield. A manhole was finaly opened upand hundreds of cubic feet of snow was swept into it. The fight on the snow continued until 6 o'clock, when there was room enough in the street to turn an automobile.

Work on Fifth Avenue.

The police yesterday closed Fifth Avenue from Fifty-ninth Street to Washington Arch and a big gang of men and trucks was put to work there. The Avenue was in very bad condition, as much traffic had packed the snow hard upon an underlying base of thick ice, but last night with work still in progress, the Street Cleaning Department said it hoped to have it at least passable this morning.

Otherwise the department again concentrated efforts yesterday on those streets contiguous to docks and warehouses which are more important in affording trassportation for the primary foods. Veering from their course only long enough to clear Chambers Street from river to river for the passage of busses, the biggest gangs, aside from that on Fifth Avenue, worked in South Street from Corlears Hook to the Barge Office in West Street, from Pier A to Fourteenth Street and along similar heavy-duty roadways on the lower west side.

The forces yesterday included 7,500 extra men, 2,500 of the regular force and 2,000 employed by the snow removal contractors.

Mrs. Joseph N. Blanchard of 1,109 Madison Avenue telephoned to THE TIMES last night that so many criticisms had been made of the city's condition she felt it only fair to commend the labors of a foreman and a dozen men she watched all afternoon at work in Seventy-fourth Street between Fifth and Madison Avenues. "I never saw more faithful, more intelligent, better work," she said, "though the foreman said that only two of the men were regulars of the department."

Nothing more was heard by the department yesterday about the detachment of flame-throwers from the Chemical Warfare Service said to be on their way here from Edgewood, Md., for recruiting duty and whose use for snow removal has been sanctioned as an experiment by the War Department. If they arrive today they and their projectors probably will have a trial. There will be a trial this morning, according to last night's plans, of an oil-burning snow remover said to have been used with success on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Suggests Steam Removal.

A number of suggestions for mechanical snow removal of one sort and another have been made, including one in a letter written by Milton See, an architect of 15 East Fortieth Street, to Mayor Hylan, which reads:

February 7, 1920.

Hon. John F. Hylan, Mayor, City of New York:

Dear Sir—Apropos to the appeal from you in connection with the snow removal difficulty now confronting the city, may I offer a suggestion that might be of future use for disposing of snow?

The plan is to have the gutters heated, possibly with exhaust steam from the adjoining buildings, thus doing away with any expensive central plant to supply the necessary steam required for melting the snow.

In order to make it an object for private owners to connect their heating apparatus with the proposed snow removal system, some plan might be worked out by which the steam could be metered and a price fixed upon for the supply of steam necessary for melting the snow, be paid for by rebate of taxes, perhaps, or some other means, which on careful study, might be satisfactorily worked out.

I offer the idea for what it is worth.

Yours very truly,
MILTON SEE.

Railroad operation on the principal lines yesterday was reported as practically normal with respect to local service, while through traffic was proceeding as usual except that a number of trains were late.

The Street Cleaning Department in Brooklyn had 2,000 men at work, while private contractors had 1,500 more. Trucks and every available flat car on the B. R. T. were used. Reports received by W. S. Menden, general manager of that system, was that good progress was made.

Borough President Riegelmann said he had received many applications from property owners for the use of sewers and in many sections residents had combined and engaged men and trucks to remove snow.

Service on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit lines was normal. No attempt was made to open up the shuttle lines in the suburbs, but gangs of men were sent there to remove the snow. It is expected that traffic on the suburban lines will be opened today.

Thousands View Ruins.

About 50,000 persons visited Coney Island yesterday to view the ruins of bungalows and other buildings wrecked by the storms and tides that swept over the island during the past few days. Although car service was poor people flocked to the island all day. Vehicular traffic was almost impossible owing to the heavy drifts of snow on the boulevard leading to the island and very few persons attempted to use this means to reach the island.

Several hundred persons went to the island during the day to see what remained of their bungalows and cottages, and real estate operators did a thriving business renting bungalows and cottages for the coming season. The beach from Sea Gate to Manhattan Beach was covered with frozen clams and oysters that were washed up.

ICE DERAILS CAR; 20 HURT.

Collision in Jersey City Due to Clogged Tracks.

Due to snow and ice clogging the tracks a Greenville trolley car, in Grand Street, Jersey City, jumped the rails last night at Westervelt Street, and crashed into a car going in the opposite direction. Twenty passengers were cut by flying glass or otherwise injured. Eleven of them were removed to the City Hospital.

The car that left the rails was not damaged and the motorman was not injured. The side of the other car was smashed. Those badly hurt were in that car. Those sent to the hospital were:

Thomas Riley, 552 Ocean Avenue; Frank McHugh, 99 Wegman Place; Captain George Murray, Jersey City Fire Department; George Murray, motorman; Patrick Gaffney, 162 Armstrong Avenue; James Gaffney, his son; Miss Ada Hasselt, 325 Avenue C, Bayonne; Henry Kesfer, 425 Montgomery Street; Morris Screen, 53 Ocean Avenue; Walter Moscouli, 266 Fourth Street, and Edith Nelson, 32 Clinton Street.

Several suffered broken bones but none was reported in a serious condition after examinations at the hospital.

COAL FOR NEW ENGLAND.

Snow Blockade Slowly Lifting in Connecticut.

DANBURY, Conn., Feb. 8.—Thousands of tons of coal stalled by the storm on the Central New England Railroad began to move today. With the exception of a few carloads of perishable goods, no freight had moved on this road since last Wednesday.

The tie-up in the freight yards at Maybrook, N. Y., was reported relieved today and dozens of trains of coal were started on their way to industrial centres in this State and Massachusetts, where a shortage of soft coal has closed several factories.

Local merchants and heads of manufacturing concerns were among 100 men who answered an appeal by the Public Works Department for snow shovelers today. The volunteers, with the aid of city teams, cleared the deep snow from all the central streets.

NEW RULE FOR IMMIGRANTS.

To be Examined at Ellis Island Instead of on Ships.

The examination of immigrants, which has been done on the steamships during the war, will revert to Ellis Island on Monday, Feb. 16, according to announcement there yesterday. There will be an increase of forty inspectors to bring the force up to 100, which was the number in pre-war days, and there will be additional physicians, nurses and attendants to bring the Ellis Island staff up to its full strength of 540.

The Immigration Bureau has asked for $2,850,000 and Congress has reduced this to $2,450,000, but the amount has not been finally decided. No Commissioner of Immigration has been appointed to succeed Frederic C. Howe, who resigned last year.

WHAT ARE The "VITAMINS"?

A little attention to food values will add to your health, happiness and working efficiency. The outer coat of the whole wheat contains a mysterious chemical substance called "vitamine" which is essential to life and health. When you eat Shredded Wheat Biscuit you get all the vitamins, mineral salts and other tissue-building material in the whole wheat grain—all prepared in a digestible form. It is the most real food for the least money.

TEN CENT POSTAGE

EVERY USER of "process" form letters is compelled to spend ten cents in postage on every letter that is read.

"Ridiculous," you say. But is it, really?

Large users of "process" letters tell us that if 20% of the people who receive them actually read them, they're doing well.

Yet not one business man out of a hundred ever takes into account the postage cost of the 80% or more that are never read.

It means just this: Four stamps are thrown away that one may do its duty! Four letterheads and envelopes are wasted that one letter may be read. This is a waste of eighty per cent. of your good material.

The possible business that might have been secured from the eighty per cent. that don't read process or imitation letters probably means a loss that is greater than the postage loss, and that's big enough.

THERE IS A WAY, however, where the little 2c stamp can be made to do 100% work—and that's by writing letters that will be read. The letters you dictate individually are read—and all the letters you send out by hundreds or thousands can be made just as distinctive.

Just two ways to produce such letters: Either you can hire a lot of typists to pound them out by hand (and mount up to a tremendous overhead) or you can install the HOOVEN Automatic Typewriter in your office and let it produce genuine typewritten letters better than hand-typists can do, and at from one-fourth to one-sixteenth the cost!

THE HOOVEN AUTOMATIC TYPEWRITER is simply a typewriter, electrically operated, that, by means of a paper stencil, does actual typewriting at tremendous speed. Your typist can operate it and do other work besides. As a time and money saving device it is without an equal. Yet its greatest value is as a money-maker.

The chances are that you paid in wasted postage this year more than one or more HOOVENS would cost. And the business you didn't get with letters may have been a larger loss than the postage.

There's a HOOVEN representative, trained in mail problems, ready to tell you what the HOOVEN can and can not do in your business. Why not get in touch with the HOOVEN office now?

The Fur Conquest of North America and the New York Fur Auction Sales

FROM the day when the Dutch first came to New York, extends the influence of the New York Fur Auction Sales. When Columbus set sail on the "sea of darkness" and stumbled upon a hitherto unknown continent, stories of fabulous wealth went back to Spain. Other adventurers fared forth—Amerigo Vespucci, Ponce de Leon, Balboa, De Soto, and later that gallant coterie of Englishmen, Francis Drake, Humphrey Gilbert and Walter Raleigh . . . but it was gold, always gold, that lured them on.

NOT until the fertility of the fur territory surrounding New York was discovered, did the fur conquest of America begin. Here it started. Here it flourished. And here it has been centralized to this day.

From every fur bearing section of Canada, of the United States from Alaska to Maine, and from the far corners of all the world, come raw furs of every prevalent species; direct by rail, coast steamer, ocean freighter, and every inland water route. To New York they come,—the Fur Market of the World, where they are kept until distributed.

No other city on the continent, or on any other continent, so uniquely combines the strategic value of a natural port with the prestige of a mighty industry, and re-enforces both with the power wielded by the greatest body of fur merchants in the world!

The New York Fur Auction Sales are a potent factor in directing, extending, and utilizing this dominance. They are enabling New York to develop from a market of strictly localized importance to one of world-wide intensity. They are finding new trade outlets for the world's fur output and are attracting more and more of this output. They are establishing more forcibly, year after year, the position of the United States as the greatest fur nation on the face of the globe.

The New York Fur Auction Sales are the world's Fur Auction Sales, and as such reflect the influence, the strength, and the well-being of the world's fur industry.

FOR CLASS GOVERNMENT.

The American Federation of Labor is going to work for a Labor Government. It will strive to elect a Labor Congress, supporting in each district the candidate, Republican or Democratic, most favorable to its demands. It will enter into local and State primaries and elections. It will seek the choice of Governors, Legislatures, Judges friendly to its demands. The making of the laws, the interpretation of the laws, the administration of the laws, are to be in the hands of men representative of, well disposed or obedient to the Federation, which reckons its numbers at 4,000,000. In effect it puts the labor vote up at auction. It will go to the party that makes the highest bid in its platform and in the character of its candidates. That is the program and the aim. If the Federation's political hopes are crowned with complete success, our local, State, National Governments—the Executive, Legislative, Judicial, every branch, function, process—will be controlled or conducted by and for a class, by and for a small minority.

Especially noteworthy and dangerous is the hostility of the Federation to the Federal courts. On Nov. 30, Mr. MATTHEW WOLL, its Vice President, outlining its position, wrote of "the arbitrary exercise of unwar-"ranted and unconstitutional author-"ity by our courts," repeated the familiar protest against "Government by injunction," and asserted that > to avoid building up a judicial aristocracy, steps should be taken to bring into existence the rule which will provide that, in the event of a Supreme Court declaring an act of Congress or a State Legislature unconstitutional, the people, acting directly or through Congress or a State Legislature, should re-enact the measure, that it shall then become law without being subject to amendment by the court.

The so-called Bill of Rights issued by the Washington National Labor Conference, called by Mr. GOMPERS, on Dec. 13, urged the popular election of Federal Judges for terms of not more than six years, and called upon the people to demand that Congress take action to prevent the Federal courts from "continuing their usurpation" of authority to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional. A committee appointed by Mr. GOMPERS at that Labor Conference to carry out Labor's Declaration of Principles or Bill of Rights now proposes this comprehensive plan for the subjection not only of the courts but of the entire American system of government to a class, to an aristocratic class of high-paid associated workmen.

Simultaneously and in evident concert with the Federation manifesto, Labor, official organ of the Plumb Plan League, cries for the mobilization of laborers' and farmers' votes, the election of at least 200 workers and farmers to Congress. We needn't concern ourselves about the farmers, whose responsible organizations as well as their evident interests are opposed to the Plumb Plan of running the railroads for the benefit of the railroad employés and at the expense of the taxpayers. Fiat paper money and financial ruin would be the inevitable result of the adoption of the Plumb Plan. The body of the nation, passionately bent on national economy, the reduction of taxation, could look with a colder eye on hardly any other proposal. It is naked class selfishness. It is a consonant accompaniment of the scheme of class minority government, the greatest good of the smallest number.

Any new proposed effective legislation to repress and punish revolutionists, Communists, anarchists, the advocates of the destruction of the State by physical force, stirs the bile of the Plumb Planners and the proposers of class sovereignty. Mr. GOMPERS, who made his reputation by conservatism, who for nearly forty years opposed the political action of Labor as a party, is now making an adventure into strange paths and radical divagations. Mr. GOMPERS has broken with his past. He has forgotten, too, how futile were the forays of the Federation into Mr. LITTLEFIELD's Maine Congress district and Mr. CANNON's in Illinois. He has cast his lot with the hotheads and the radicals, with his old foes. Is not a certain likeness to FOSTER and FITZPATRICK now becoming too apparent in the policies he supports?

The Plumb Planners and the Federation challenge the majority of the American people. There can be no doubt of the answer. The politician who expects to succeed in such a contest will win by courage, lose by yielding to, by being afraid of, the class party.

GENIUS IN OREGON.

We all know how hospitable the people and State of Oregon have long shown themselves to experiments and innovations in government. Nowhere else in the United States, perhaps, is there such political open-mindedness, such a zeal to propose and readiness to consider without prejudice, and, if convinced, to try, reforms, amendments, new or revived old political machinery and methods.

With an expectation of pleasure and edification, then, do we begin to read the platform of the United Land and Labor Party of that ingenious and Athenian State. The single tax, to be sure, is an old acquaintance that has become a bore to most of us, and, remembering the financial beauties of Mr. TOWNLEY's North Dakota, the Oregon yearning for a State bank, the legal depository of public funds, doesn't quicken the beats of any sober heart, but who can read without refreshment and amaze this inspired project for the relief and enrichment of owners of real property:

> Each owner of land shall assess his own land, with the provision that the State may add 10 per cent. to the valuation and take the land.

This method of assessment is too palpably sublime to suffer comment. Jack up the valuation, let the State jack the jacked 10 per cent., pocket the money, leave the State! To the taxpayers who remain the plan may be less inviting; but has anything simpler, greater, grander been begotten even in the fertile Oregonian brain? Every man his own assessor!

THOSE COTTON REIMPORTS.

It is best to discuss in a low key the statement of the Liverpool correspondent of The London Times that 3,000 bales of American cotton have been sent back to this country to turn them into dollars. It is even suggested that a like policy may be adopted for other American goods, which have been bought but not paid for, and are daily more difficult to pay for as dollars rise in price. The two cases are not just alike. The British proposal is to diminish their stock of our consumable goods in order to reduce the liabilities against them. To an extent, that is co-operation with the effort of the Federal Reserve to bring demand below supply here by such financial methods as shall bring to market goods kept out of consumption by speculation. Both plans may be commended under reserve as to the possibility of too much of a good thing.

The cotton reimports stand on a different basis. There is no novelty about returning our cotton to us when our speculators have made it more profitable to sell it back to us, even over the costs of such a procedure, than to sell the goods from the fibre. The "corner," if it may be called such, is now a British corner arrived at in a natural manner, above criticism. While Germany was attempting to starve England that stalwart country was providing itself with everything in more than usual abundance. There never were such food stocks in England in recent years as in the war years, and the British stocks of cotton now are such that they could well afford to pay freights back to us and charge the costs against the profit in dollars under present conditions of exchange—provided they could undo the sale by repurchases at their wish. There are no signs in British practice that the British think they have more cotton than they can use. Total imports of cotton into England last week were 208,000 bales, against 165,000 bales the preceding week and 91,000 bales last year. For the week ending Saturday our exports of cotton were 173,643 bales, against 85,612 bales last year and 164,643 bales for the last week of January. Liverpool stocks of cotton now are over a million bales—more than double those of last year. The reimport of 3,000 bales would not make much impression on such figures, and they would not be convincing if they were 300,000 bales.

The reason is that England never made such profits from our cotton as now. In the middle of January British trade reports were that the goods markets were bare; "practically all the "world appears to be knocking at "Lancashire's door for cotton goods." Any price is paid on assurance of deliveries, "passing wartime levels by "pence per pound and shillings per "piece." The margin between our cotton price and the British goods price is 35s. per pound, "so that buyers pay "only passing attention to them and "sellers none at all." The boom in mill shares is to match. What do British spinners or weavers care for the cost of cotton which their customers pay? How can England take a chance of her competitors buying cotton she declines and taking such trade from her? What assurance is there in the present crop outlook, after five successive insufficient crops, that England can get back the cotton she returns to us? How would England like to buy back in the form of goods the fibre which she speaks of returning to us? How can England venture to substitute for profits of hundreds per cent. the losses and dangers of unemployment by hundreds of thousands?

There is no harm in the making of such a suggestion, nor in acting on it, if that is British judgment. But, on reconsideration, it may be thought more likely that England will prefer the profits of production to the profits of either finance or speculation. That would be too much like "looking for a substitute for work," according to IRVING T. BUSH's observation of events in England. It applies well enough to the British operatives who have substituted the 48-hour week for the 55-hour week, and raised the cost of living for themselves and every buyer of American cotton or British goods. On the capital side there is no lack of British energy, for the employers know that they do not pay the cost of cotton, and that there is no more a substitute for American cotton in 1920 than there is a substitute for work. The cotton reimport story is not impressive, and therefore is a mistake.

AFTER CHECK-CLEARING PROFITS

In a news dispatch from New Orleans we are told that a > movement to bring about an amendment to the Federal Reserve act and to limit the powers of the Federal Reserve Board was inaugurated at a conference of bankers from eleven States. The movement was instigated by the recent par clearance order of the Federal Reserve Bank of the Sixth District.

The list of States is not impressive, not even after the assertion of the dispatch that there were approving telegrams received from a half-dozen other States. The "movement" is only entitled to notice because it has been dignified by a like proposal in Congress, and it would be prudent to squelch it, or to nip it in the bud, or to do whatever else amounts to capital punishment for a movement.

There is another movement in the opposite direction. Also on Saturday the New York Federal Reserve Bank announced that additions to the Federal Reserve clearing list were made by banks in three States included in the eleven States mentioned, together with several banks in this State, and among them the largest bank in New York outside the Federal system.

The difference between the rebellious and the acceding banks is that the rebellious banks are thinking more of their profit by the obstruction of trade than of profits by the service of trade. The protesting banks want to make profits by making domestic exchange costly, taking toll whenever business crosses their dead line. The adhering banks forbear such profits, and make more by using their funds in loans and other facilities. If the protesting banks are allowed to turn the clock backward, they would reduce domestic exchange to the costly and dangerous condition of foreign exchange, which there is now another "movement" to control by an international conference. The United States has had its interstate conference, and it has almost done for itself what the world has yet to do for itself. Inside the United States no step backward should be tolerated, and the opposition should be such as the case demands.

THE SNOWBOUND CITY.

The voice with a smile having worn thin and querulous (temporarily, as we hope), Mayor HYLAN last Saturday broke out the voice with a laugh. The unions of teamsters and chauffeurs had refused to shovel snow, and the forces already serving the dump carts were being plied by agitators with the advice to strike for a dollar an hour. Meantime traffic was tied up throughout the city as it had never been before in a storm of middling calibre. Speaking to the leaders of the unions, the Mayor said: "It's not good taste "for labor men to bring up unionism "at this time." The walking delegates (perforce they were all pedestrians) joined heartily in the laugh and promised their best. Then the sun burst from cover and all day Saturday its genial, melting rays led the van in street cleaning. And thus the proud metropolis of the Eastern gate began slowly to emerge—though with something less, perhaps, than its accustomed pride.

For some days, in truth, we have been living back in the middle of the last century. Another of Mayor HYLAN's triumphs was the resurrection of ancient law. "Every owner, "lessee, tenant, occupant, or other "person having charge of any build-"ing or lot of ground in the city "shall remove all snow and ice from "the sidewalk and gutter." Another ancient law was administered to JOB E. HEDGES, receiver of the bankrupt surface lines. Tracks and trolley slots were three inches deep in packed snow. Mayor HYLAN reminded Mr. HEDGES that under the terms of the franchise he was required to remove a certain part of the snow from streets upon which tracks are laid. And then his Honor extended his moral suasion to business houses employing trucks and truckster, exhorting them to declare a week-end holiday from Saturday to Tuesday—the holiday to be enjoyed by the trucksters and other employés in removing snow.

As an interlude to these genial activities his Honor ran a tilt against JEFFERSON M. LEVY in behalf of his beloved All-New York service of buses. Mr. LEVY had the temerity to say that already "the bus system has been a "total failure, costing the city millions "of dollars. * * * The citizens of "New York are opposed to public "ownership, and you are dragging "the city into millions of debt. Look "at the ferries!" It was a rude test of the voice with a laugh, but the Mayor answered blithely: "You are a hundred years behind the times."

The fact remains, of course, that, by whatever arts, Mayor HYLAN eventually summoned forces to make way against the wartime shortage of labor, against the disposition of bankrupt surface lines to retrench on their deficit. In his man-to-man struggle with the problem he has been in his true element as never before. Meantime citizens with an eye to the historic and the picturesque have had a rare diversion. All in the warm Spring sunlight, we have been conjured back into the city of long ago. For many hours not a trolley moved, scarcely even a bus. Many automobiles belied their name by standing motionless in a snowbank. Silence brooded and the spirit of leisure, of Old World amplitude and peace. But the people of New York got little comfort from the poetic, contemplative view of the snow blockade. It killed business; it cost them a mint of money.

And there is a widely prevailing impression that a Mayor who was a real Friend of the People would not let them be put to such cost and hardship by a snowstorm. Two days were lost in beginning the work of snow removal. That delay cost the city tens of millions.

MR. MONDELL'S WARNING.

When the Ways and Means Committee of the House last week was considering bills providing for the issue of bonds in the interest of the veterans of the war, Treasury officials told the committee that the effect of such Government financing would be to reduce Liberty bond values and increase the cost of living. They might have added that it would be difficult to obtain subscriptions for the bonds unless a rate of interest were offered higher than the Government has paid in recent times. The Government, in the present condition of the international market, cannot afford to bid high for borrowed money.

The Treasury officials who appeared before the Ways and Means Committee may not have put the case impressively. People are getting accustomed to the high cost of living, much as they dislike it, and they see two of the Liberty bond issues below 90 without emotion. Nevertheless, the decline in the value of Government securities is an ominous sign, like a falling barometer. Representative MONDELL, urging economy in Government expenditures as the duty of the hour, says:

> We have had a solemn warning from the highest financial sources that any increase of indebtedness necessitating the issue of additional certificates will be attended by the most serious financial consequences.

Former Secretary GLASS said much the same thing recently, and he spoke of proposals to spend large sums of money to reward the soldiers and sailors for service in the war as unwise. The resources of the country have been under a tremendous strain in the last three years. No bond issue would be welcome now, even if there seemed to be no alternative. A bond issue not absolutely necessary could not be floated unless the interest rate was tempting. In whatever is done for the relief of veterans of the war by Congress economy must be considered, and resort to an issue of bonds will not be in favor in Washington or elsewhere.

As the attitude of the American Legion, which represents the war veterans, is understood, it is opposed to making heavy drafts on the Treasury for any purpose, especially to pay bonuses to those who do not need the money. The convention at Minneapolis, it was said in a report of the proceedings, "declined to go on record in favor of a particular cash bonus." There was a feeling that it would not be commendable for sound men to solicit money rewards for fighting in defense of their country. But the convention went on record explicitly for measures to relieve disabled soldiers and sailors. Much was said, too, about regulating war risk insurance and extending vocational training of the wounded and crippled. The response of Congress is not in doubt. There was support in the convention for the Home Founding act, which proposed to aid veterans to acquire either city or country homes. To the delegates the Lane reclamation scheme seemed too limited in scope.

The political influence of the veterans, of the soldiers particularly, is supposed to be so valuable that Congress will have to consider many bills in their interests. Most of the veterans are sound in body and in no need of bonuses and pecuniary relief. They do not desire to be considered dependents. That being the case, it is not conceivable that they would be willing to see the Government embarrassed and its resources depleted.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Stormbound Staten Island.

On account of the great snow and sleet storm, isolated Staten Island has been in distress for milk, bread and coal. Yet it is a borough of New York, a part of the metropolis. It seems strange—nevertheless it is the fact—that Staten Island is supplied mainly by horse-drawn vehicles which reach it by the Manhattan and Bay Ridge ferries. Thus it gets its bread and meat, and, although so truly rural, most of its milk. While the storm was raging, and all day Saturday, the people of Staten Island had to worry a bit about the necessaries of life. Some of them had to go on short rations. The fuel question was really critical for many families, because most of the coal dealers could not replenish bins. In the interior the snow had drifted so much that transportation almost ceased.

As a Summer resort the island is delightful. In the country back of the little railroad running to Tottenville it is easy to forget New York. The idea that communities on the south shore, say in the Huguenot region, have any touch with the city seems almost a joke. New York seems to be in another world, almost in another planet. But dependence upon the city during a blizzard and in the period of digging out and cleaning up is very real. Then Staten Island sympathizes with icebound Nantucket. Between Staten Island and New Jersey, to which the island topographically belongs, is a narrow strip of water, and between Fort Wadsworth and Bay Ridge the distance is not so far that relief by tunnel is impracticable. Staten Island should be thus connected with both New Jersey and Brooklyn. It is an improvement long talked of and in time, the sooner the better, it will come.

The Motive Seems Hardly Adequate.

Our age is one of gloom, and most of us would have despaired of the Republic several times already had it not been for that vigilant watchdog of our liberties, Senator GEORGE F. THOMPSON of Niagara. Without him we should be lost, or at least feel lost; but the most timorous bourgeois can sleep soundly at night when he knows that the Cerberus of the Constitution is on guard. Speaker SWEET is the latest unfortunate to feel the watchdog's teeth. It appears that the trial of the Socialists, the appointment of delegates at large to the Republican National Convention, and goodness knows what else—probably the blizzard has something to do with it—are all parts of a stupendous plot of which Mr. SWEET is the fount and origin.

As plots go, this is rather formidable, even in these times when we should have no appetite for breakfast without a fresh plot every morning by way of stimulant. But the motive alleged by the Senator seems somewhat insufficient for such a mountainous pile of conspiracies. The origin of the whole thing is Mr. SWEET's insatiate aspiration for the office of Vice President. Many harsh things have been said about the Speaker of late, but none so harsh as this. About the only satisfaction he can get out of the accusation is that Senator THOMPSON at least gives him credit for originality.

However, there is your plot, and Senator THOMPSON says that the only way to foil it is to get together and support HIRAM JOHNSON for President. The logic of this is somewhat elusive; one might suppose that the Presidency could be allowed to go by default, to Dr. BUTLER or Mr. HOOVER or anybody else who wants it, and that the duty of all patriots would be to support HIRAM JOHNSON for Vice President against the overambitious SWEET. But Senator THOMPSON ought to know, for it is his plot.

This Certainly Is Incredible.

But is Senator THOMPSON really "gunning" for Speaker SWEET, or was Colonel WILLIAM B. THOMPSON the actual object of this pursuit? The Niagara Senator charges that the Lusk committee forebore to publish the list of contributors to the maintenance fund of the Rand School because it made the dreadful discovery that one of the sustainers of that academy of radicalism was a Republican who has been practically agreed upon as one of the delegates at large to the national convention of that party. He does not name Colonel THOMPSON, but as it is inconceivable that ELIHU ROOT or Senator WADSWORTH or Senator CALDER is paying money to impress upon youthful minds the doctrines of LENIN and TROTZKY, the finger of public suspicion and identification has been pointed at once to the fourth member of the delegation at large.

It is very shocking, it is terrible, and in a campaign year, too. Chairman HAYS of the Republican National Committee, many leading Republicans, like good Americans, have been demanding a war upon radicalism and enemies of the Government. This disclosure made by Senator THOMPSON of Niagara that the other THOMPSON, who was to be intrusted with the high responsibility of helping to choose a candidate for the party, is a patron and supporter of the Rand School implies such confusion in Republican councils that we are quite unable to regard it as at all credible. It must be that Colonel WILLIAM BOYCE THOMPSON was a contributor to some leading university fund raised by a "drive," or to the Y. M. C. A., or to the Red Cross, or to a society for the prevention of cruelty to something or other, and in some inscrutable way the Niagara Senator got him mixed up with the Rand School sustainers.

Prohibition Enforcement.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It does not seem to me that your correspondent is at all warranted in the conclusion that the expenditure of $12,500,000 in enforcing prohibition is an effectual answer to the claim that prohibition is the people's choice. Can that law or any other law be expected to enforce itself? On the other hand, how many times that sum would not the liquor interests pay if they could insure the continuance of the traffic for the next ten years? Is the fact that they are making strenuous efforts to defeat prohibition any proof that prohibition is not the people's choice?

THE OUTBOUND SHIP.

Oh, yonder ship, slow trailing down the Hudson, dark and gray,
I'm watching you as silently you cut your foaming way
Out to the ocean, deep and blue, o'er which the white gulls play.

I'm watching you, for well I know the course that you will take.
In memory again I see the great waves
curl and break
Upon your path and, at its end, the harbor you will make.

Not far from there my Mary dwells, my lass with golden hair.
Her eyes are blue as heather-bells; her
bonny face as fair
As bridal roses blooming full in incense-laden air.

Oh, yonder ship, slow trailing down to where the waves are breaking,
You're heavy, heavy laden as your outbound way you're making;
For 'tis my very heart that you are to the homeland taking.

COTTON AND EXCHANGE.

Mr. Frewen Thinks England Quite Able to Pay—A Point About Silver.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The newspapers are full of discordant notes which seem to throw doubts on the position and price of your cotton. Will you permit me to write that your great customer England never was better able to pay the full dollar price for your cotton than today, and never in living memory have the profits of the Manchester mills been greater than at this moment, the great recent fall in sterling albeit. It is true that Manchester has to pay an unprecedented price for the dollar with which she pays for your cotton, but look at the new price at which she sells her manufactured cottons, not merely at home, but to those great customers, India and China—two trades which take at least $200,000,000 a year from England.

At 40 cents a pound for your cotton, an eight and one-half pound parcel of gray shirtings cost in Manchester last September 29 shillings. I have no later figures with me. Look then at the immense advance in the price Manchester receives because of the jump in tael exchange from 8 taels per sovereign to 3 taels. The price at which this parcel sells in Shanghai has advanced from 29 shillings to 74 shillings because of the advance in exchange. It is little wonder that the Lancashire trades are in a ferment of activity and there is no question of either their willingness or their ability to pay the whole advance in the dollar price of cotton which is occasioned by the fall in sterling exchange. You must also remember that the fall in sterling gives a great bonus to all that America exports to Asia; that where a cotton mill in Massachusetts competes for that trade with a cotton mill in Lancashire, your export with sterling exchange at the new rate has a great competitive advantage over Lancashire.

May I in conclusion say a few words apropos these new silver exchanges?

Will not a new generation of voters just dismiss all the prejudices bred of ignorance and go back to the leisured and careful convictions of your wise men who repealed the Bland Silver bill in 1893? Let us today take up the problem of silver just where these repealers left it and by a wide area of agreement, which can now be had, fix these present splendid rates of exchange with a thousand millions of Asiatics. Then, indeed, we shall secure steady exchanges in an era of splendid reconstruction.

Fresh from the repeal of the Bland act the following cable was sent to the Lord Mayor of London. The message represents the verdict in a very great trial, fresh in each man's memory, of a very distinguished jury indeed; the United States Senate at the best period in its history:

> WASHINGTON, May, 1894.
> "To the Lord Mayor of London, Mansion House, London:
> "We desire to express our cordial sympathy with the movement to promote the restoration of silver by international agreement in aid of which we understand a meeting is to be held today under your Lordship's presidency. We believe that the free coinage of both gold and silver by international agreement at a fixed ratio would secure to mankind the blessing of a sufficient volume of metallic money, and what is hardly less important secure to the world of trade immunity from violent exchange fluctuations.

It seems but the other day that Walter Bagehot declared to a select committee of the House of Commons that "silver is the normal money of mankind." The normal money! Si monumentum petis, circumspice. The utter rout and confusion of the world's currency and finance.

THE GERMAN TRIALS.

Necessary to Make Them in Every Way Fair and Impartial.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Unless right principles are laid down and followed in the new departure of trying the large number of German war criminals, the practice may open the door to abuse in future. The victors should not pretend to be the sole judges at the trial. Suppose a nation like Germany which has disclosed an inadequate sense of moral responsibility and of common justice, had had such a power after the Franco-Prussian War. She could then have seized all the military leaders who had displayed any measure of ability during the operations, tried them on trumped-up charges, and weakened a future potential enemy by putting such men out of the way.

Nothing is more important than to carry out the provisions of the treaty which call for the trial of the German offenders. The purpose should be pursued at any cost and through years if necessary. For nothing would so serve to cause the rules of war to be respected hereafter. Moreover, the offense has been so outrageous and so unprecedented in modern times that society would be neglectful of a plain duty were it to fail to make an object lesson of it.

The question is one simply of method. Every safeguard should be thrown around the trial. Not only should the accused have their counsel, but the court should be of such a character that the impartiality of its judgments cannot be questioned. Ought we not, then, to add to the court an adequate number of Judges representing neutral nations and Judges representing Germany herself? And would it not be well to abstain from pressing the demand for the surrender of the criminals until the United States has definitely joined the League and put its great power back of the demand?

VOTES IN THE LEAGUE.

Think of South America Outvoting All the Great Powers Combined!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is it true that in the Assembly of the League of Nations Central America, having a population of less than 6,000,000, and an area about two-thirds that of Texas, will have a voting strength equal to six times that of the United States and equivalent to that of Great Britain and her dominions combined?

Also, will South America have a greater voting strength in the Assembly than France, Italy, Great Britain, the United States, Japan, Canada, South Africa, India, New Zealand and Australia combined?

If the voting strength in the Assembly is of such importance as certain individuals maintain, why are not the other four principal powers alarmed?

INCREASED FIRE DANGERS.

Tenth Street Resident Blames the Street Cleaning Department.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In connection with the recent disastrous fire in this neighborhood I desire to draw attention to a condition which might easily lead to repetitions of that event.

For four days preceding the present snow storm no ashes or garbage collections were made in this block by the Street Cleaning Department; none have been made during the storm. There is therefore an accumulation in my house, and in the other houses of the neighborhood, of six days' ashes. Three ash cans are full and standing under a drift on the sidewalk; another is full and in the cellar; I discovered today that the furnaceman (the same who tended Mrs. Morgan's furnace) was being forced to make a heap of ashes in the cellar, a proceeding with dangerous possibilities which I need not elaborate.

Another point I desire to make is why the Street Cleaning Department has abandoned its habit of clearing a space around fire hydrants. Most of the hydrants in the city are lost under snowdrifts. Apparently this most necessary work has been given up at the same time that the Street Cleaning Department stopped clearing the crossings for foot-passengers and decided not to use covers any more on their ash and garbage carts, filling the streets with flying dirt and papers.

Oh, Lord; how long? I suppose until we can get rid of Hylan and his crew.

TENTH STREET.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The attention of the public should be called to the fact that a very grave danger to life from fire exists by reason of the Winter storm, which has in thousands of instances entirely cut off the means of escape to and by outside stairways, balconies and roofs.

The snow has gathered, melted and frozen so that it is impossible to open the exits, which swing outward in a number of instances which I have personally investigated this morning. And in many cases where exit is possible, the ice and snow would make the footing, which, if anywhere, should be firm, precarious and dangerous.

In a crowded fifteen-story apartment house of which I have personal knowledge the only possible exit, besides the elevator, is a stairway which extends from the ground to the roof. A fire on one of the lower floors which filled the hall with smoke would be practically certain to precipitate a panic, for to venture downward would be to invite suffocation, and to ascend would be to find the door to the roof so jammed with snow and ice that no force which could be brought against it would open it.

The public should be instructed immediately to see that all fire exits are constantly kept in serviceable condition, and that it is more important to clear the fire escape than the front-door step.

The type of accident to which this letter applies is, fortunately, not frequent, but when it does occur the results are likely to be calamitous.

GEORGE A. SOPER.

New York, Feb. 6, 1920.

IRELAND AND THE EMPIRE.

Thinks Question Should Be Settled by Withdrawing Troops.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The writer of the letter in your issue of today's date, signed, "A Canadian," and headed, "Ireland and the Empire," wants "to clarify matters," in discussing "the Irish question," by having the terms "British Empire" and "British" used, instead of "England" and "English." He seems to think this change would shift the burden of defending, or explaining, the barbarous treatment of Ireland for seven and a half centuries, and would, at the same time, firmly fix Ireland in "the Empire" (in the popular mind) as an integral and natural part of that Empire. In this way he thinks that the idea, which is held in this country very generally, that the relation which exists between England and Ireland, that of a "conqueror," or attempted conqueror, could be offset and overcome, as not being true today.

This sensitiveness regarding such a barbarous relation between two civilized white races (the only two in the world so remaining) is to be welcomed and noted as a new phenomenon.

Ireland never voluntarily became a partner with England or a member of the British Empire. Since the year 1160 Ireland has fought with arms in her hands and in every other possible way against the extinction or absorption of her sovereign status as an independent nation. That is her fight today and it is safe to conclude that that struggle will continue until Ireland's sovereign nationhood is again acknowledged.

To say that the change of names in public d[illegible]ussion from "English" to "British [illegible]uld have any effect upon such an a[illegible]ong struggle is a "lame and impotent conclusion." It could not even mislead the public mind in this country, for, as "A Canadian" notes, such belief exists here that "England" and her "governing classes" are the chief responsible parties for this scandal on civilization.

The presence of great armed forces in Ireland today, directed by the Ministry in London, is sufficient answer to the writer's suggestion that "no such situation exists today." The latest dispatches from Ireland prove the contrary.

The way is open to England to remove this stigma from her name and record. Remove her armed forces from Ireland and cease interfering with the right of Ireland's people to determine their own form of government.

That is old and sacred doctrine for Americans. It is the code of the genuine lovers of liberty and justice everywhere.

Hostile German Sentiment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We herewith beg to attach copy of a letter received from Germany, together with the translation of same, which will no doubt interest your readers and will give them some idea of the sentiment that still exists in Germany.

THE ALBION TRADING COMPANY,
ERNEST RUBEN, President.

[Translation].

In reply to your letter of Dec. 23, you wish to have an answer. I can only give you the following: I shall never buy from a country that only for money greed and stirred up by English lies tried to destroy us and crowned its efforts by President Wilson's betrayal, who brought us the present "peace," a peace that does away with the last remainder of human dignity, thanks to the continued stirring of France and England, who work with our own inner-enemy.

Needless Exposure to Influenza.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a physician I wish to protest against needless exposure to influenza and to appeal to the good sense of the public in this regard.

Several instances of influenza contracted by social calls and calls to show interest upon those known to be ill with this disease have come under my observation. In none of these was the visited person at all benefited by the call. Should the caller become infected there is immediately a new focus of infection, capable of spreading the disease to any number of others who might have escaped, thereby putting an extra drain upon the already overburdened hospitals, nurses and doctors.

By all means help when able, but do avoid impractical, sentimental calling.

HOOVER RELIEF REACHING EUROPE

Distribution of Food to Poles, Czechs, Austrians and Germans Spurred.

HAMBURG BASE OF SUPPLIES

Separate Subscriptions Arranged Here to Meet the Needs of the Sufferers.

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—Herbert Hoover's plans for alleviating some of the suffering in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Austria and Germany are nearing completion by the constant arrival of ships at Hamburg bearing condensed milk, beans and bacon and, for Jewish beneficiaries, cottonseed oil instead of bacon. The food is gradually being piled in the Hamburg storehouses, and when all of it has arrived careful distribution to avoid illicit trade will be begun.

Major Goldsmith, agent of the Ame can Food Relief, who has been superi tending operations at Hamburg, has turned to Berlin to take control transportation of the foodstuffs, bei succeeded at Hamburg by Francis C. Wickes, formerly of the American Relie Commission in Belgium.

Czechoslovakia will be supplied direct by the Elbe River from Hamburg to Aussig. This route is slower but safer, in view of the numerous railroad robberies in Germany and the crippled co dition of railway traffic. Food for Au tria and Hungary will be sent in guar ed trains to Ratisbon, where it will transferred to barges for transportati down the Danube. The sea route fro the United States will keep Danzig an Poland supplied.

According to Major Goldsmith, drafts against the food stores are already circulating in the United States in multiples of ten dollars. Two subscriptions are possible—a $10 one for Christians and another of the same amount for Jews and a $50 subscription for Christians and another for Jews. The first provides 24½ pounds of wheat flour, 10 pounds of beans, 8 pounds of bacon, and 10 tins of condensed milk. For Jews the provision is the same, except that one gallon of cottonseed oil is substituted fo the bacon.

The $50 subscription for Christians includes 149 pounds of wheat flour, 5 pounds of beans, 16 pounds of bacon, 15 pounds of lard, 12 pounds of corned beef and 48 tins of condensed milk. The same subscription for Jews eliminates the lard and bacon but includes six gallons of cottonseed oil.

All profits resulting from this operation, Major Goldsmith said, would accrue to child welfare work in the country to which the packages were shipped. All the Central European countries involved have granted these packages admission free of taxation and they will be given preference in postal and freight facilities. Banks in the United States will sell the food drafts.

BISHOP URGES AIDING EUROPE

Dr. Anderson Declares Americ Must Be True to Her Ideals.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Bishop William F Anderson of Cincinnati, discussing toda his observations on a trip just conclude through France, Italy, North Africa Spain and Portugal, in which countrie he directed the work of the Genera Conference of the Methodist Episcopa Church, said:

"When the whole world was ready t follow our leadership, the United State somehow flunked. The necessity of th hour is for the recovery of the prestig of American idealism.

"Our task is to make the Europea peoples realize that the heart of Amer ica is unchanged—that first, last and a the time her attitude is one of sympa thetic helpfulness. I regret Europe interpretation of the statement of Ca ter Glass, Secretary of the America Treasury. I believe his element of gra ciousness is representative of the tru American attitude toward the ruined.

"The desperation in Central and Eas ern Europe is such that revolutions a very actual dangers. I believe that the will continue to be until at least afte the next harvest, for with millions o these people life is a grim struggle, wit the most meagre food and the scanties clothing the only rewards for that strug gle.

"The assistance already lent fro American and other quarters has bee most helpful, but it cannot be sai that the improvement warrants taking sanguine view, which would inevitably lead to a disastrous lessening of tha help.

"One of the most outstanding serv ices America is rendering the world a demonstration of the vast econom advantages resulting from the prohibi tion experiment. There are indication that many of the most influential pe sonages of Europe are seeing now tha emulation of the American exampl would benefit their own countries."

PRAISE FOOD-PARCEL PLAN

Austrian Press and Government Warmly Indorse American Scheme.

VIENNA, Feb. 5.—Official announcement of the American food-parcel plan for the relief of Austrians has evoke warm praise in the press. The Government pledges its co-operation in th plan, announcing that the rationing of food now in use will not be affected.

A general strike of purchasers was brought about today when increased meat prices went into effect. In the wealthy residential districts there were few buyers while in the poorer sections no meat was sold.

FIGURING MACK'S CHANCES.

Democrats Agree They Are Good for Senatorial Nomination.

Announcement of the candidacy of Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, National Committeeman, for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator was received with interest in local Democratic circles yesterday. It was agreed that Mr. Mack was in a position to make a strong bid for the nomination, and that his continued candidacy would seriously threaten both the aspiration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, for the nomination and the possible running of Governor Alfred E. Smith for Senator instead of renominating him.

The Democratic leaders have been keeping a close watch on the Senatorial situation, and their best information is that Republicans opposed to the renomination of Senator Wadsworth are not likely to develop a candidate who can defeat him in the Republican primaries. At any rate, no such candidate is in sight, and the present Democratic plan of campaign is based upon the expectation that Senator Wadsworth will be the Republican nominee.

Mr. Mack, it was said, has been an advocate of woman suffrage for many years, and favored it in his newspaper in Buffalo when the cause was not popular. He was said to have received assurance of suffrage support as against Senator Wadsworth. Word also has been received by a Democratic State leader that members of the Anti-Saloon League and other advocates of prohibition will support any Democrat, even a "wet" one, against Senator Wadsworth at the election, if the latter is the Republican nominee.

FRENCH ACTORS PLAN RETURN NEXT YEAR

This Season's Stay Cut Short by New Orleans Fire and Montreal Engagement.

M. CASADESUS SATISFIED

Expresses Gratification and Promises a Play a Week and Greater Variety Next Season.

The announcement of the departure of the French company from the Théâtre Parisien several weeks earlier than originally planned, which was made on their arrival here from Paris, raised various questions as to the reason for cutting short their engagement in New York, whether or not it was due to lack of proper support, and if so, whether a French theatre can be maintained here. These questions are fully answered in the interview which follows.

A TIMES reporter talked with Robert Casadesus, the Artistic Director of the Théâtre Parisien, and obtained authoritative and interesting information about the production of French plays here and the results of his experience this season.

"The Théâtre Parisien," said Mr. Casadesus, "is closing its engagement here sooner than at first planned owing to the destruction by fire of the French Opera House in New Orleans, which upset our booking arrangements and necessitated our opening in Montreal earlier than expected. That city has been most desirous of having Parisian players present new plays there, and has also guaranteed us against any loss due to cutting short our season in this city.

"We expect to return next Autumn, for we feel that Americans have fully appreciated our efforts and our offerings. The newspapers have been most kind, and we have received a more cordial support than we could ever have anticipated. There are 75,000 French-speaking people in New York, which should mean that they alone can more than adequately support a theatre producing plays in that language without the generous attendance of our strictly American patrons which has been a marked feature of the Winter season.

"I have learned much the last few months that will conduce to our greater success in the Winter of 1920-21. The first two seasons of French plays in New York were confined to classical lines, while during this engagement the offerings have been of a light character, reflections of the airy, frothy art dear to the hearts of Parisians. I have learned this Winter that there is a demand here for both, and next season, with a larger company, which I shall recruit next Summer in Paris, I purpose presenting a new play each week, instead of every two weeks, with classical matinees interspersed throughout the season. Our subscribers demand this, and when all is said and done they are the ones we are playing for.

Public Wants Wide Variety.

"By 'classical matinees' I do not mean that we shall present gloomy plays or those with lengthy and tiresome speeches. Molière and others have written many witty works, most attractive to listen to. The public desires a wide variety in our offerings, all to be of unquestioned merit, however, and its desire will be my guide in selecting productions and players for our next season here.

"I brought with me last Fall an excellent company, and our costumes and scenery have been all that could be desired, but to present a new play each week would have been too difficult with only twelve players, and most expensive, as twice the furniture and double the costumes would have been required. Our present expense of new outfits every two weeks is much greater than defrayed by American managers whose settings and costumes last throughout the season for their single play.

"To produce a new play every week necessitates rehearsals twice daily, every morning from 11 to 1:30, and in the afternoon from 2 until 4:40 or 5 o'clock, and then an evening performance in another play. This is a tax on physical and mental strength too severe to be borne by a small company, and it requires unremitting labor to make one's self letter perfect in one week, to say nothing of the 'business.' With a larger company, which we shall have next season, the problem of producing a play per week will be simplified.

"A few have called our prices high. They have been no higher than those of American theatres, yet our expenses are proportionately higher, owing, as already said, to our frequent changes in settings and costumes. Many quite forget that we have a stage crew of eleven men, and many others besides the players. Our entire force includes thirty-five people.

"Some of our patrons have expressed a wish that we should present only those plays of which the French text is procurable here, as many attend our theatre not only to enjoy our art but to perfect their French. Hence they find it helpful, and often necessary, to read the plays carefully before hearing them. During the war few plays were printed or reprinted in France, and it has frequently been difficult to procure sufficient copies of those we have presented to supply the company. The classics, however, are always available, and with affairs returning to a peace basis in France we hope the present difficulty may be overcome by next Autumn.

Leave Paris with Regret.

"A manager bringing French players to this country meets with difficulties little suspected by his audiences. It is extremely hard to get them to leave their beloved France, and especially Paris. If they leave Paris for only a few hours' run to fill engagements in other cities their entire families, often accompanied by the family dog, attend them at the station and bid them an adieu as affecting as though they were departing for Siberia. Of Jacques Copeau's entire company, which played two seasons in New York, Lucien Weber and myself were the only members to return this season.

"In order to properly prepare for our next season here we should have a company of fifteen instead of twelve as at present, and we should rehearse in repertoire several months before leaving France. To do this a considerable sum of money is required to pay them while rehearsing, and this necessitates larger audiences than we have yet had, but which we shall have every reason to expect when we present a more frequent change of bill and greater variety in the plays.

"Looking back to our audiences here I would like to say that Americans appear to understand our plays better and to appreciate the special details and the best points of the acting and the players than our French auditors. Their attention to and study of our plays has been most gratifying to the entire company.

"We shall bid adieu to New York with regret, but Montreal is calling, and so it is au revoir to our good friends here until next Autumn."

The coming week's program at the Théâtre Parisien, the last of its season here, is made up of "Miss Flirt," an operetta in which Mr. Casadesus and Maurey collaborated in both music and words and which has no connection in substance or shape with the French comedy, "Madame Flirt." The other offering is "Le Coeur a ses Raisons" ("The Heart Has Its Own Reasons"), by de Caillavet and Flers.

DR. E. E. SOUTHARD PNEUMONIA VICTIM

Harvard Professor Stricken on Thursday After Lecturing Here Last Week.

EMINENT AS PSYCHIATRIST

Asserted Bolshevism Was Form of Insanity and Probably Product of Evolution.

Dr. Elmer Ernest Southard of Cambridge, Mass., Assistant Professor of Psychology at Harvard University and Bullard Professor of Neuropathology at the Harvard Medical School, and an eminent psychiatrist, died at noon yesterday of pneumonia at the Hotel Prince George, 14 East Twenty-eighth Street.

Dr. Southard came to New York on Sunday, Feb. 1, to deliver two addresses, speaking Tuesday night before the Society of Neurology of New York and Wednesday night before the Association of Mental Hygiene at the Academy of Medicine. He became ill Thursday night and was attended by Dr. Henry T. Chickering, Dr. Albert R. Lamb and Dr. W. T. Longscope of the Presbyterian Hospital. His widow, Dr. Mabel Austin Southard, a lecturer at Wellesley College, who was with him when he died; his mother, Mrs. Martin Southard of Boston, two sons, Austin and Ordway, and a daughter, Anne, survive him.

Born in Boston July 28, 1876, Dr. Southard attended Harvard University, receiving his A. B. degree in 1897; his M. D. degree in 1901, and an A. M. degree in 1902. He also attended Senckenberg Institute at Frankfort and the University of Heidelberg in 1902. He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Science from George Washington University in 1917.

Just before his departure and also upon his return from abroad he was an interne and assistant in pathology in the Boston City Hospital, and was later visiting pathologist in the same institution. In 1904 he became instructor of neuro-pathology and was an assistant professor in the Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Southard was made Bullard Professor in the Harvard Medical School in 1909. From 1906 to 1909 he had been assistant physician and pathologist in Danvers State Hospital for the Insane, and since 1909 was pathologist to the Massachusetts Commission on Mental Diseases. Since 1912 he had been a Director of the Boston Psychopathic Hospital, and at the time of his death was a Director of the Massachusetts Psychiatric Institution.

Dr. Southard was assistant editor of The Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases, The Psychiatric Bulletin, and The Journal of Clinic and Laboratory Medicine. Among his books were "Neurosyphilis," written in collaboration with Dr. H. V. Solomon; "Shell-Shock and Neuropsychiatry," and the "Weekly Research Papers," which were written in collaboration with Dr. H. E. Fernold. He contributed to many periodicals and published an account of his researches at the Danvers State Hospital for the Insane. During the war he was a Major in the Chemical Warfare Service and also Chairman of the Committee on Psychiatry and Neurology of the National Research Council.

In addition to being a Director of the Bedford Hills Laboratory Bureau of Social Hygiene, Dr. Southard was a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the Association of American Physicians, the Massachusetts Medical Society, the American Neurology Association, the American Association of Pathologists, the Society of Experimental Biology, the American Psychopathological Association, the New England Phychiatric Society, the Boston Society of Psychiatry and Neurology, the National Epilepsy Association, and the American Genetic Association. He was formerly President of the American Medico-Psychological Association, and at the time of his death was President of the Boston Society of Psychiatry and Neurology.

In his annual address to the American Medico-Psychological Association in Philadelphia last July, Dr. Southard asserted that all of us suffer from various forms of psychic disorders which may be classed as varying forms of insanity. Bolshevism, he said, was most certainly a form of insanity that might have its origin in the past ages, and was in all likelihood a product of evolution.

A member of the St. Botolph and Boston Chess Clubs, and noted as one of the foremost amateur chess players in America, Dr. Southard was particularly interested in the case of Harry N. Pillsbury, the former American champion chess player, who in the later years of his life lost his mind. Dr. Southard made an examination and study of the brain of Pillsbury in an attempt to decide the mooted question of whether a genius for chess tends to deteriorate the mind.

In 1906 Dr. Southard married Dr. Mabel Fletcher Austin of Boston, a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, who is a lecturer on social hygiene at Wellesley and other colleges.

CAT SAVES WOMAN'S LIFE.

Dies of Gas After Mewing Brings Aid to Mistress.

The mewing of her pet cat saved Mrs. Bridget Shay, 70 years old, from asphyxiation by gas last night in her apartment at 182 Kingsland Avenue, in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn.

The cries of the cat attracted the attention of Joseph Taylor, a tenant in the house, and he investigated. He smelled gas in the hall near the door of Mrs. Shay's apartment, and, knowing that she kept a cat, forced the door. He was met with a rush of gas from the rooms and found Mrs. Shay unconscious in her bedroom. He threw up the windows and then called in Policeman John Conlon, who gave first aid. An ambulance surgeon took Mrs. Shay to Greenpoint Hospital. It was said her condition was serious. Mrs. Shay, a widow, lived alone in the apartment.

Taylor and the policeman, after Mrs. Shay had been removed, found the cat dead from the gas. The gas was coming from a jet in the bedroom. The police believe it was turned on accidentally.

BOY DEAD, COMRADE HELD.

Victim of Blow Succumbs; Schoolmate Is Rearrested.

Frank Lunberg, 12 years old, of 1,688 Park Avenue, who was removed, unconscious, to Harlem Hospital Jan. 27, died there last night without regaining consciousness. Death was due to a fracture of the skull and hemorrhage of the brain.

Aaron Rabinowitz, 15 years old, of 17½ East 119th Street, who was arrested charged with assaulting Lunberg with a blunt instrument and who was paroled in the custody of his mother, was rearrested following news of the boy's death. He will be arraigned in the Children's Court this morning.

According to the police Rabinowitz struck Lunberg during an argument. Both were pupils of Public School 24 in East 128th Street. Rabinowitz was tried before Justice Levy in the Children's Court on Jan. 31. The case was put over until Feb. 6, and Justice Hoyt on that date ordered the boy paroled in the custody of his mother until Feb. 16.

REV. DR. J. M. BUCKLEY DIES.

Former Editor Had Been Known as Methodist "Bishop Maker."

The Rev. Dr. James M. Buckley, for many years one of the most influential ministers of the Methodist Church, editor of The Christian Advocate from 1880 to 1912, died yesterday in his eighty-fourth year of hardening of the arteries at his home, on Hill Street, Morristown. Prior to his retirement, in 1912, he had become known as the "Bishop maker," owing to his frequently manifested power at the national conferences of the Church.

Dr. Buckley was born at Rahway, N. J., and educated at Pennington Seminary and Wesleyan University, entering the ministry in 1859. He held pastorates in many cities, including that of the Hanson Place Church in Brooklyn, before he left the pulpit to become editor of The Christian Advocate.

He was a prolific writer, producing a score of books on a wide range of subjects. Some of the more familiar titles are: "Oats or Wild Oats," "The Land of the Czar and the Nihilist," "History of Methodism in the United States," "The Wrong and Peril of Woman Suffrage," "Theory and Practice of Foreign Missions." He was President of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital in Brooklyn.

LUCY MARIA SPELMAN.

Sister-in-Law of John D. Rockefeller Dies at Pocantico Hills.

Miss Lucy Maria Spelman, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, died on Friday last at the home of Mr. Rockefeller at Pocantico Hills, near Tarrytown. She was the daughter of the late Hardey Buel and Lucy Henry Spelman of Cleveland. Funeral services will be held privately, and will be attended by members of the Rockefeller family, including John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who is at present not at his Pocantico Hills home.

Miss Spelman's older sister, Miss Laura C. Spelman, was married to Mr. Rockefeller on Sept. 8, 1864. She died on March 12, 1915, and since then Miss Lucy Spelman had lived at Mr. Rockefeller's home.

EDWARD HENRY CLEMENT.

Former Editor of The Boston Transcript Dies of Heart Disease.

BOSTON, Feb. 7.—Edward Henry Clement, who for twenty-five years was editor in chief of The Boston Evening Transcript, died today of heart disease at his home in Concord. He was in his seventy-seventh year.

Mr. Clement began newspaper work in 1864 as a reporter for The Savannah News. Later he was with The New York Tribune as telegraph editor and city editor and with The Newark Daily Advertiser as managing editor. In 1881 he was made editor in chief of The Transcript. After his retirement in 1906 Mr. Clement devoted himself largely to magazine writing.

Mrs. John M. Carrere Dies.

Mrs. John M. Carrère, widow of the distinguished architect who was killed several years ago when his taxicab was struck by a trolley car, died suddenly yesterday morning at her residence, 103 East Eighty-fourth Street. Her daughter, Miss Anna M. Carrère, survives. Mrs. Carrère, before her marriage, was Miss Marion Dell of San Francisco. Funeral services will be held at St. James's Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-first Street, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Veteran Chicago Banker Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—George Bernard Smith, Vice President of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, with which he had been connected for thirty-two years, died Saturday night of spinal meningitis. Mr. Smith, who was born Dec. 29, 1870, started work as a messenger. Last year he was elected President of the American Association of Research of City Banking. His widow, Mrs. Jessie G. Smith, and four children, survive him.

Invalid Dies in Taxicab.

Mrs. May Lea Wilen, 55 years old, of 218 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, died suddenly in a taxicab at Seventh Avenue and Eighteenth Street yesterday afternoon as she was being taken by her husband, Areese M. Wilen, to the Pennsylvania Terminal, where they were to board a train for Philadelphia, where Mrs. Wilen was to have entered a hospital to be treated for heart trouble.

In Memory of Mrs. Lawton.

Memorial services will be held for Mrs. James M. Lawton, at Grace Church, on Thursday at 5 o'clock. Mrs. Lawton, who died on Aug. 22 last at her country home at Elizabethtown, N. Y., was the daughter of General Anderson of Fort Sumter fame.

In Appreciation

By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.

The success of an institution lies in the service it renders, for service is the true basis of a successful organization.

In the last three weeks the facilities of The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street, have been taxed to capacity.

Day and night the calls came for help.

In rain or in snowstorm the organization, which Mr. Frank E. Campbell built up so successfully, performed its duty without a single failure. Men and women worked without a thought for personal comfort without murmur, without hesitancy.

They all know that our duties lie in service to ourselves, and it is by serving humanity that we best serve self.

Where work is appreciated, work is made easy. Besides, there is no institution in the country, more so in the City of New York, so well equipped as Campbell's, and in a position to advise the needful as well as supply the needful as well as Campbell's.

It is in appreciation of work well done, of services faithfully rendered, that these lines are written.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

Mr. Josef Hofmann gave his second piano recital yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall, which was filled to its utmost capacity, including all the seats the stage would hold. So his recitals are usually attended. He put some of the most familiar of piano pieces on his program—Beethoven's sonata, Op. 53, dedicated to Count Waldstein; Debussy's "Soirée en Grenade," one of his pieces most often played; Weber's "Perpetuum Mobile"; a group of Chopin numbers, etudes and preludes by Scriabine and Rachmaninoff, and Liszt's transcriptions of "Hark, Hark, the Lark," and the "Erlking."

Mr. Hofmann gave his listeners a few new traits in his performance to consider. His left hand is matched among pianists only by his own right hand, but it was unfortunate in the sonata by Beethoven that in certain passages it so overshadowed his right hand, as to make the latter scarcely intelligible. And to Chopin's polonaise in A, which he added as an encore after the first group—the "military" polonaise—he gave a tremendous military effect in crashing power and violent accent and in the last section some trills in the bass that may well have made Poland's enemies blanch.

Apart from this, it is needless to say with what pregnant expression he played Beethoven's sonata, with what a fundamental rhythmic energy. In the pieces by Chopin he reached his highest point in this recital; there was a plagent eloquence in the E flat nocturne, grace and brilliancy in the G flat impromptu, and in the F major ballad tenderness interrupted by sudden fire. And in all and through all the music he played was wonderful beauty of tone, variety of touch, producing an endless variety of color and quality.

Weber's "Perpetuum Mobile" is intended for display and the development of speed, but Mr. Hofmann's capacity for speed was such that the outline of the piece was sometimes made almost unintelligible. He played the pieces by Rachmaninoff and Scriabine with a wonderfully clear articulation, bestowing on them a wealth of artistic resource in phrasing that suggested a conviction of a higher artistic value in them than even his performance made evident. In "Hark, Hark, the Lark" he played with exquisite lyric charm, with a quality that made the piece for once seem to exist for the sake of the "wonderful sweet air" rather than of the arabesques. And in the "Erlking" there was unwearied power, potent dramatic effect and a vivid differentiation of the voices.

Mr. Hofmann was demonstratively applauded—by some sections of the audience who seemed not to know when not to applaud at a piano recital. And at the end he gave many encores for the benefit of those who wished to inspect them at close quarters, and others more contained.

GALLI-CURCI UNABLE TO SING

Concert at the Hippodrome Canceled on Physician's Order.

Mme. Galli-Curci's physician decided yesterday that she had a touch of bronchitis and must not sing last night, although the Hippodrome had been sold out for her concert with the Chicago Opera Company orchestra, under Marinuzzi's direction. The Hippodrome accordingly did not open, except to let the Hippodrome staff into the street to help quiet a crowd that had assembled.

Some ticket holders got their money back and the others will be repaid today.

It was said that Galli-Curci would appear at one of the later concerts of the Chicago company's engagement.

An attempt was made to give a changed program, but Titta Ruffo and others declined to substitute, it was said, while Rosa Raisa was nursing a throat but lately indisposed. Mary Garden was to appear tonight in opera and leave on a week's concert tour South. As the crowd had plainly come to hear Mme. Galli-Curci, those in charge of the Hippodrome called the concert off.

Sings Armenian Folksongs.

Mannig Berberian, an Armenian soprano, more modishly than musically Parisian, sang a half dozen of her country's folksongs last night at the Cohan & Harris Theatre, with classics both Italian and French. Her compatriots presented a basket of orchids in return for what, to them, were evidently familiar melodies. Of her more ambitious airs the nervous young woman began "Les Larmes" from Massenet's "Werther" with a whole tone difference of pitch between voice and piano, but after a time harmony was restored.

Chicago Theatres in New Body.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—The interests of 410 Chicago theatres today were merged into the Allied Amusements Association of Chicago, which succeeds the Chicago Theatre Managers' Association. The new organization comprises all dramatic, vaudeville, burlesque and motion picture theatres in Chicago.

FRANCO-PAPAL RELATIONS.

Vatican Looks Upon Their Re-establishment as Certain.

ROME, Feb. 7.—The statement of Premier Millerand of France to the Chamber of Deputies on Friday that if the national interest demanded a resumption of relations with the Vatican the Government would bring the matter before Parliament, which would decide the matter, has produced a most favorable impression at the Vatican.

In Vatican circles the re-establishment of relations between France and the Vatican is considered as certain.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Bab," a dramatization by Edward Childs Carpenter of Mary Roberts Rhinehart's stories, will open in Boston next Monday. Helen Hayes will head the cast, which will include Tom Powers, George Alison, Grace Henderson, Arthur Eldred, James Kearney, Katherine Alexander, Geraldine Bartlett, Junius Matthews, Raymond Griffiths and Helen Gurney.

Margaret Wycherly will act the title role in St. John Ervine's play "Jane Clegg," which the Theatre Guild will produce at the Garrick during the week of Feb. 23. "The Power of Darkness," accordingly, will be continued two more weeks.

Philip Moeller's newest comedy, "Sophie," a play dealing with life in Paris before the revolution, will be produced in Baltimore on Feb. 23 by George C. Tyler. Emily Stevens will be the star and the company will include O. P. Heggie, Oswald Yorke, Sidney Toler, Jean Newcomb, Hubert Wilke, Adolph Link, Jack Webster, Claire Mersereau, Daisy Vivian, Basil West and others.

Elsa Alder will return to the musical comedy stage in "Dere Mable," which will come to New York in about a month.

The Dolly Sisters, in a new revue, will come to the Princess Theatre in May.

"The Checkerboard," by Frederic and Fanny Hatton, and "The Cave Girl," by Guy Bolton and George Middleton, will be tried out in the Spring by Comstock & Gest.

George Marion has been engaged for Percy MacKaye's "Washington."

"Tea For Three," according to a cable received by the Selwyns, has been produced at the Haymarket in London with Fay Compton and A. E. Matthews in the leading roles.

Millise and Handers, comedians, and Vanda Hoff, dancer, have been engaged for Florenz Ziegfeld's Nine o'Clock Revue on the New Amsterdam Roof.

Students of the American Academy of Dramatic Art will give their third matinee of the season at the Lyceum Theatre on Friday. "The Stricklands," by Allan Monkhouse, and "Where But in America?" by Oscar M. Wolff, will be acted.

Gordon and William Dooley will rejoin Morris Gest's Midnight Whirl on the Century Roof tonight.

A special performance of "Mamma's Affair" took place at the Little Theatre last night before a professional audience.

SEEK TO HEAR "PARSIFAL."

Tickets in Demand for Next Week's Metropolitan Revival.

"Parsifal" in English, with text by Krehbiel and new scenes by Urban, will be next week's addition, or "restoration," to the opera repertory at a special Metropolitan matinée on Thursday, Feb. 19, for which tickets at regular opera prices go on sale today. The cast, headed by Harrold, Matzenauer and Whitehill, led by Bodansky, has already been told, and the fact that subscribers have retained two-thirds of the house indicates their interest in the proposed Wagnerian "restoration."

Metropolitan subscription bills for the fourteenth week also include "The Barber of Seville" next Monday, with Barrientos, Hackett and De Luca; Wednesday, "Manon Lescaut," Caruso, Alda, Amato; Thursday, "Rigoletto," Barrientos, Hackett, De Luca; Friday, "Butterfly," Farrar, Martinelli and Scotti, and Saturday matinée, Feb. 21, "Le Prophete," Caruso, Muzio and Matzenauer. Toscha Seidel appears next Sunday, with Scotney, Gordon and Mardones.

SYMPHONY SOCIETY PLAYS.

Cortot in Concerto, Orchestra in a Superb "Istar."

From the "Scotch" of Mendelssohn's symphony so-named—and it is not all either dilute or dry, with its dancing measures gay as Grainger—to the Saint-Saëns concerto No. 4, played with a compatriot's sympathy and taste by Cortot, yesterday's matinée of the Symphony Society gave pleasure and offered no problems to a house sold out in Aeolian Hall. There was a dash of absinthe in d'Indy's "Istar" variations, seven-veiled and played backward, as it were, in a superb shimmer of sounds to silence.

D'Indy's goddess "sparkling in her jewels" passed from door to door, divesting herself of gems or trappings till the naked theme alone remained. The famous French scholiast in this work still appeals profoundly to his listeners' imagination and love of beauty. There was to have been a new prelude, "Penelope," by Faure, but it was Beethoven's "Egmont" instead that preceded the symphony.

"Friends" Hear French Music.

The Society of the Friends of Music at the last but one of its concerts in the Ritz ballroom yesterday heard a recital by Arthur Rubinstein, pianist, introducing new or novel music, French, Spanish and Russian. Szymanowski's second sonata, mostly variations of a dozen titles, was too long, difficult and dull, while "Almeria," by Albeniz, from the familiar "Iberia," was the best of the matinée. De Falla's "Dance" and "Spanish Fantasy"—the fantastic becoming grotesque—were offset by the sedately musical "Mouvements Perpétuels" of Poulenc. There were Ravel's waltzes and a "Firebird" finale of Stravinsky.

Rovinsky, Young Pianist, Pleases.

Hyman Rovinsky, a young pianist with real gifts of musical expression and with restless stage presence startlingly like the early struggling years of Ornstein, made a first appearance yesterday at the Princess Theatre, where a handful of critical hearers found interest in his playing, as more persons some day may do. He gave the Bach-Liszt fugue in A minor, two Schumann romances, Franck's prelude, choral and fugue, also Debussy's preludes, Ravel's sonatine, d'Indy's "Scenes de Voyage" and Korngold's "The Brave Little Tailor" and "The Fairy King's Ball."

Atwill Weds Miss Mackay.

Lionel Atwill and Elsie Mackay, it was learned here yesterday, were married in Chicago on Saturday. Miss Mackay until a few weeks ago was acting the rôle of the governess in "Clarence," and was then transferred to the Chicago company of that play. Mr. Atwill is appearing in Chicago in "Tiger! Tiger!"

THE SCREEN

Lionel Barrymore has brought to the screen much of the simple humanness and dramatic strength that distinguished his performance on the stage in "The Copperhead." The motion picture version of the Augustus Thomas play which he made famous is at the Rivoli this week, and, as in the original, it is the character of Milt Shanks that makes it important. And it is Lionel Barrymore who makes Milt Shanks important. It is only by concession to theatrical exigency that one can explain this man of deep human feelings who unnecessarily endured for forty years the dishonor and degradation he brought upon himself by the kind of service he was called upon to render during the civil war, but, as personated by Mr. Barrymore, Milt Shanks becomes genuinely human. For the time of his presence on stage or screen he is convincing. He is not questioned until later, and even then, so unforgetable is Mr. Barrymore's performance, the average person is likely to cling to its reality despite all logical objections. So it was with Milt Shanks on the stage, and so it is with the same man on the screen.

Mr. Barrymore has not announced whether he will continue to divide his time between the stage and moving pictures, but, for the sake of those who may miss him on the former and see him in the latter, it is to be hoped that he will. In him the screen has acquired not only a well-known actor, but a pantomimist of the first rank, who possesses the rare talent for making himself intelligible by silent acting, yet without crude extremes and exaggerations of gesture or expression. He has subtlety and restraint, without the sacrifice of force and precision. In his quiet moments he acts where another might simply pose, and in his more intense scenes he is direct and definite where another might be sure only in following the formulae for registering stock emotions. May the screen have a part of his time, at least.

There is more than Mr. Barrymore's performance, however, to make "The Copperhead" plausible. There is for example, the notable performance of Doris Rankin, as Milt Shanks's wife, and others in the cast contribute specifically to the photoplay's success, especially Richard Carlyle as Lem Tollard, Arthur Rankin as Joey and Leslie Stowe as Brother Andrew. The brief part of Abraham Lincoln is played by N. Schroell, a restaurant waiter, selected for his supposed natural resemblance to the President, and, in certain poses he does strongly suggest Lincoln as known today in pictures, but at other times the suggestion is faintly, if at all, present.

An unqualified word of approval must be added for the adaption and direction of the production by Charles Maigne. Most of the original narrative is preserved on the screen and the physical appearance and atmosphere of the civil war town, which was really built on Long Island, strengthened the story greatly. Furthermore, in the selection and supervision of his players, Mr. Maigne seems to have been generally competent. On the whole, "The Copperhead" is something unusual among photoplays.

A protest must be made, however, against two subtitles, or leaders, at the end that do everything in their power to destroy the impressiveness given by Mr. Barrymore to Milt Shanks's death. One person present is quoted as remarking that the dead man's body looks small, whereupon another character gravely replies that the "souls of some men are so great that they are missed." What an intrusion of the ridiculous.

The Strand has a long, and in many places, entertaining program this week. The first pictorial number is the Topical Review, which includes, in addition to interesting news pictures, a bit of Lourdes, France, as accurately reproduced in Pathecolors. Then there is one of Max Fleischer's always enjoyable "Out of the Inkwell" drawings, and, next, suitable to the week, a short film called "The Land of Opportunity" in which Ralph Ince, known now chiefly as a director, gives a rather convincing impersonation of Abraham Lincoln. This picture is also at the Rialto and Broadway.

The principal photoplay at the Strand is "The Blooming Angel," with Madge Kennedy as its main attraction. Pat O'Malley is also much better than the story, which is bright and pleasing at first but becomes tedious before the end is reached. The plot is scattered over the capers of college youths and the heroine's cheerfully impossible and dishonest success in business. The picture was directed by Victor L. Schertzinger.

At the Strand, and also the Rivoli, is a funny Harold Lloyd farce entitled "His Royal Slyness."

"The Thirteenth Commandment," with Ethel Clayton, is the photodramatic film at the Rialto, and the Broadway will begin its week tonight with "The Loves of Letty," with Pauline Frederick, and a musical show entitled "Powder-Puff Follies."

The photoplay at the Capitol is "The Luck of the Irish," with Anna Q. Nilsson and James Kirkwood, directed by Alan Dwan. It is a rampant melodrama with some good pictures and acting all but spoiled by strutting and banal subtitles.

The Capitol has a variety of other films, including a Travelaugh by Hy Mayer, and is offering a new musical number called "Southland."

'Cellist Casals at Opera Concert.

Pablo Casals, the Spanish 'cellist, appeared at last night's "opera concert," playing a concerto of Lalo, to which an encore was at once demanded. Claudia Muzio was heard in an air from "Traviata," Crimi also sang and Hageman conducted. The Metropolitan audience included about 500 standing.

FINDING ROOM FOR AMERICANS

COUNCIL OF HOTELS TO DISCUSS THE PROBLEM.

Hotel proprietors in London are generally willing to do everything possible to accommodate the thousands of wealthy American tourists who will come this year to England.

Action is being taken in response to the appeal in the "Daily Express." It is estimated that 200,000 visitors from across the Atlantic are anxious to visit England, but many fear that they will not be able to obtain hotel room. Consequently, there is a danger of their cutting out their English tour. The American Consulate in London wants to know how many Americans can be accommodated, for on that number the issue of passports will be based. The "Daily Express" urged the need for a meeting of hotel directors in order that a certain proportion of room might be definitely allocated to American tourists, and information to that effect supplied to the Consulate.

CONCERTED ACTION

All the leading hotels are individually making special arrangements to take in large numbers of Americans who book in advance.

Our Patrons visiting Europe this year will enjoy unusual facilities due to our extensive reservations.

You can secure at our counter your steamship and railway tickets, stateroom, hotel reservations, auto service, aerial tours, drawing and sleeping car tickets, travelers cheques and everyhing essential to a successful EUROPEAN TRIP

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—A disturbance was centred Sunday night in Northern Arizona and the barometer is low over Manitoba. A strong area of high pressure is moving southeastward over the northern Rocky Mountain region and a second high is moving eastward over the Ohio Valley and the Lake region.

The Western disturbance will advance northeastward during the next forty-eight hours and cause rain in the Middle Mississippi Valley, snow or rain in the Ohio Valley and the Upper Lake region Monday and Tuesday. It will be somewhat warmer Monday in the Lower Ohio Valley and Tennessee, and much colder weather in the western portion of the Plains States.

Fair weather will continue in Atlantic Coast districts, with little change in temperature, until about Wednesday, when higher temperature will set in.

FORECAST—TODAY AND TUESDAY.

Eastern New York—Generally fair Monday and probably Tuesday; rising temperature Tuesday, north portion.

Northern New England—Fair Monday and Tuesday.

Southern New England—Fair Monday and Tuesday; warmer Tuesday in Vermont.

Western Pennsylvania-Western New York—Cloudy Monday; Tuesday, rain, with rising temperature.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1920.	1919.		1920.	1919.
3 A. M.	29	33	4 P. M.	33	35
6 A. M.	31	36	6 P. M.	30	35
9 A. M.	30	32	9 P. M.	26	33
12 M.	33	33	11 P. M.	25	33

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 30; for the corresponding date last year it was 34; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 30.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 30, at 8 P. M. it was 27. Maximum temperature 36 degrees at 2 P. M.; minimum, 25 degrees at 11 P. M. Humidity 65 per cent. at 8 A. M., 51 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.91 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.04 inches.

CREEKS WANT OUR STYLES.

Indian Merchant Here to Stock Up with Silks and Laces.

Surely, and quite speedily, Fifth Avenue is becoming the absolute dictator of fashion for the towns in the Middle West. There are still New Yorkers who believe that the people of these towns still, wear blankets and generally keep up the reputation of the wilds, but they would be a bit surprised if they were to journey to one of these wide-awake towns, where the shops are extremely up to date and the smart attire of the women would rival Fifth Avenue at its best. Unable to see for themselves, however, the doubters may take the word of William P. Morton, a Creek Indian, one of the most widely known and prosperous business men of Oklahoma, who, upon arriving at the McAlpin Hotel the other day, asserted that just as much feminine finery may be seen on a Sunday afternoon strolling down Sixth Avenue in Okmulgee, as may be seen on upper Fifth Avenue at the strolling hour.

Mr. Morton has bowed to the tendency of the times and this year, for the first time, has acceded to the wishes of his patrons and passed through Kansas City and Chicago, his former markets, so that he might take back to Okmulgee the latest fashions in women's ready-to-wear goods. This demand for New York goods, he says, has been growing for three years.

"The women of Oklahoma, being the wives and daughters of wealthy oil men and leaders in other industries, are not satisfied any longer with goods from subordinate markets," said Mr. Morton. "It must be New York or nothing. The day of palming off shoddy goods to the Indian maiden is a thing of the past. With higher education and bulging bankrolls they have assured me that unless I bring the goods with the Fifth Avenue label they will come to New York and buy them themselves. The result is that I am attempting to carry out a policy which has made of the struggling Indian family, of which I am a son, one of the foremost in our State—the policy of keeping my words and supplying my customers with the best and most up-to-date goods obtainable.

"Oklahoma is no longer a land of the Navajo blanket, but is today the land of satin and frills. I find a lot of people in New York who smile when they see me because they think I have come to buy shawls and moccasins, but their smile disappears when I order laces and silks. I may not know just who is going to be the next President, nor all about the manner in which you keep your subway trains from running into one another, but I am able to supply my trade with the goods they want, and after all that is my mission in life and I feel that I am just about fulfilling it."

"help"
"You've been a great help to me," said a Kansas merchant, "I am glad I consulted your Buyers Information Department before placing my orders."
Each day brings buyers and merchants from all over the country to the Buyers Information Department, looking for information and advice.
They come to talk over the market with men and women whose business lives are spent in daily contact with every phase of merchandising activity.
They come for advice and counsel on every subject—where to buy; how to sell; how to display merchandise; advertising, equipment, sales methods.
Bring your problems to us. We can help solve them.
The Buyers Information Department is a very important part of Economist service to subscribers.

BAFFLED BY THEFTS BELOW 'DEAD LINE'

Police Obtain No Clue to Safe Robbers Who Invaded Large Office Buildings.

PART OF SECURITIES FOUND

Stock Shares, Mislaid by Thieves, Recovered by J. R. Deering—Robbery in Brooklyn.

Efforts by the police yesterday to trace the thieves and the securities and cash stolen from five safes in the financial district below the famous "dead line," between Wednesday night and Friday morning, brought no tangible results. James R. Deering, who had reported the theft of Liberty bonds and other securities valued at $90,000, from the safe in his law office at 135 Broadway, said yesterday he had recovered 350 shares of the South American Gold and Platinum Company that he had included in the list of missing property. These shares were found concealed among some papers on a desk, where the thieves had placed them after removing them from the safe.

Deputy Commissioner Lahey, in charge of the Detective Bureau, who had every available man working on the robberies, said experts from safe manufacturing companies had decided that Mr. Deering's safe had not been opened by working the combination, but that the door, supposed to have been locked by the owner, was closed and the combination lock left open by an oversight. Mr. Lahey said this one of the thefts looked like the work of a sneak thief or some one who knew of the open safe and its contents rather than the work of a professional safe breaker.

"It is possible I had closed the door, was called away, and forgot to return and lock it," said Mr. Deering. "I had not used the safe at all on the day previous to discovering the robbery."

After business hours no one can gain entrance to the building in the ordinary way without passing an examination by the night watchman, who saw no one enter or depart from the floor on which Deering has his offices. The robbers worked so quietly that persons in the office of Clark, Childs & Co., on the next floor below, where employes were at work until 3 o'clock on the morning the theft was discovered, heard none of their movements.

In the cases of all the other robberies, the Pittsburgh Steel Company in the Equitable Building, International Agricultural Corporation and the United Gas and Electric Engineering Corporation, both on different floors at 61 Broadway, the burglars appear to have "worked" the combinations of the safes by sense of touch and hearing or by obtaining knowledge of the combination numbers. Many of the stolen securities are nonnegotiable. Warning and information have been sent by all the losers to financial houses and exchanges for identification of the securities if presented.

A blood-soaked handkerchief found yesterday afternoon by Detective Mireau of the Bedford Avenue Station, Brooklyn, in front of the factory of the Williamsburg Paper Box Company, 178 Hope Street, led to discovery of a safe robbery in the building that had been committed some time between midnight Saturday and 7 o'clock yesterday morning. The thieves had blown open the safe and obtained $2,000 worth of Liberty bonds and about $175 in cash without attracting the attention of the night watchman.

The day watchman, Edward Jones, noticed nothing unusual until Detective Mireau picked up the handkerchief and began his investigation. A pane of glass that had been broken in the rear of the building indicated the manner in which the thieves entered the building. The robbers left a drill and some burglar tools behind them, and the police hope to get finger prints from these.

Detective Mireau believes that one of the burglars, in entering the building, cut his hand, and used the handkerchief for a bandage, afterward throwing the handkerchief into the street.

CASH IN 5TH AV. TILLS BLESSED BY GYPSIES

Women in Circus Attire Held for Robbing Merchants After Telling Their Fortunes.

A story of Fifth Avenue merchants having their fortunes told and the money in their cash registers blessed was related before Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo in Jefferson Market Court yesterday, when two gypsy women, Rosie Mark and Mary Miller, were arraigned on a short affidavit of Detective Sergeant Thomas P. Phelan of the West Thirtieth Street Station charging them with suspicion of grand larceny.

Detective Sergeants Phelan and Trojan told Magistrate McAdoo that Rosie Mark had stolen $70 from the cash register of Alfred Bennett, a merchant at 306 Fifth Avenue, and that Mary Miller had abstracted a $100 bill from the cash register of the William Reiman jewelry store at 328 Fifth Avenue.

The women, gaudily dressed, stood before the Magistrate, Mrs. Miller holding a baby in her arms.

"Why, how could these women, brilliantly dressed as they are, get behind a counter in a Fifth Avenue store without attracting attention?" asked Magistrate McAdoo. "It would be like a circus procession going behind the counter. Everybody would be sure to see them."

"The merchants invited them behind the counter to tell their fortunes," replied Phelan.

"What!" exclaimed Magistrate McAdoo. "Do you mean to tell me that level-headed business men of Fifth Avenue have their fortunes told?"

"They certainly do," answered Phelan. "We have had twenty complaints just like these, but it is hard to get the complainants to come forward and testify against these women."

"But how do the women gain access to the cash registers?" the Magistrate asked.

"The merchants allow them to go to them to bless the money in the cash registers," said Phelan.

"Well, that is something new," Magistrate McAdoo commented, and, turning to Bennett, who had appeared as complainant against Rosie Mark, he asked him if he had had his fortune told and had lost the $70 in the way described. Bennett said it was true.

The larcenies are alleged to have taken place on Jan. 26, but it was only on Saturday that the women appeared in Fifth Avenue again and were taken into custody by the detectives.

The women said they were from Brazil and that they were staying in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn, near Broadway and Flushing Avenue. The women were held in $1,000 bail each for examination next Friday at 2 P. M. Bail was furnished by a surety company.

WANTS TO SELL GAS HERE BY HEAT UNITS

Consolidated Issues Statement Replying to Justice Greenbaum and Mr. Burr.

CITES VIEWS OF EXPERT

Quotes Western Engineer Against the 22 Candle Power Statutory Requirement.

The recent decision of Justice Greenbaum, in the Supreme Court, that gas companies must obey the law in the matter of furnishing their consumers gas of 22 candle power if they hope to have any standing in the courts, and the opinion of Corporation Counsel Burr that consumers paying the full legal price for less than 22 candle power gas would be able to enforce collection of the difference have evoked a statement from the Consolidated Gas Company that the British thermal unit standard had taken the place of the candle power standard pretty generally throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

In an effort to prove that the candle power standard has ceased to be serviceable to the consumer, an abstract is offered of testimony taken before Special Master Abram S. Gilbert in the company's suit to have the 80-cent law declared unconstitutional. One of the witnesses was Archibald S. B. Little, chief gas engineer of the Illinois Public Utilities Commission, who qualified as an expert and who stated that he was the pioneer in the substitution of the modern heat unit standard for candle power requirements. He called the old system "a crime."

Questioned by William L. Ransom, counsel for the company, Mr. Little said that the British thermal unit standard had been substituted for the candle power, and then the record shows the following questions and answers:

Q. Is it your judgment that this candle power standard is a wrong standard?

A. Certainly.

Q. And it adds greatly to the cost of making gas without corresponding advantage to the consumers?

A. Correct. The consumers cannot get the advantage out of the gas at 22 candle power.

Mr. Little said that his opinion agreed with that of gas engineers generally throughout the United States. Then Mr. Gilbert said:

"I am inclined to say something in my report on that point. I think it is pretty nearly time a stupid standard of that kind is eliminated, if everybody agrees to it."

Mr. Gilbert then asked the witness:

"But there would be an advantage to the public in getting a British thermal unit standard rather than the candle power standard?"

"Yes," was the reply, "it would be more to their advantage in New York City because you cannot make effective use of 22 candle power gas or any other gas at the ridiculously low pressure that this company is forced to carry in its mains."

"Is it not a fact that so far as you know the only persons who could be interested in making the 22 candle power standard would be the oil companies?" the witness was asked.

"They started it and they are keeping it up; there is no question about that at all," was the reply.

Following the abstract from the record, the Consolidated says:

"The gas companies operating in New York City are still handicapped by the statutory obligation to work under the old candle power standard. In England a moderate calorific standard has been in vogue for some years. In the more progressive States and cities in this country the heat unit standard is rapidly receiving the sanction of the public authorities, and it is to be hoped that in the near future a change from a candle power to a calorific standard will be authorized for New York.

14-FOOT EEL CAUGHT HIM.

Fisherman Rescued by Ice Cutters, Reads Jersey Fish Tale.

NEWTOWN, N. J., Feb. 8.—Silas Hump, a sportsman of Philadelphia, fishing at Crescent Falls, leading out of the Swartswood Lake, near here, landed a 14-foot eel yesterday. The immense, slippery, serpent-like fish wrapped its folds about Hump and not until his cries for help were answered by men cutting ice on the lake above was he able to free himself.

Hump and his rescuers are still having fried eel for their meals.

Mrs. Gill Loses Lambs' Gift.

Mrs. Robert Stowe Gill, widow of Captain Gill, the only member of the Lambs Club who died in service, announced yesterday the loss of a diamond brooch set in platinum, which she received from the Lambs when she na the boat which the club gave the country. She lost the pin last Wednesday night, she said, either at the Eltinge Theatre or in a taxicab going from the theatre to her home at 21 West Eighth Street. A reward of $250 is offered for the return of the brooch. Captain Gill fought with the 18th Infantry and died of wounds Oct. 23, 1918.

CRAP RAIDS STIR McADOO.

Discharging Prisoners, He Calls Police Methods Unintelligent.

Nine youths, charged with disorderly conduct as suspects in a crap game, were discharged in Jefferson Market Court yesterday by Chief Magistrate William McAdoo. On police methods for the suppression of gambling, he said:

"The Police Department becomes quite irritated at times because the Magistrates do not hold these men. The police will never suppress gambling and crap games in this manner. The gambling can be suppressed by the police, but it isn't for me to tell the police how to do it. It will never be done by sporadic raids of this nature, but only by intelligent detective methods. The police are not acting properly and not acting intelligently."

The prisoners were arraigned by Detective Santinelli of the Special Service Division, who said he had arrested them on Saturday night in a basement at 285 Mott Street, where they were making a loud noise that "indicated that a crap game was in progress."

"I do not wish to criticise your action, but the evidence you give is not sufficient," the Magistrate told Santinelli. "I have no doubt they are guilty and I am not sorry they were locked up all night, but the Magistrates have to be guided by the law. I am morally convinced that these men are not desirable citizens and ought to be punished, but under your evidence I cannot punish them."

Oil—and the troubled waters of filing—

Oil lubricates the machinery of the world. The L. B. Automatic index lubricates the machinery of business.

What a mass of detail in the oil business! Correspondence, dray tickets, bills of lading, records of thousands of constantly moving drums and tank cars—tens of thousands of customers!

In view of the tremendous increase in business, there was only one system that could handle this detail satisfactorily—the L. B. Automatic index.

It performs its work so capably and with such outstanding success that today this master system of filing and un-filing is used by practically all the leading oil companies in America.

So, too, it will smooth the troubled waters of your own filing department. You will never strike a dry hole when you look for papers in the L. B. Automatic index.

REDS NAMED DEBS SOVIET PRESIDENT

ivic Federation Asserts Bolsheviki Selected Socialist Leader for Chief in America.

HILLQUIT ALSO HONORED

Nuorteva, a Revolutionist, Nominated as Socialist Delegate to International Congress.

TO COMPARE TWO PARTIES

Conference to Trace Connection Between American Socialists and Russian Bolsheviki.

Inquiring whether the aims of Socialism are not identical with Bolshevism, the National Civic Federation has collected extracts from Socialist platforms and declarations by party leaders and official organs, which it presents, together with announcement of a conference, decided upon at its annual meeting a few days ago, to be held in this city, beginning Feb. 16, which organizations representing different elements in national life are invited to attend, for the purpose of studying the objectives and activities of Socialism, Bolshevism and I. W. W.ism and clarifying public opinion as to the right and wrong of these questions.

The Civic Federation statement charges that Morris Hillquit, counsel for the suspended Socialist Assemblymen, was appointed a representative of the Bolshevist régime, and in support of this assertion the following quotation is given from a bulletin issued by the Bureau of Information of Soviet Russia:

> Mr. Morris Hillquit has accepted the post of Chancellor of the Russian Soviet Bureau in the United States. Mr. Hillquit will be in charge of the legal department of the bureau. * * * Mr. Hillquit has been in close touch with Mr. Martens and his bureau from the very day of Mr. Martens's appointment.

Socialists Honor Revolutionist.

"According to a letter from the national office of the Socialist Party," continues the Civic Federation statement, "signed by the Executive Secretary, Adolph Germer, dated Chicago, Ill., Feb. 15, 1919, and addressed to him, Nuorteva, an alien, and official representative of Lenin and Trotzky, and with Martens one of the chief official Bolshevist propagandists in America, was nominated to represent the Socialist Party of America as a delegate to the International Congress. If the Socialist Party of America elects as a delegate an alien and professed revolutionist, can it claim to be merely a political party, such as the Republican and Democratic Parties, with the right to function as such in the United States?

"When Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, an enemy alien, came to New York in 1916 he became a member of the American Socialist Party and took part in its deliberations, and when he was appointed by Lenin as Ambassador to America from the Russian Soviet Government he was hailed as such by the Socialist Party, many locals formally pledging him their support.

"Planning simultaneous Bolshevist revolutions in Europe and America, the International Communist Congress of the Bolsheviki in Moscow, at a secret session last March, designated Debs, now serving a prison sentence for preaching resistance to the draft, as President of the Soviet Republic of the United States.

"The May Day literature sent out last Spring by the national office of the Socialist Party declared for a change in the American Government to a government in which the representatives of the people would be elected out of the shop; hailed a 'dictatorship of the proletariat' and announced that 'whether or not blood is spilled depends upon the tyrants of today.'"

Reasons for the Conference.

Stating the reasons for the conference called by Alton B. Parker, President of the National Civic Federation, the statement describes the situation in this country as "thoroughly disturbing" and comments on the "wail" that went up from sympathizers with "several thousand criminal aliens" recently arrested by the Department of Justice. The protest of the bishops against deportation of the aliens "without a fair trial" is characterized as "still more disgusting" and unfavorable comment is made on the movement for amnesty for all political prisoners.

"But the most prominent source of Red propaganda at the present moment," continues the statement, "is the Albany controversy over the ouster of the five elected Socialist Assemblymen. In that matter very many high-minded citizens hold that in their suspension the Legislature has ruthlessly violated its constitutional rights, thus they assert, committing a crime greater than anything charged against the Socialists. Other citizens, equally high-minded, believe that the Legislature did just the right thing, and some blame it for not having raised the question of Socialist fitness for membership in the Assembly years ago, when the first Socialist presented himself. Unfortunately, politics, legal technicalities and personal feeling are so obscuring the controversy that there is great danger of the main question being lost sight of—and that is: 'Do the Socialists propose to accomplish the overthrow of our Government through constitutional means—the ballot—or do they propose to obtain such results through physical force—the bullet?'

"It is no secret that the Socialists and their sympathizers are today pushing their propaganda through schools, colleges, churches, lecture forums, the press, labor organizations, women's clubs, charity organizations, and so forth, even the posts of the American Legion not being immune. The ends of this propaganda are served by the very confusion and lack of understanding existing in the public mind as to what Socialism is and how it would affect industry, labor, private enterprise, the family, religion, education, our social and spiritual life.

Study of Socialist Aims.

"This suggests the urgent need of a thorough and prompt study and exposition of the principles, policy, tactics and objects of the Socialist movement in this country. Through the expenditure of large sums of money and the use of all the machinery of the Federal and some of the State Governments, a tremendous amount of authoritative and invaluable material has been gathered, which is available to all citizens sincerely seeking the truth."

Assemblyman William C. Amos, from the Eleventh District, Manhattan, said yesterday that among the letters indorsing his condemnation of the suspension of the Socialist Assemblymen was one from Father John A. Ryan, editor of The Catholic Charities Review and for a long time one of the most outspoken priests of the Catholic Church against socialism, designating the action of the Assembly as "the most brazen and insidious political outrage which has been perpetrated in this country since 1877."

Another letter made public by Mr. Amos was from Harold A. Content, an attorney, who has prosecuted a number of notorious agitators connected with the Red movement.

"Nobody could accuse me of being in sympathy with any persons who are seeking to overthrow the Government of the United States," wrote Mr. Content. "As you doubtless know, I prosecuted Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman and many other persons who sought to obstruct the laws of the United States while this country was at war. To the Socialist Party I am anathema. Therefore, no one can say that I am in sympathy with their aims. That does not blind me, however, to the injustice of the action of the majority of the Assembly in depriving these men of their seats, to which they had been lawfully elected by their constituents. If the course of the majority should be permitted to be carried on without protest, we might well see at some future date the Republicans in the Legislature unseating the Democratic members on the ground that the principles of the Democratic Party are inimical to the best interests of the United States. With equal logic might the majority in the Legislature suspend all Roman Catholics on the ground that such members had sworn a secret allegiance to the Pope."

New Head of Turkish Chamber Protests Partition of Empire

CONTANTINOPLE, Feb. 2.—Hikmet Bey, at one time Chargé d'Affaires at Vienna and more recently Turkish Under Secretary of State, was elected President of the Chamber today. In his opening speech he insisted that the empire must not be dismembered.

"We have demanded peace on President Wilson's principles," he declared, "and we are sure the powers now regulating the destinies of Europe will keep their promises."

MISS MARBURY OPPOSED.

Anti-Tammany Women Want to Pick Delegate to Convention.

The promise of the State Demorcatic leaders that one of the four delegates at large to the Democratic National Convention shall be woman now promises to be a fruitful source of trouble. Notice has been served upon William W. Farley, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and Norman E. Mack, National Committeeman, that the choice of a woman delegate at large must not be made by the men leaders, but must be left to the Democratic women of the State.

Particular opposition to the selection of Miss Elisabeth Marbury has been made by members of Democratic women's organizations, formed outside the regular party committees. Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby, Chairman of the Democratic Women's National Campaign Committee of One Thousand; Mrs. Grace Strachan Forsythe, former President of the Interborough Teachers' Association, and Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, Secretary of the State Reconstruction Commission, have been suggested by various groups.

Miss Marbury is understood to be the choice of a number of Tammany leaders, including Charles F. Murphy. Mrs. Mary A. Morse of Buffalo, Associate Woman Chairman of the Erie County Democratic Committee, who is also mentioned as a condidate, declared that the Democratic women up-State would never stand for Miss Marbury or any other woman picked out by the male members of Tammany.

The women opposed to Miss Marbury have announced their intention of carrying their fight to the coming unofficial State convention, which will decide on an organization choice for delegates, and will insist that the choice be left to the women delegates to the convention.

FRENCH RAILWAY THEFTS.

Government Moves to Check Extensive Pilfering of Goods.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—The French Departments of Justice and Police are threatening strict measures against railway thieves. For many months immense quantities of goods and baggage have been disappearing from stations and trains. Intricate systems have been evolved by the thieves for removing goods and disposing of them through several intermediaries so as to cover their tracks.

Yesterday nine members of a gang engaged in this traffic were arrested. At their head was Bendit Broutchoux, a well-known anarchist agitator who deserted from the army and with false papers obtained work as a taxi cab driver. When not engaged in carrying fares he used his cab, it is asserted, to transport stolen goods from one end of the city to another.

Among the latest thefts of this gang was that of a large quantity of chocolate. Its sale by one of the gang at less than market price put the police on the track, and when the same people were found to be implicated in removing a load of coal from a station yard without authority the arrests began.

Coal seems the most coveted of all goods, and the police guard around stations and dockyards has been doubled since the reduced lighting has given the thieves a new advantage.

SHIPPING BOARD CUTS COST.

Saves $739,875 a Year by Reduction of Personnel.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Chairman Payne of the United States Shipping Board has cut down the personnel of the Bureau of Operations by 63 per cent., eliminating salaries aggregating $739,875 a year, and asserts that he will be able to handle, on the old basis, practically all of the board's after-the-war work. Other economies he hopes to effect without hampering the work will bring the annual saving up to more than $1,000,000, he says.

Judge Payne reduced the working force from 694 to 269. The payroll was cut from $1,207,786 to $511,570. In a statement concerning the reorganization and the saving effected, the Shipping Board says this result was accomplished "by the elimination of all duplication of effort and the inauguration of various new systems and methods of performing the work."

Representatives of the Shipping Board are now perfecting the organized bureau in New York. As soon as this is accomplished there will be a reorganization of the Controller's division, and another big saving is expected.

Moroccan Jews Ask to be Spanish.

MADRID, Feb. 7.—A delegation of Jews from the Spanish zone in Morocco has arrived here with a largely signed petition from their co-religionists, asking that Spanish citizenship be granted them.

Finland Uses Lansbury as Envoy.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 7.—George Lansbury, formerly a Socialist member of the British House of Commons, has departed for Petrograd bearing a power of attorney from the Finnish Foreign Minister authorizing him to negotiate for the release of Finnish prisoners held in Soviet Russia.

FRENCH LAY CRISIS IN EXCHANGE TO US

Head of Bank of France Sees End of American and British Treasury Loans as Cause.

CABINET PLANS BUDGET CUT

Decides to Send Out Commisions to Report Variations in Prices of Necessaries.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—Georges Pallain, Governor of the Bank of France, explaining last night to a meeting of stockholders the alarming situation with regard to exchange, declared that it was caused by the interruption of advances from the English and American treasuries, which had thrown the market on its own resources at the moment the burdens of France became heavier through purchases for industrial reconstruction.

Le Journal, commenting on M. Pallain's declaration, says the difficult situation is due to the lack of financial solidarity on the part of the Allies.

In an editorial dealing with the exchange situation, André Liesse, member of the Institute and editor of the weekly financial journal Economiste, points out that in spite of all the recommendations not to increase imports, it is impossible to renounce the obtaining of raw materials indispensable to industries and economic resurrection, and foodstuffs such as wheat.

Sees Reproaches in Part Deserved.

"If the reproaches of the United States that we have shown want of foresight in our economic and financial policy since the armistice are exaggerated because our transatlantic critics are unable to appreciate the depth and seriousness of our wounds, many of them are deserved," M. Liesse says.

The writer admits that there has been a lack of coherent policy, but declares individual initiative has produced results, proving it has been able to act. With regard to international conferences to remedy exchange, M. Liesse does not seem hopeful. He says:

"Opinions may differ as regards the results such conferences could give if they could be held. They could hardly take positive resolution, owing to the private interests involved. It is to be hoped they would not involve too many delegates, as that would result in failure. The delegates should bring definite plans from the Governments and the financial, commercial and industrial groups they represent."

In the suggestion of Carter Glass, Secretary of the United States Treasury, that European countries permit the export of gold, M. Liesse sees "a kind of irony." He points out that the 3,600,000,000 francs of France's gold reserve would not weigh much in comparison with the 20,000,000,000-franc deficit between her imports and exports last year. England, with her 3,000,000,000 francs of gold reserve, is not in a much better position, he says.

Favors Loans from American Banks.

M. Liesse thinks it possible that loans could be raised from American banks to finance exclusively the purchase of raw materials and indispensable foodstuffs. He concludes:

"America's main motive is 'balance your receipts and expenses.' A good commencement will be to reimburse the Bank of France with part of the forthcoming loan, which will certainly be an element of confidence in the eyes of those from whom we demand credit."

The Cabinet at a meeting today decided to constitute commissions analogous to those in the United States and England, charged with following the variations in prices of articles indispensable to life, to enable the Government to take necessary action. The temporary indemnity for the high cost of living now allowed by the State is to be maintained until these commissions have reported.

M. François-Marsal, the Finance Minister, described the financial position to the Cabinet and submitted proposals for new taxation and the reduction of budgetary expenses. The Cabinet, after an examination of the situation, decided that the 47,500,000,000 francs previously foreseen for the budget should be compressed to 39,000,000,000.

Leading brokers here appear to agree that an international conference cannot apply any permanent remedy to the situation, but believe that some arrangement may be made for credits that will greatly improve it. They point out the methods of the German exporters as showing the necessity of action to control international payments. All offers of goods made from Germany to French buyers stipulate that payments shall be made in Swiss francs. This is calculated to improve German exchange in Switzerland, while, at the same time, lowering the value of French francs in comparison with the Swiss, the German exporters thus gaining both ways.

BLAMES ITALIAN GOVERNMENT

Socialist Deputy Says Exchange Is Due to Mistakes Since War.

ROME, Feb. 6.—Dr. Mazzoni Graziadei, Socialist member of the Chamber of Deputies, told the Chamber today that the rise in the rate of exchange was due to the mistakes of the Government since the beginning of the war.

"The measures adopted now, such as forbidding the publication of exchange figures, are puerile," he said. "It is like, when a patient breaks a thermometer, for him to say he has no fever.

"Give up all hope that Europe can save itself with the help of America. America, herself, if involved in the great crisis, must break any financial relations with Europe. The only salvation for Continental Europe is to form a confederation of peoples, which alone can resist Anglo-American speculation."

SHIP 70 SINN FEINERS.

Airplane Accompanies Vessel to England to Prevent Escapes.

QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 8.—Seventy Sinn Fein prisoners, strongly guarded, were shipped for England today aboard two naval vessels which sailed from this port.

An airplane accompanied the vessels until they were well out of sight of land to guard against an attempt at escape.

Latvia Relieves Recovered Territory.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Dispatches received by the Lettish Legation here from Riga say that the Latvian Prime Minister, accompanied by representatives of the American Red Cross, is visiting the districts liberated from the Bolsheviki with a view to re-establishing local communal institutions and combating an epidemic of typhus.

PRAGUE, Feb. 6.—The Social Democrats in the National Assembly have drawn up a resolution asking for political and commercial recognition of Soviet Russia by Czechoslovakia.

Motorcycle Police in Paris Replace Guard With Cloaks, Plumed Helmets and Horses

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Having found its police system inadequate to deal with increasing crime, Paris has decided to modernize itself. The majesty and picturesqueness of the Republican Guard, with their long cloaks and plumed helmets, ambling along on ancient horses through the streets have been found insufficient to overawe the apaches who fought for four years against Germany.

Something more efficacious was needed, and something quicker. So, having tried with success to follow the American methods of traffic control, the Prefect of Police has decided to take the same example for criminal catching.

The first step was decided on yesterday, when the City Council authorized the purchase of a dozen motorcycles and side cars for police use. This little force is to be kept in a central station for emergencies, when the men will be rushed off to the danger point. If experiment proves successful the city is promised special automobile brigades to guard the streets, and for all but show the mounted Republican Guard will then be relegated to the museum of picturesque things of the past.

AUSTRIA WANTS AMERICAN MANAGER

Apparently Ready to Turn Over All Public Utilities to Our Capitalists.

ITALIAN BUYERS ARE BUSY

Purchasing Shares at Vastly Depreciated Rates, Expecting a Big Profit.

(Copyright, 1920, by Chicago Tribune Co.)

VIENNA, Feb. 8.—Austria is offering American capital its first chance to run an entire nation. If an organization of American business men, in possession of a sufficient amount of money and a great amount of brains, with the proverbial amount of American enterprise, should make an offer to take over the railroads, mines, mills, factories, street car lines and all public utilities, the chances are that the offer would be accepted.

Vienna would much prefer pledging these things to pawning her public buildings and museums. What the city wants is an American business manager.

At present Italian and other capitalists are buying up shares of public utilities and industries. The krone is so cheap that these men figure that the slightest change for the better will enrich them. Thus, if a certain stock were to declare a 5 per cent. dividend, it would really mean a 50 per cent. dividend to the men who bought at the present prices. Austria is not taking kindly to this sort of speculation.

Americans here oppose the idea of Congress voting more money for Austria or any other European country. These loans create a tax burden which all the people of America bear, they say, while only a few will profit. The time has come, in their opinion, for capital to bear this burden and to reap whatever profits accrue.

The Austrian Government would give its support in legislation affecting import and export customs. Thus, it is said, the cheap Austrian money, which would at first puzzle investors, would pay labor, while it would be possible to obtain francs and dollars for the surplus production.

A workman in Austria today gets between 200 and 300 kroner a week, which is from 75 cents to $1. Today work is going on only in vital industries. There is considerable unemployment. In this situation employment for all at Austrian wages would produce enough for sale within the country at present prices and in foreign countries, for foreign money is worth from ten to forty times as much as the Austrian krone at present.

PARIS DRESSMAKERS MOVE.

Famous Shops Desert the Rue de la Paix for the Champs Elysees.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Since the war ended a gradual change has been coming over Paris. Its dressmaking centre is moving west. One by one the shops, which made the Rue de la Paix famous, have begun to shift to the Champs Elysées, where newer rivals, who had set up there, were taking more than their share of business.

Though some are clinging to their boulevard quarters, still it is becoming more obvious that the Champs Elysées will soon be the dressmaking centre of Paris. Its advantages are many. The buildings are more modern and more spacious, and many which were built as private palaces are coming into market because the owners, hard hit by the war, can no longer keep them up.

Banks are taking the place of the dressmakers on the Rue de la Paix. They are also spreading into the sacred precincts of the Place Vendôme, and clerks have ousted the midinettes from their former quarters.

But dressmakers are not to have it all their own way on the Champs Elysées. The magnificent carriage way and promenade from the Place de la Concorde to the Arc de Triomphe is too dear to the heart of the Parisian to allow of its abuse. The newcomers some time ago asked that the forty-foot sidewalks on each side should be cut into, and a carriageway laid which would enable their customers to drive to the doors of their establishments. Protests poured in at once from all quarters, and the city fathers have decided in their favor, and though they cannot and do not seek to prevent the migration of the shops onto the triumphal way its beauty will not be impaired.

Monaco Heiress to Wed Polignac.

ROME, Feb. 7.—The Prince of Monaco officially announced to the Pope today the engagement of his niece and heiress to the principality, the Duchess de Valentinois, to Count Pierre de Polignac. The Pope offered his congratulations to the Prince.

REPUBLICAN 'BIG 4' IS BENNETT'S GOAL

Johnson Leader Will Try to Defeat Root or Wadsworth for Place.

WOOD FORCES UNDAUNTED

Put Little Credence in Report That King Will Control 200 Delegates.

William M. Bennett, former State Senator and President of the New York City Johnson for President Club, announced yesterday that he would be a candidate for delegate at large to the Republican National Convention. Mr. Bennett declared he expected to be elected, and said he intended to cast his vote in that case for Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California as the Republican nominee for President.

Mr. Bennett undoubtedly will have to enter the Republican primaries as an insurgent. It is not expected that he will be recommended for election at the coming unofficial State convention of the party to be held at Carnegie Hall on Feb. 19 and 20. The indications are that the organization choice for the Republican "Big Four" will be James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and William M. Calder, the two United States Senators, Elihu Root and Colonel William Boyce Thompson, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Republican national committee.

Lack of support from the party leaders will not bother Mr. Bennett, who has been a thorn in the side of the local Republican organization for several years. In 1917 he upset the plan of the Republican leaders for fusion on a city ticket and defeated John Purroy Mitchel for the Republican nomination for Mayor in the Republican primaries. Last Fall he failed by only a narrow margin to defeat for the Republican nomination Fiorello H. La Guardia, later elected President of the Board of Aldermen.

To Fight Root and Wadsworth.

Friends of Mr. Bennett said he probably would centre his campaign attacks against Senator Wadsworth and Mr. Root, both of whom are considered vulnerable by the more radical element of the Republican Party. He based his expectation of success, his followers say, upon the hope of beating one of the two. In announcing his candidacy Mr. Bennett said:

"The time has come for the Republicans to nominate a man who can win. That man is Hiram W. Johnson.

"This so-called Democratic Administration has been purely a socialistic Administration, and has been the most extravagant and lawless the country ever has had. Personal liberty has practically disappeared. It has been an administration of men and personal whim, and not of law.

"The people are tired of working hard to earn money to pay enormous taxes simply to have a socialistic Government spend it in keeping up an army of useless officeholders, whose efforts increase and do not decrease the high cost of living."

Reports that friends of John T. King, Republican National Committeeman from Connecticut, recently forced out as campaign manager for Major Gen. Leonard Wood, would control approximately 200 delegates to the Republican National Convention were received with skepticism by General Wood's supporters, as was the report that Mr. King's aid has been sought by the managers for Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and Senator Johnson.

Place King as Harding Man.

Belief was expressed that Mr. King was more likely to support Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio, whom both the Wood and Johnson adherents now consider at least as dangerous a contender as Governor Lowden. Mr. King will undoubtedly be able to be elected a delegate from the Fairfield County Congress district in Connecticut. The Wood forces are not likely to make a fight for an instructed delegation from Connecticut, it was said, but they are expected to aid in the fight of J. Henry Roraback to displace Mr. King as a member of the National Committee.

Justice John R. Davies, head of the Butler Presidential Nomination Committee, said the supporters of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler believed the Republican nominee for President should be the deliberate choice of a convention of uninstructed delegates. He added:

"Dr. Butler's supporters point to the fact that at the present time he is almost alone in doing the thinking for the Republican Party. His speeches for two years past, delivered in thirty States, have been devoted to analyzing and discussing some of the specific problems which confront the people. The press of the country has very largely indorsed his views and has given them wide publicity."

"Gassed"

NEXT Sunday The New York Times will reproduce in rotogravure Sargent's famous war picture. The painting depicts the slow procession of gas blinded men groping their way across shell torn battlefields. British critics have acclaimed it as the most impressive picture inspired by the war.

ODESSA OCCUPIED FINALLY BY REDS

Moscow Announces That Soviet Forces Fought Their Way Into Town.

WARSHIPS COVER RETREAT

British Take Off Sick, Wounded and Refugees Under Protecting Fire of Their Guns.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Bolshevist troops have victoriously entered Odessa, according to a wireless message sent out today by the Soviet Government at Moscow. It adds:

"We fought our way into Odessa. In the direction of Stavropol, we occupied Friedrichsfeld, Konstantinovka and Blagodanoyi."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 7, (Associated Press)—Messages from Odessa say the foreign elements began evacuating the city on Friday when British ships fired over the city throughout the day. The Bolsheviki are reported to be within four miles of the city.

The British battleships Ajax and Marlborough, the light cruiser Ceres and the American destroyer Talbot are at Odessa.

Two hundred sick and 150 refugees from Odessa were taken aboard the American merchant vessel Navahoe, the advices say. The policy is to remove the sick and wounded and women and children first and then the men who have been actively opposing the Bolsheviki.

CRITICISE MILLERAND.

Two London Papers Take Exception to His Declaration Regarding Russia

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 9.—Both The Daily Chronicle and The Daily News take exception to the terms which Premier Millerand, in his speech in the French Chamber, referred to the Russian problem. The Chronicle says that he dealt with it "in a spirit strongly opposed to what are now the dominant convictions entertained in Britain alike by experts and the British public."

As regards the French Premier's disputing the view that the White armies were beaten past recovery, The Chronicle declares that Yudenitch and Kolchak are irreparably defeated, and that Denikin cannot hope to maintain his precarious position unless fresh allied help is given on a grand scale.

"M. Millerand went on to asseverate," says The Chronicle, "that peace with Soviet Russia was still out of the question. The co-operative trading proposals had nothing to do with it. We washed our hands of the Esthonian peace. We would lend our utmost support to Poland if she were attacked by the Bolsheviki—and so on and so on.

"Now, British opinion approves the Esthonian peace. British opinion sees no used in refraining from peace with the Soviets now that no body of Russians with any chance of defeating them is prepared to fight them. British opinion would certainly sanction its Government's supporting Poland if the Bolsheviki refused her proper terms; but as they do not it will certainly sanction no British effort to dissuade her from accepting peace or to relieve her from the consequences of refusing it.

"On these points British opinion is becoming quite overwhelming, and we would respectfully direct the attention of M. Millerand and of Frenchmen generally to it; otherwise they may find too late that they have been building on illusions."

The Daily News says:

"There are many evidences that M. Millerand and some, at least, of his colleagues have little sympathy with the return to reason exhibited in the decions lately taken by the Supreme Council in regard to Russia. It would be regrettable that there should be a difference of opinion between this country and Paris on the Russian or any other question, but Mr. Lloyd George can be under no illusion as to the reality and extent of the demand among his countrymen for full peace with Russia."

POLISH SOCIALIST THREAT.

Will Call General Strike if Red Peace Offer Is Rejected.

WARSAW, Feb. 4.—The Socialists announce that a general strike will be proclaimed throughout Poland if the Government rejects the Bolshevist peace offer. They assert that all the labor parties would support such a strike.

The Chief Council of the Polish Socialist Party today passed a resolution demanding the immediate opening of peace negotiations upon the basis of recognition of the independence of Poland and other nations that proclaimed the desire to exist as free States after the fall of the Russian Czar.

The Council has called a conference of trade unions, workmen's councils and Socialist members of the Diet for Sunday to consider action to influence the Government.

ESTHS LET YUDENITCH GO.

But Force Ex-Chief of Northwest Army to Give Up His Treasure.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—A dispatch to the Central News from Reval, Esthonia, says that General Yudenitch, former commander of the Russian Northwest Army, has been allowed to leave Esthonia with several of his staff officers.

Before being permitted to depart, however, he was obliged to hand over 250,000,000 marks to the commission formed to undertake liquidation of the Northwest Army.

CITE 3 FRIEDSAM PLEDGES.

Supporters Insist City Lineup on Regent Is Broken.

In the contest between William Bondy, a Republican leader, and Michael Friedsam for election as a member of the New York State Board of Regents, to succeed Abram I. Elkus, supporters of Mr. Friedsam yesterday named three Assemblymen they declared were pledged for him. They are Martin Bourke, Noel B. Fox and O. J. Smith, of New York County. They also said Assemblyman George N. Jesse and Assemblyman John C. Hawkins, the negro member, were likely to vote for Mr. Friedsam in spite of the efforts of S. S. Koenig, County Chairman, in behalf of Mr. Bondy.

In Brooklyn, where Jacob A. Livingston, the county leader, is supporting Mr. Bondy, Senator Alvan Burlingame, Jr., and Assemblymen W. T. Simpson and Warren I. Lee were said to be for Mr. Friedsam, with Senator Charles C. Lockwood uncommitted. Assemblyman N. M. Pettee of Queens and several other Brooklyn and Queens Assemblymen, whose names were withheld, were also declared to be for Mr. Friedsam.

The reported "switch" of the New York City legislators was said to have followed the visit to this city of Speaker Thaddeus C. Sweet, who is for Mr. Friedsam. It was said that George W. Aldridge, the Rochester leader, was using his influence in behalf of Mr. Friedsam, and that Assemblyman Simon L. Adler, the majority leader, who is from Rochester, was active in Mr. Friedsam's behalf. Under the law, the election of a Regent must take place this week.

Brooklyn Woman Hangs Herself.

Mrs. Anna Savage, 56 years old, committed suicide by hanging herself to the hot-water pipes in her kitchen at 10 Macon Street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. Her body was discovered by her son, who said his mother had been suffering for some months from a nervous breakdown, for which she had received hospital treatment up to last Christmas.

Ulster Will Never Give Up, Says Viscountess Massereene

LONDON, Feb. 7.—A dispatch to The Manchester Guardian from Belfast says that much comment has been aroused by a speech made by Viscountess Massereene at a Unionist meeting in Antrim.

"The enemy is at our gates and must be fought," she concluded, "let's arm ourselves with a clear consciousness that Ulster will never surrender an inch of her soil or tittle of right to the insidious bloody foe. And when the time comes, let us be ready as one man to strike for the Protestant faith, liberty, King, and country, and the land of Ulster will deliver such a buffet to our enemies that these people will carry its mark to the scaffold and grave."

FACE MONEY CRISIS, GILLETT ASSERTS

People Must Save to Avert Panic Like That of 1893, He Says.

PUTS LIVING COST ON DEBT

Questions Whether Combinations of Employed Are Not Greater Menace Than of Employers.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 8.—The United States is facing the worst financial crisis in its history, according to Speaker Frederick H. Gillett of the National House of Representatives, who this afternoon delivered an address before 5,000 persons.

The present high cost of living, he said, resulted largely from the greatly inflated conditions due to the floating debt of $4,000,000,000 in Treasury certificates. He also referred to the Berger episode in Congress, the difficulties between the employer and the employed and the Bolshevist propaganda and efforts to overthrow the United States Government.

The principal means of bringing down the high cost of living, he declared, was by thrift on the part of the public, and unless the people saved, this country would face a panic similar to that of 1893. Speaking of the financial interests of the country, he said they were built like a pack of cards. It is up to the public to practice due care and eliminate luxuries, so that the present conditions may be bettered.

Speaker Gillett said that the expulsion of Victor Berger from his seat in Congress a second time without having the facts brought before Congress was justified in that the Constitution provides that no man, once expelled from his seat, is eligible to return.

Like the problem of years ago, when the Government was forced to fight trusts, the Speaker said that today Congress faces a new question. "It is a question whether the combinations of the employed are not more threatening to our business life than those of the employers," he said.

Continuing, he declared he believed that labor unions were essential for the protection of the men, but "when they go so far as to threaten for their own advancement to stop the wheels of the railroads and close the output of the mines, without which our whole industrial organization would collapse, they, in their turn, are exercising a power which no Government can safely permit."

STATE'S CASE NOT ENDED.

Will Call More Witnesses When Socialist Hearing Reopens Tuesday.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 8.—The five suspended Socialist Assemblymen will begin their day in court this week and endeavor to refute the charges on which the State Assembly would deny them seats. The State will continue its introduction of evidence on the resumption of the hearing by the Assembly Judiciary Committee Tuesday morning and may take until Wednesday before resting.

Then the Socialists will have their turn. The belief in Albany tonight is that, aside from the introduction of evidence designed to offset the testimony adduced by the State to connect by speeches each of the Socialists with advocacy of the violent overthrow of the United States Government, the Socialists' main argument will endeavor to reconcile their war measure votes with their party pledge and their oath to uphold the State Constitution. The suspended men themselves will, according to present plans, take the witness stand to explain their voting records.

Morris Hillquit, chief of counsel for the Socialists, is expected to return from Saranac Lake and conduct the defense. He will be asked to take the stand as an expert on Socialism. There is little likelihood that the investigation will be ended much before the end of the month.

RENT STRIKE THREATENED.

Federated Union Hints at Walkout of 650,000 Against Profiteering.

A committee appointed at the last meeting of the Central Federated Union will call on Mayor Hylan this week to discuss the framing of legislation directed against rent profiteering. According to Ernest Bohm, Secretary of the organization and Edward I. Hannah, its President, there is considerable talk of a general strike of the 350,000 members of the union in the event nothing is done to meet the situation.

"We mean business," said Mr. Bohm last night. "We do not intend to permit action to be put off indefinitely. Our membership has been hit hard by rent profiteers and they are in no mood to be put off by kind words.

"Whatever reply the Mayor makes will be presented in our report to the central body on Friday night. It will then be up to the delegates to decide whether to call a conference of represenatives of all the trades to discuss further action. The proposition of a general strike would have to be passed on by a referendum of all the various unions affiliated with the Central Federated Union. Such a referendum could be taken in two weeks.

"We are going to do our best to avoid extreme action. We know what a general tie-up would mean to this city and we do not intend to have one if we can help it. But the situation is desperate. The worker is up against it in the matter of rent profiteering and does not know which way to turn."

The committee, in addition to Mr. Hannah and Mr. Bohm consists of Matthew McConville of the Safety Engineers' Union, William Kohn of the American Labor Party and Morris Brown, Treasurer of the Central Federated Union.

According to Mr. Bohm, action by the Central Federated Union would be accompanied by the co-operation of the Brooklyn Central Labor Union with 100,000 members and the United Hebrew Trades with 200,000 members.

Edison Tells Why He Refused Honor

When asked yesterday at his home in Orange, N. J., why he had declined to accept a decoration for his services on the Naval Consulting Board, Thomas Edison replied: "I did not wish to hurt any one's feelings."

FRUITLESS MONTH IN LEGISLATURE

Trial of Socialists Has Disrupted Entire Program for 1920 Session.

ALL LAWMAKING HALTED

Prohibition, Profiteering and Social Welfare Bills Not Yet Considered by Committees.

SESSION MAY RUN INTO MAY

Inaction Until Socialist Cases Are Ended, and Further Delays Then Are Predicted.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 8.—Investigation of the eligibility of the five suspended Socialist Assemblymen has disrupted the entire legislative program for the 1920 session. Almost complete inaction, except for the introduction of about 800 bills, has resulted to date.

Halted at the very inception of the session by the temporary ousting of the Socialists, the lawmakers, unable to get down to business, face the possibility of being kept in Albany until well into May. Committees in both houses have been more or less inactive. The first committee hearing is scheduled for Feb. 17 on the Walker bill, restoring boxing to a legal basis in the State.

The first month of the session has seen just four bills made law and a few more passed by either house. Not one of the really big issues to be decided by this session has gone beyond the stage of introduction and reference to committee. None of the various prohibition bills, measures seeking to put an end to rent profiteering, milk legislation, municipal ownership, the social welfare program and numerous referendum proposals have even been considered by the committees. The Senate committees have been held up just as much as have the committees of the Assembly, and in neither house have they progressed beyond organization steps.

Long daily sessions of the Assembly Judiciary Committee hearing on the Socialists, which have been watched by practically the entire House, short Assembly sessions and sessions of the Senate which accomplished little in advancing constructive legislation, have resulted in a wasted month. A further waste is promised until the Socialist inquiry is over.

Even then there loom up two additional delays. One will be the party conventions to nominate delegates at large to the national conventions. Many of the legislators will be delegates to these conventions. Spring primaries on April 5 will cause further delays, as it is expected that the Legislature will recess over primary week.

Little hope of legislative progress can be seen for this week. Many members in both Houses, contending that little will be done beyond continuing the Socialist hearing, purpose staying home. Last week the attendance at the sessions was low and it is believed that only Monday night saw a quorum present in either branch.

Prohibition Issue Strong.

Last year's disposition of the prohibition question was supposed effectually to have removed the "wet" and "dry" question as a political issue in the State, but legislators say that the issue is more intense this year. Already there are four measures relating to prohibition on which the lawmakers will have to act, and with a Governorship campaign approaching there is evidence that there will be considerable political "jockeying" before any action on prohibition is taken. Democrats have tied up in committee their resolution to rescind last year's ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment, and the submission of the question to the people at a special Spring election.

There are two important prohibition enforcement bills, one backed by the Anti-Saloon League, and the other having the support of the Republican leaders, who are interested in the continuance of the Excise Department. One of these, the Thompson-Slacer bill, is practically the Volstead act rewritten to conform to State conditions. However, this measure, as introduced, fails to provide for an enforcement bureau. There is a second bill, known as the Gage bill, retaining the State Excise Department as an enforcement body and defining as intoxicating beverages containing more than one-half per cent. alcohol.

This is a measure to which the Republican leaders have switched their backing. This means that the Thompson-Slacer bill is doomed for the legislative graveyard. However, there is a feeling at the Capitol that the Gage bill may also be defeated for a compromise measure enabling State courts to handle violations of the Federal act in conjunction with the Federal district courts. Other prohibition measures before the lawmakers include the proposition of Assemblyman O. J. Smith to direct the Attorney General to arrange with the Federal authorities, if possible, for the non-enforcement in this State of the prohibition law, and in the event of such agreement being impossible, directing the Attorney General to proceed in the United States Supreme Court to enjoin for the State enforcement of the dry law.

Minority Leader James J. Walker of the Senate wants the Legislature to submit to the people at the coming election the question, "Are you in favor of ratification by the Legislature of a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes?"

Milk Problem Must Be Faced.

The lawmakers must also seek a solution of the milk problem. Two bills, one proposing the creation of a State Commission to control the milk industry by placing it on the basis of a public utility and the other giving the City of New York the right to own and operate its own milk plants, are in committee. The State control proposal is the target of criticism up State, particularly from the farming districts, and last week the State Grange went on record against its enactment.

Assemblyman Maurice Bloch of New York City, Democrat, has offered a bill providing for the creation of a Bureau of Milk Regulation in the State Department of Farms and Markets, which would be empowered to regulate producers and dealers and fix standards of quality and purity of milk, together with prices to be charged. There is little doubt that this bill will be defeated.

With building conditions acute and landlords raising rents legislation to curb alleged profiteers must be faced before adjournment of the Legislature. There are several proposed remedies in committee. All would create a rent commission with power to regulate rents on a "fair and reasonable" basis.

The New York traction situation promises to be a live issue. One of the few accomplishments of the session so far has been the adoption of a concurrent resolution calling on Transit Commissioner Nixon to furnish the Legislature with the results of his investigation of the traction problem in the greater city, together with recommendations which would enable State aid.

Whether the Legislature should hereafter act on ratification of proposed Federal constitutional amendments without first referring them to the electorate will be settled if propositions already submitted are acted on.

Two of the social welfare bills advocated by Governor Smith have been introduced—the minimum wage and eight day bills.

Practically nothing has been done on the annual appropriation bill, which creates a high-figure record this year, with an estimate that the running of the State Government will be close to $140,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

McLEAN LOSES WORLD'S PROFESSIONAL SKATING TITLE TO MATHIESEN

MATHIESEN BEATS M'LEAN FOR TITLE

Outskates American at 1,500 and 10,000 Meters and Clinches Championship.

VICTORY BY THREE TO ONE

Norseman Captures Every Race Except That at 5,000 Meters on Ice at Christiania.

CHRISTIANIA, Feb. 8.—Oscar Mathiesen of this city defeated Robert McLean of Chicago, the world's ice skating champion by two-fifths of a second in the 1,500-meter race here today. Mathiesen covered the distance in 2 minutes 27 4-5 seconds, while McLean's time was 2 minutes 28 1-5 seconds. Mathiesen also won the 10,000-meter contest in 18 minutes 39 1-10 seconds. McLean's time for this event was 19 minutes 2-5 second.

An enthusiastic crowd witnessed the events today. The King and Queen and Prince Olav were present.

McLean led throughout the greater part of the 1,500-metre race, but Mathiesen passed him near the end.

In the 10,000-metre race McLean got off first, but on the first lap he took the inner swing for the outer swing and seemed to stop for a moment. He continued leading, however, up to the last two and a half laps, when he appeared to become exhausted. Mathiesen then passed him and won by three-quarters of a lap.

The contests were held in cloudy weather, but the ice was in good condition. There was enough wind, however, today to prevent new world's records for the distances.

In the 1,500-meter event McLean started out like a whirlwind, making the first 500 meters in 0:40 5-10. This outclassed Mathiesen's world's record of Saturday, which was 0:43 3-10. But the American apparently overstrained himself in this burst of speed, and Mathiesen succeeded in passing him and winning by a fraction of a second.

In the 500-meter race on Saturday McLean led for three-quarters of the distance, but Mathiesen, with a powerful spurt, outstripped him near the end. McLean took the lead from the start in the next event at 5,000 meters, and kept it to the finish.

At the end of Saturday's contests both McLean and Mathiesen appeared to be tired. Some of the spectators loudly voiced their disappointment over the time made, as conditions for fast racing were most favorable.

According to the terms of the championship contest, four races were to be skated, and in the event of each contestant winning two events, a fifth race, at 1,000 meters, was to be held. As Mathiesen won three of the four events, it was not necessary to continue the competition, his victory in the 10,000 meter race earning him the titular honors.

McLean's failure to get more than one of the four races will surprise local followers of skating, and at the same time bear out the contentions of Mathiesen regarding his defeats by McLean in this country. The Norwegian champion was decisively defeated by the Chicagoan in a series of races, and declared at the conclusion of the match that track conditions affected his stride, which is a bit longer than that of the American. Mathiesen predicted at the time that he would turn the tables in a match with McLean in Norway, owing to the fact that the longer turns on the courses used there would allow him to get the full benefit of the longer stride. Mathiesen had anything but an easy time in the races of the past two days, judging from the time recorded. He won the 500-meter race with a great closing sprint, took the 1,500-meter event by the fraction of a second, and was defeated at 5,000 meters. The only event in which he won decisively was the 10,000-meter race, in which he finished twenty seconds ahead of the American. However, while McLean held the home skater closely, the difference in course conditions undoubtedly had an effect, since McLean clearly outclassed the Norwegian in the races held in this country some time ago.

STEINMETZ WINS TITLE.

Captures Western Skating Championship on Ice at Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 8.—William Steinmetz, Chicago ice skater, won the Western skating championship here this afternoon with a total of 90 points. His closest competitors were E. McGowan of St. Paul and Roy McWhirter of Chicago, each of whom had 40 points.

Steinmetz won first in the 440-yard race at 46 seconds, half mile at 1:42, and mile at 3:26; McGowan took first in the 220-yard and third in the mile, while McWhirter won second in the 220-yard and 440-yard events.

ST. MALACHY'S FIVE WINS.

Holy Name Loses by Single Point in Basket Ball, 21 to 20.

By the margin of a single point the Holy Name Big Five went down in defeat yesterday before St. Malachy's in basket ball at the Manhattan Casino. The score was 21 to 20. Tideaback returned to the Holy Name line-up and gave an impressive demonstration of his value as a forward by caging five baskets against the stiffest kind of a defense. St. Malachy's team-work was highly developed. Holy Name led, 12 to 10, at the end of the first half, but could not quite hold to the pace thereafter.

Yesterday's line-up follows:

ST. MALACHY (21).		HOLY NAME (20).
Smith	R. F.	Grieves
J. Connolly	L. F.	Tideaback
Miller	C.	E. Connolly
O'Brien	R. G.	Driscoll
Fitzpatrick	L. G.	Pinkney

Goals from floor—Smith (3), Miller (2), Fitzgerald (2), O'Brien (2), Grieves (2), Tideaback (5), E. Connolly, Pinkney, Driscoll. Goals from foul—J. Connolly, Miller, O'Brien. Substitution—Bergen for Grieves. Referee—Mr. Caffery. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

LYCEUM FIVE WINS TWO.

Gains Basket Ball Victories Over MacDowell and Ansonia Teams.

The Lyceum basket ball team added another brace of victories to its record yesterday. In a matinee game, held at Palm Garden, the Lyceum representatives triumphed over MacDowell Lyceum by a score of 42 to 27, after a comparatively easy game.

Fresh from this success, the Lyceum quintet tackled the Ansonia A. A. five of Connecticut, on the Lyceum court in East Eighty-sixth Street, and emerged victorious by the convincing margin of 42 to 25.

The lineups:

AFTERNOON GAME.

LYCEUM (42).		MacDOWELL (27).
Smith	R. F.	Holloran
Blank	L. F.	Riconda
McIntyre	C.	O'Brien
Smythe	R. G.	McSherry
Holloran	L. G.	O'Hare

Goals from floor—Smith (4), Blank (5), McIntyre (4), Smythe (5), Holloran (3), Riconda (2), O'Brien (2), McSherry (2). Goals from foul—Smythe (6), Holloran (5). Referee—Mr. Johnson, MacDowell Lyceum. Time of halves—Fifteen and twenty minutes.

EVENING GAME.

LYCEUM (42).		ANSONIA (25).
Smith	R. F.	Wassmer
Shuttles	L. F.	Norman
McIntyre	C.	Harvey
Calder	R. G.	Wright
Smythe	L. G.	Fuller

Thirty-six Amateur Bouts Crowd 'Pro' Fight Off Card

MADRID, Saturday, Feb. 7.—An attempt to stage a pugilistic bout here between Frank Crozier, who was defeated by Jack Johnson in 1916, and a fighter named Namaeff ended in a dismal failure. The crowd, which filled the hall, treated the fighters much as they would have treated bullfighters, and became so excited that instead of one fight three dozen fights were proceeding in the hall at the same time. The scheduled fight had to be called off. The referee gave the decision to Crozier.

MARIANAO HANDICAP WON BY MLLE. DAZIE

Thraves Entry, at 4 to 1, Captures Feature Worth $1,860 at Havana.

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 8.—Mlle. Dazie, running in the colors of W. V. Thraves and showing improved form over recent races, won the Marianao Claiming Handicap, a six-furlong sprint for three-year-olds and upward, at the Oriental Park course today. She was coupled in the betting with Marse John and the books held the entry at 4 to 1. Mlle. Dazie was badly outrun in the early part but she closed gamely and won by a head. The winner received $1,860.

Diomed, well played, being backed down from 10 to 1 to 6 to 1 at the close, finished with a rush in the first race and catching the leader in the last sixteenth, went ahead and won in a gallop by six lengths. Little One was second, half a length in front of Plain Heather.

The results:

FIRST RACE—For three-year-olds; claiming; purse $600; five and one-half furlongs. Diomed 100 pounds (J. Kederis), 6 to 1, 5 to 2, and 6 to 5, first; Little One 104 (W. Brown), 5 to 2 and 6 to 5, second; Plain Heather 102 (J. Carmody), 1 to 2, third. Time—1:07 2-5. He's a Bear, Leonora P., Hello Partner, Director James, Sea Prince, Northern Belle and Entry also ran.

SECOND RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $600; six furlongs. Lady Ivan, 112 pounds (R. McCrann), 6 to 1, 5 to 2 and 6 to 5, first; Old Eylers 102 (J. Barnes), 8 to 5 and 4 to 5, second; Homan 99 (A. Kreger), 2 to 1, third. Time—1:14 1-5. Baccarat, Ibsam, Chansonette, Naoma Walton, Twenty-seven, Ralph S., Native Soil, Blanche Donalton, and Jose de Vales also ran.

THIRD RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $600; six furlongs. Gordon Russell 108 pounds (Jarrell), 10 to 1, 4 to 1 and 2 to 1, first; Beverly James 102 (Barnes), 4 to 1 and 2 to 1, second; Marlock 109 (E. Fator), 1 to 3, third. Time—1:13 2-5. Unwise Child, Burlingame, Jack Healy, Elga, Assign and Galaway also ran.

FOURTH RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $600; one mile. Slippery Silver 102 pounds (Carmody), 8 to 1, 3 to 1 and 8 to 5, first; War Tax 107 (C. Howard), 8 to 5 and 4 to 5, second; El Coronel 101 (J. Barnes), 1 to 4, third. Time—1:41 2-5. Rockares, Guidepost, Sayeth, Passion, and Royalty also ran.

FIFTH RACE—Purse, $1,200 added; Marianao Claiming; handicap; for three-year-olds and up; six furlongs. Mlle. Dazie 94 pounds (Woods), 4 to 1, 8 to 5, and 4 to 5, first; Sirocco 108 (Pickens), 4 to 1, 8 to 5, and 4 to 5, second; Surplice 103 (Merimee), 6 to 1, 5 to 2, and 6 to 5, third. Time—1:11 4-5. Top O' the Morning, Right Angle, Curreney, Skiles Knob, Major Dome, and Marse John also ran.

SIXTH RACE—Purse $800; handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; claiming; mile and a sixteenth. Freemantle 101 pounds (Carmody), 5 to 2, even, and 1 to 2, first; Cromwell 126 (Mountain), 2 to 1, 4 to 5, and 2 to 5, second; Legal 104 (Kederis), 5 to 2, even, and 1 to 2, third. Time—1:12 3-5. Iolite, Jellison, War Spirit, and Scotch Verdict also ran.

SEVENTH RACE—Purse $600; for four-year-olds and upward; claiming; mile and an eighth. Attorney Muir 104 pounds (Tryon), 4 to 1, 8 to 5, and 4 to 5, first; Regresso, 107 (Carmody), 4 to 1, 8 to 5, and 4 to 5, second; Ellison, 109 (Kederis), 5 to 2, even, and 1 to 2, third. Time—1:53 3-5. Sasenta, Fly Home, and G. O'Malley also ran.

Comment on Current Events in Sports.

New Tennis Rules Smothered.

In spite of the roaring tempest of preliminary criticism, both public and private, which greeted the drastic changes suggested to the United States Lawn Tennis Association this year, the annual meeting last Friday turned out to be a rather tame though sufficiently verbose affair. The expected battle on the proposal to change the traditional scoring system, with a new manner of handicapping, evaporated completely when the Committee on Revision of the Rules at the eleventh hour substituted the mere suggestion that the 1-2-3 method be tried out in handicap events for one year, with an elaborate and difficult arrangement of handicapping by points in place of the original plan which applied to the conventional scoring by games and sets.

This was a wise move on the part of the committee, although it implied the admission of inevitable defeat for the changes first suggested. It had been freely predicted that the only new rule that had a chance to pass the association as a whole was the one concerning foot faults. As this was largely a question of simplifying the statement of a principle on which there had already been general agreement, namely that the server should not cross the baseline before hitting the ball nor get the help of a running or jumping start, the language of the amendment seemed the only point at issue.

There was some surprise when the committee insisted that a hop or a jump could be of no advantage to the server, and refused to indorse the very practical amendment offered by Lyle E. Mahan, which expressly stated that one foot must be kept continuously on the ground until the ball is hit. As a result of this unyielding attitude the revisers of the rules were forced to see their one hope lost, and the Mahan amendment was passed over their heads with the new rule phrased accordingly.

There was a minor defeat for the committee as a whole also in the refusal of the association to accept a revision which definitely allowed a linesman to change his decision.

So far as the year's trial of the new scoring and handicapping systems is concerned, it has practically no significance. There is no handicap tennis in America at present, nor is there likely to be, for a strong prejudice against it has existed for years, and this cannot be eradicated, least of all, by a new and complicated system of scoring the points which entirely eliminates the traditional games and sets. Some day the lawn tennis powers may discover that the answer to the problem of equalizing contestants lies not in handicap tournaments, but in the staging of novice or Class B and C events, in which experienced tournament players will not be allowed to compete. This will both relieve the pressure on the regular tournament schedule and give the ambitious novices a chance to make a real showing in their own class.

If the revision committeemen intend to give their proposed systems a real trial, they will have to go through endless labor in organizing tournaments which at present do not exist, and for which there is no room on the national schedule. To all intents and purposes, the new scoring, with its attendant handicap formula, is already dead, or at least sleeping soundly. It was not actually defeated in open meeting, for it was never presented for approval. But morally it was chased off the face of the earth by the unmistakable force of popular sentiment.

Reconstruction in Baseball.

The gathering of baseball men from both major and minor leagues in Chicago this week may be looked upon as a reconstruction conclave. Judged solely from the possibilities along lines of reorganization this week's meeting may be regarded as the most important held by baseball men since that memorable conference in January of 1903, when the club owners of National and American Leagues buried the hatchet after a bitter strife and reached an understanding that later took form in the shape of the National Agreement. The Federal League peace meeting of more recent years was rather an autopsy than a conclave.

The baseball solons this week will devote their attention to the reorganization of the National Commission, the supreme court of baseball, and extreme care must be exercised in the choice of a Chairman who will hold the balance of power between the two leagues. The American League faces another opportunity to bring about some sort of a reconciliation between the warring factions and thereby restore harmony in the ranks of the majors. If a truce of some kind is not effected this week it is safe to predict that the battle will not end until one side or the other is out of baseball.

Aside from the constructive problems dealing with the majors alone is the important work of renewing friendly relations between the majors and the minors. A year ago the smaller leagues broke away from the two big organizations with the idea that they would do better while working independently. One year was sufficient to convince them of error and a return to old-time conditions is desired. However, there is a backwardness on the part of the minors to appear as suppliants and the major leaguers, naturally, are not making an effort to force themselves on the smaller leagues. Each side needs the other and baseball will be better when the big and little leagues get together again under a working agreement.

Another feature of the Chicago meetings deals with possible changes in the playing code. No radical departures from the present rules are looked for, but there is no telling what may develop when committees gather. Many suggestions have been made to the inter-league rule makers and some of them are likely to be adopted.

Three minor leagues of the Middle West will also hold sessions and make plans for a return to pre-war programs. From these leagues many of the game's greatest luminaries were drawn and the moves to be made by these minor leaguers will mean much to the prosperity of the game. More baseball of importance will be crowded into this week than usually develops in the space of a year.

A Short-Lived Trotting Rule.

A horse laugh is proverbially a strident thing of unpleasant effect upon the human tympanum. The sob of a horse, while more melodious, puts the heart upon a rack of sympathy. Therefore the strain put upon sensitive persons by the present chorus of equine weeping from thousands of stables is well-nigh unendurable.

Something like two months ago the Joint Rules Committee of the National and American Trotting Associations adopted what was quite fittingly termed the "unshackling rule." It was designed to release from slavery between the shafts of tinmen's wagons and butchers' carts a multitude of highly-bred trotters and pacers, which in such a peculiarly exuberant moment as comes alike to men and horses had surpassed their normal speed and acquired a "win-race" record which forever thereafter excluded them from the slower classes in which they might have earned at least "feed money" and condemned them to the status of little toads in big puddles, or to retirement. The latter sentence was inevitably the one pronounced by their owners who could see neither glory nor pelf in being continually behind the distance flag. Therefore these unhappy animals withdrew from the charm and excitement of the turf to take up the humble duties of drawing the family phaeton or convoying a load of defunct mackerel from door to door.

The "unshackling rule" was designed to cancel such win-race records if not reduced within two years and make the diagonal or lateral-gaited racers eligible to 2:12 classes on a mile track or 2:16 classes on a half-mile course. Its enactment caused deep agitation in the bosoms of owners who did not want their harness racers confronted with a throng of "comebacks," and so it has now been repealed and supplanted by a measure which makes much less liberal allowance for the horses which have at one time flashed a brand of speed above their usual ability.

Thus a great band of worthy animals has been lifted momentarily into sunlight only to be plunged again into gloom. Currycombs and fancy fodder have been theirs for two brief months in anticipation of the Summer campaign to come and their nostrils have dilated with joy as they sped once more before a sulky on the road. As the dire news reaches the far-flung stables of Kentucky and Tennessee sympathetic horse owners withdraw to their own quarters, unwilling to be witnesses of a great sorrow.

Tussle of the College Fives.

From a sport which was very much "minor" in importance several years ago, college basket ball has thrust itself into the rank of a "major" at the great universities of the East. Players are recruited largely from the football squad, and as soon as the gridiron season ends, late in November, interest is transferred to the gymnasium court, where basket ball commands the spotlight until March.

An exceptional season this Winter is drawing greater attention than ever before. Two annual championships each already gained gave four colleges at the beginning of the year equal chances for permanent possession of the trophy which goes with a third victory. By now, however, the race has narrowed down virtually to a tussle between Yale and Pennsylvania. The Quakers had a belated start, and a true measure of their strength has not yet been drawn from the two games they have played. They have humbled Yale decisively once, but by the time they have met the other teams and the round-robin schedule brings around the second and last game with the Elis there may be quite a different complexion to the league standing.

All teams have been idle for the past ten days during the mid-year recesses and the next court battle will match Columbia against Penn in New York City Thursday of this week. Columbia must still be regarded as a formidable contender. She was the first to start Princeton on the downward path, but in her only other game lost by a close score to Yale as a direct result of too many fouls. Columbia is reported to have remedied this tendency in recent practice. Cornell has a fighting chance, but her losses to Yale and Princeton have quashed optimism at Ithaca. Princeton's five, phenomenally successful during the preliminary season, has been beaten by Columbia, Yale and Penn and is hopelessly outclassed. Dartmouth has only a straight string of defeats.

In judging the college season as a whole, C. C. N. Y. stands hovering around the top. Rarely strong and never a member of the league, City College has had a remarkable record this Winter including victories over Yale and Columbia. Should Dartmouth, commonly a "weak sister" in the annual basketball race, ever resign from the league, C. C. N. Y. would be the logical successor.

Golf History Soon to Be Made.

The season of 1913 in golf is to be repeated, but on an infinitely grander scale. The years 1913 and 1920 run uniquely parallel, with their international matches, their tussles for supremacy between American and England, but by next October the golf season of 1913 will indubitably look tiny in comparison with that of the year now under way.

Seven years ago, on a September day, before ex-President Taft and other notables in the crowd of 8,000 witnessing the play-off of a triple tie in the national open tournament at Brookline, Francis Ouimet, a 20-year-old lad, and, what's more, an amateur linksman, contributed the most stinging defeat Britain ever had. He outplayed and outgamed Harry Vardon and Ted Ray, the great British professionals, known wherever golf is played. All England, although hailing Ouimet as virtually the international champion, was staggered and amazed.

Vardon and Ray covered more than 30,000 miles of railway track in the United States and Canada that year, playing with the greatest golfers of this side and smashing course records with an uncanny continuity. They are returning in July of this year. Along with them are coming two other British pros, at least their equals and perhaps their superiors. George Duncan was here in 1911, but did not play in the national open. In 1913 he captured among other crowns the open championship of France, with the great Braid as runner-up. In 1913, too, Abe Mitchell, the fourth of the Britons who will come here, was starting his climb in golf which last year, in the absence of a British open tournament, gave him top place by reason of his victory in the News of the World event, in which Vardon and such others as Braid and Taylor utterly failed to qualify. Mitchell was an amateur at the beginning of the 1913 season. He had been a gardener and later a chauffeur for Sir Abe Bailey, the South African diamond mine owner, which led to a certain aloofness on the part of certain rival amateurs. He entered for the national amateur championship of this country, but was advised to withdraw, which he did, to avoid embarrassment. Mitchell promptly turned pro and today is England's greatest golfer.

That quartet—Mitchell, Duncan, Vardon and Ray—is coming on a mission of revenge. Will Ouimet, who was ill and eliminated last August at Oakmont, be able to prove that the lapse of seven years has not upset his game? Will Jim Barnes and Walter Hagen turn the tables on Vardon and Ray who defeated them in 1913? Will Bobbie Jones prove a second Ouimet when matched against the Britishers? Will Davie Herron hold his own?

Women, too, will figure in comparing 1913 to 1920. Seven years ago an avalanche of British women came here. One, Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, won the United States women's national title and, teamed with six others, she led England to victory at Wilmington, Del., in what was regarded as an international women's team championship against such Americans as Miss Marion Hollins, Mrs. R. H. Barlow and Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck. This year Miss Alexa Stirling is to go abroad and will compete in the British Ladies' Championship. Her ability is known on this side and feared on the other.

Local Mermaids Out for Titles.

Within a few days the first of the women's national aquatic championships of 1920 will come up for decision and the mermaids of the New York Women's Swimming Association are hard at work, completing their training for the title tests. The local organization has the best team in its history this year, a team stronger than any ever developed in this country, and everything indicates that it will garner the lion's share of the national laurels.

Miss Charlotte Boyle and Miss Ethelda Bleibtrey, its leading stars, won every free-style championship they were able to compete for last year, and their recent performances offer assurance that it will take record time to beat either one at any distance. Miss Alice Lord and Miss Leslie Bunyan figured also in the classics of 1919 and should do so again, while several newly developed stars, including the Misses Dorothy Youngling, M. Macfarlane and Dorothy Esterday, are improving so rapidly that it will not be surprising to see them contribute to the point score. Among the fancy divers with excellent prospects, besides Miss Alice Lord, are Mrs. Bertha Tomkins and two thirteen-year-old prodigies, Helen Wainwright and Aileen Riggin.

In view of this remarkable array of fair talent, it is interesting to note that the Women's S. A. proposes to send its leading contestants to nearly all the championship meets, irrespective of where they are held. Arrangements have virtually been completed for the trip of the Misses Boyle, Bleibtrey, Lord and Bunyan to the title events coming off this month in Greensburg, Pa., and Cleveland, Ohio. Then Miss Boyle and Miss Beibtray will go to California for the fixtures to be decided there, and if negotiations now pending are carried to a successful issue, as hoped, they will proceed from the Coast to Honolulu for the 100-yard outdoor title swim in April.

DUNN-REGAN TEAM WINS AT HANDBALL

Former Gives Fine Exhibition in Title Tournament After One Eye Is Closed.

Despite an injury to his left eye, which temporarily deprived him of the sight of that optic, James Dunn, of the Annunciation A. C., with his partner, Cyril Regan, emerged victoriously yesterday in their first-round match of the Metropolitan A. A. U. doubles handball championship tournament at the Annunciation A. C. The combination triumphed over Charles Beakey and Thomas Badinelli, another Annunciation A. C. pair, in one of the most spectacular matches of the tournament, by scores of 21—4, 19—21 and 21—17.

Dunn was hit in the left eye with a swift and high traveling ball during the latter stages of the third game, the decisive game of one of the most spectacular matches of the tournament. The count was knotted at 16 all when the ball crashed against Dunn's eye and caused a temporary halt, as the eye was almost completely closed.

After the accident service changed frequently before another point was registered by Beakey and Badinelli. A short, lively rally, ended with Regan and Dunn advancing to even terms at 17 all and then, the play developing keener at the critical stage of the match, a series of rallies followed in which both combinations played in splendid form without loss. The service alternated five times in the rallies, but Regan and Dunn then broke the spell and, with the acquisition of one ace, breaking the deadlock, three more counters followed in quick succession, and resulted in the elimination of Beakey and Badinelli.

The victorious pair showed superb form in the opening game, and completely outclassed and outplayed their rivals. Regan and Dunn worked up and down and about the court in perfect harmony, with never a confused moment in their play. Beakey and Badinelli strove hard in the face of the consistent playing of the rival combination, but Regan and Dunn never varied their style of game, and took the match by the one-sided margin of 21 to 4.

The fact that they were fighting to recover lost ground seemed to improve the play of Beakey and Badinelli in the second game. The latter, who is ranked among the district's leading amateur players, carried the brunt of the team's attack and surprised Regan and Dunn with an assorted and intricate service which carried the team to victory. Regan and Dunn were hard pressed at times to keep abreast of their fighting rivals, but the feat was accomplished, and the teams battled on close terms from start to finish of the game. A sustained rally in the closing minutes brought the Beakey-Badinelli combination out victorious by the slim margin of 21—19.

The summaries:

Metropolitan A. A. U. Handball Championship; Doubles, First Round—Cyril Regan and James Dunn, Annunciation A. C., defeated Charles Beakey and Thomas Badinelli, Annunciation A. C., 21—4, 19—21, 21—17; Adolph Badinelli and John Badinelli, Annunciation A. C., defeated Murray Vernon and Robert Dowling, New York A. C., 21—4, 21—13; Patrick Ryan and John McCann, Pastime A. C., defeated Stephen McMahon and Thomas Carroll, Annunciation A. C., 21—2, 21—0; Phillip Dworsky and A. Waldman, City A. C., defeated John Lemaine and Morris Seichel, Annunciation A. C., 21—9, 21—13.

BRINGS NEW ENGLISH BOXER

McDonald to Match Blumenfeld with Best Welters.

George McDonald, British boxing promoter and manager, returned to this country yesterday on the Adriatic, accompanied by Corporal Jack Blumenfeld, an English welterweight, for whom McDonald seeks matches against the leading welterweights of America. The British boxing official, who left this country several weeks ago on a hurried mission to England, plans an extended stay in this country and expects several other British boxers to follow him across the ocean in quest of American laurels and purses. Already, Mr. McDonald says, he has arranged for visits by Al Jones and Fred Jacks, English bantamweights, who will probably arrive here within a few weeks. Jones only recently won the Lord Lonsdale bantamweight belt, according to the visiting boxing promoter.

Mr. McDonald refrained from claiming great things for Corporal Blumenfeld, but expressed the opinion that the British boxer was capable of holding his own against the leaders of the class in this country. As yet no matches have been arranged, but Mr. McDonald expects to get into communication with American promoters without delay and arrange for Blumenfeld's début here. It is likely the British boxer will be matched at a New Jersey club if attractive inducements are offered.

LEONARD EXPECTS TO SCORE KNOCKOUT

Champion and Dundee Both in Good Trim for Their Eighth Meeting Tonight.

Benny Leonard, world's lightweight boxing champion, will enter the ring for his eight-round bout against Johnny Dundee at The Arena, the Fourth Regiment Armory, Jersey City, this evening, confident of his ability to score a knockout over his persistent Italian rival. The titleholder, ending an intensive training period yesterday, declared himself fit and eager for the battle and, according to Promoter Driscoll, prepared to exert himself in an effort for a knockout.

Dundee, trained to physical perfection, is equally sure that he will carry the champion along at a merry pace and will be on his feet mixing things when the final bell clangs. The Italian expects to weigh about 133 pounds for tonight's bout, a heavier poundage than he has shown for any of his previous meetings with the titleholder. Under the conditions of the match Leonard is to weigh 135 pounds at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

This will be the eighth meeting between these two top-notch boxers, and all their previous engagements have been sizzling bouts. Harry Ertle has been selected to referee the match.

Promoter Driscoll has not disclosed his plans regarding the remainder of the card, but expects to offer an interesting series of preliminary matches. The Jersey City promoter expects to have the principals in the stellar attraction enter the ring promptly at 10 o'clock, so that Manhattan enthusiasts who attend may return home early. The $2 admission tickets will be placed on sale with the remaining reserved seat pasteboards at 6 o'clock when the doors of the Fourth Regiment Armory are opened. There will be a band concert from 6:30 to 8 P. M., and the first preliminary bout is scheduled for 8:30.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, will receive $8,500 for his eight-round bout against Benny Valger, French-American featherweight, which will be held at the Newark Sportsmen's Club Feb. 16. Through his disagreement with his former manager, Jimmy Dunn, however, Kilbane will receive $1,500 less than would ordinarily have been the champion's guarantee had Kilbane and Dunn not parted company.

It developed yesterday that officials of the Newark S. C. have been negotiating with Kilbane, through Dunn, for several months in an effort to clinch a Kilbane-Valger match. The Newark promoters were willing to guarantee the title holder as high as $10,000, but Manager Dunn dismissed the offers without submitting them to Kilbane. When Harry Blaufuss, Secretary of the Newark S. C., closed the arrangements for the coming bout with Kilbane in Cleveland recently, he inquired the champion's reasons for dismissing the previous offers, which were in excess of the guarantee Kilbane will receive for next Monday night's encounter. The champion professed ignorance of the negotiations with Dunn, and Secretary Blaufuss discreetly omitted mentioning the sum the former manager had rejected.

Three eight-round bouts will be held tomorrow night at the West Hoboken A. C., Paterson and Summit Avenues, West Hoboken, N. J. The principals will be Battling Joe vs. Young Crosby, Eddie Fletcher vs. Larry Regan, and Battling Kiddy vs. Johnny Bow.

HUTCHISON A WINNER.

Defeats Robertson, 3 and 2, in Belleair Golf Match.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., Feb. 8.—Jock Hutchison, playing in quite a reversal of form from what he had shown here in his practice rounds, was an easy winner over Davie Robertson, the Pittsburgh pro, in their match here today, 3 and 2.

After halving the first three holes and getting the hopes of the gallery up for a tight match, Jock ran down a twenty-foot putt on the short fourth hole for a birdie two. He won the next hole when Davie shied his second over into the palmettos. Davie came back strong and won the sixth, when Jock's second found a sand trap. Davie should have won the seventh, but took three putts and got a half. Davie was not as steady on the greens as he has been in the past month, when he played such record-breaking golf. He failed again at the ninth, but Jock's birdie four here was hard to equal.

Once out in front with a whirlwind start seemed to give the Chicago man all the confidence in the world and he pressed his luck by sinking a thirty-footer on the tenth for a 3, another birdie. Jock then looked upon his approached shot at the eleventh and lost this hole. Davie laid the ball ten feet from the cup and sank the putt for a 3. Davie was again green-shy at the twelfth and lost this hole with an extra putt. Jock held his lead of three up till the end, although he had a chance for another birdie on the long sixteenth, where the match ended.

N. Y. A. C. GUNNERS HOLD TEAM SHOOT

Dr. Martin Leads in Victory Over O'Neil's Marksmen—Scratch Prize Goes to Bradley.

Eighteen gunners reported for the week-end shoot over the Travers Island traps of the New York Athletic Club yesterday. In addition to the regular events the field was divided in half, and a most interesting team shoot was held, with nine men on each side. Dr. G. A. Martin was the captain of one and J. O'Neil led the other. The gunners shot at 50 targets each, making a possible total of 450 a team. When the final "bird" was trapped it was found that Dr. Martin's aggregation had won by 383 to 380 targets.

In the regular events the high scratch prize was taken by D. I. Bradley, with a card of 94 out of a possible 100 targets. The High Handicap Cup went to J. O'Neil, with a full score of 100 targets. A leg on the Buermeyer Cup was won by D. I. Bradley, with 48 out of a possible 50 targets. Dr. Martin took a special scratch shoot, and a special handicap event went to E. H. Jones. As usual, legs on the other weekly cups went to all gunners with full scores of 25 targets.

LONGWOOD TEAM WINS INTERCITY TENNIS DUEL

INTERCITY TENNIS GOES TO LONGWOOD

Local Team Wins Two Sunday Matches, but Final Score Favors Boston, 7 to 2.

HARTE AGAIN PROMINENT

He and Niles Conquer Mathey and Beekman on Brooklyn Casino Courts—Fitch Upsets Bidwell.

The intercity indoor tennis matches at the Brooklyn Heights Casino ended yesterday afternoon with a final score of 7 to 2 in favor of the visiting players from the Longwood Cricket Club, Boston, the latter taking three of the five Sunday matches, one in the singles and two in the doubles. Both of the local victories came in the nature of surprises, for after Saturday's clean sweep by the visitors, they were considered practically irresistible. A great many things can happen over night, however, and yesterday the Casino men made a far better showing all the way down the line.

L. H. Fitch launched the first upset of the day when he defeated Raymond Bidwell, one of the best doubles players in New England, by scores of 3—6, 6—4, 6—2. Later Dean Mathey and Hugh Kelleher turned in the second Casino victory by disposing of the strong combination of Irving C. Wright and Harry C. Johnson at 7—5, 6—2.

The Bostonian winners of the day were N. W. Niles in the singles, and Richard Harte and Niles and L. B. Rice and Bidwell in the doubles. Niles put away Leonard Beekman by scores of 5—7, 6—2, 6—3, and then repeated the trick in combination play at 6—3, 3—6, 6—3, Mathey teaming with the loser. The remaining Boston pair had as their victims T. H. Beardsly and G. Roberts.

Once more it was young Harte of Harvard who dominated the day's tennis. In doubles this light-haired giant, who starred at both football and baseball in his college days, is even more impressive than in singles. His terrific service and overhead play give his side a tremendous advantage, and he crowds the net at every opportunity.

Harte Has Improved.

Those who saw the Eastern doubles at Longwood last Summer will remember his dashing play in partnership with G. C. Caner, as well as his splendid showing in the singles, in which he defeated C. S. Garland, among others. He is even better now, and has added much inside tennis to the speed and strength he has always possessed.

Teamed with the steady and dependable Niles, he formed a combination yesterday against which Mathey and Beekman did exceedingly well to get a set. All three sessions went by the same score of 6—3, the Casino pair winning the second, and losing only on a single break in service.

Beekman played well for the losers in this match and also made a fine showing against Niles in singles, winning the opening set at 7—5, and succumbing only when the Bostonian added a strong net game to his usual accurate play from deep court. Niles delivered most of his volleys from just inside the service line, and showed that he had mastered the command of the midcourt in effective fashion.

Fitch surprised his warmest admirers in his creditable defeat of Bidwell, especially as he lost the first set in decisive fashion, and seemed up to that stage to have little defense for the fast service and net play of the New Englander. But after trailing in the second session, the Casino representative braced suddenly and by steadying his game and making some remarkable recoveries of apparently clean placements, eventually upset Bidwell so much that he fell into errors in turn and lost the remaining sets, 6—4, 6—2.

Wright Performs Poorly.

The defeat of Wright and Johnson could be blamed chiefly on the former, who for some reason seemed unable to tell just where the ball was. He made a great many shots with the edge of his racquet, and the seriousness of his facial expression indicated that this was by no means intentional on his part. Johnson also was not entirely himself, and after the first set Mathey and Kelleher had little difficulty in running right through the demoralized Bostonians.

Rice and Bidwell had no great trouble with Beardsley and Roberts, although the latter team, comparative newcomers in competitive tennis, did considerably better than had been expected, in running the sets up to 6—3 and 6—4.

An exhibition match of mixed doubles was staged after the completion of the team encounter, and Mrs. F. I. Mallory and Wright succeeded in winning one set at 6—1 and losing one at 6—2 to Mrs. DeForrest Candee and Mathey, with the women playing rather better than the men.

The summaries follow:

Longwood C. C. (3); Heights Casino (2).

Singles—N. W. Niles, Longwood, defeated Leonard Beekman, Heights Casino, 5—7, 6—2, 6—3; L. H. Fitch, Heights Casino, defeated Raymond Bidwell, Longwood, 3—6, 6—4, 6—2.

Doubles—Richard Harte and N. W. Niles, Longwood, defeated Dean Mathey and Leonard Beekman, Heights Casino, 6—3, 3—6, 6—3; L. B. Rice and Raymond Bidwell, Longwood, defeated T. H. Beardsley and G. Roberts, Heights Casino, 6—3, 6—4; Dean Mathey and Hugh Kelleher, Heights Casino, defeated Irving C. Wright and Harry C. Johnson, Longwood, 7—5, 6—2.

Final score—Longwood C. C., 7; Heights Casino, 2.

15 MATCHES FOR FENCERS.

Columbia Opens Season Tonight in Epee Team Title Events.

Only one home meet, that with Pennsylvania Thursday afternoon, is listed on the Columbia fencing schedule for 1920. Fifteen matches will be contested, beginning tonight with the junor epee team championships at the New York Fencers Club and ending with the intercollegiate championships at the Hotel Astor, probably on April 16 and 17. The latter dates have not been definitely selected.

The complete schedule is as follows:

Feb. 9, junior epee team championships, N. Y. Fencers' Club; 12, Pennsylvania at Columbia; 16, N. Y. A. C. at N. Y. A. C.; 18, epee and sabre junior individual championships, N. Y. Turn Verein; 23, Columbia University Club at C. U. Club.

April 6, French Y. M. C. A. at French Y. M. C. A.; 16 (probable), intercollegiate championship preliminaries, Hotel Astor; 17 (probable), intercollegiate championship finals, Hotel Astor.

DE LA SALLE SETS RECORD.

Relay Quartet Does P. S. A. L. Medley at Erasmus Meet in 4:59.

De La Salle Institute's relay quartet achieved a season's ambition in the Erasmus Hall H. S. indoor athletic meet Saturday night when it eclipsed the Public Schools Athletic League record for the medley relay. The De La Salle boys, in carrying off the premier prize in this race, recorded the exceptional time of 4:59, displacing the old mark of 5:05. Stephen Baron, Ernest Osborne, John Campion and Thomas Darcy were the runners on the record-making quartet.

Twice before this season this quartet approached the P. S. A. L. medley relay record. The team equaled 5:05 at the Eastern District H. S. games early in December, and during the latter part of December, at the games of Stuyvesant H. S., came within three-fifths of a second of the 5:05 record.

Cornell Golfers to Meet Five Colleges in Matches

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Five matches for the university golf team, in addition to the intercollegiates in May, are being arranged by Assistant Manager M. G. Sullivan, '21. These matches will be played against Columbia, Harvard, Penn, Williams and Yale. The sport, which was never formally abolished by the Minor Sports Council, does not require reinstatement but only the backing of the student body and the registration of a sufficient number of candidates. The last 'Varsity team was that of 1917.

It has been definitely decided to hold a Cornell tournament in the Spring, probably before May, in order not to conflict with the intercollegiates and team matches.

APPEL VANQUISHES HARVEY AT SQUASH

Champion Displays Rare Form in Winning One-Sided Match in National Tourney.

John W. Appel, Jr., of the Harvard Club, present holder of the national amateur squash tennis championship, who won last season under "patriotic" restrictions, got a flying start in this year's tournament at the Columbia University Club yesterday afternoon when, after drawing a bye on the opening day, he defeated Harold D. Harvey, one of the strongest players of the Princeton Club, by the one-sided score of 15—2, 15—2.

The titleholder was in remarkable form, as he proved even more impressively later in the day when he took the court for some practice with Waltre Kinsella and made the world's champion travel at top speed to keep up with the ball. Appel showed amazing activity for so heavily built an athlete, keeping out of the way of the fastest shots and following every angle closely. He carried a terrific wallop both forehand and backhand, and his judgment was so good that he usually managed to get a free swing when set to kill the ball.

Most of the champion's points came in big clusters, and as a result both of his games against Harvey were short, the first being decided in seven hands and the second in six, the entire match taking only thirteen minutes to complete.

After cleaning up the first with a run of five, Appel continued for six more aces to start the second session, making the astonishing record of eleven straight points without loss of the service. He had another five to his credit in the opener, besides a four, which he duplicated in the second. In other words, the champion scored twenty-four of his thirty points in four actual hands, not counting the break between games.

Both went out without score at the start, and Harvey, having had the first service, was also the first to tally. His single, however, was answered by a run of four on the part of Appel, and, after another alternation of ciphers, the titleholder came through with five more in one hand, practically putting the first game on ice. Harvey's second point came on the last chance that he had at the servicee, for Appel ran wild again with tremendous smashes all around the court, and ended with an unfinished run of five.

Appel continued his fast scoring as they went right on into the second game, and had added six more points before he lost his service, a total of eleven points in a row. Appel scored in the next three successive hands also, although he had to be satisfied with a single and a two before he reached double figures with a quartet of clean aces. Harvey, meanwhile, by the most desperate of playing, managed to pick up the two points which again proved his limit.

With only two points to go for the match, the champion was blanked once, and returned the compliment, running out without difficulty on his next service, the sixth of the game. He will play Jay Gould this afternoon in what should prove one of the best matches of the tournament, with the winner the most logical contender for the new title.

The only other match scheduled yesterday went by default, Ralph G. Coburn of the Harvard Club advancing over Alan Corey of Yale.

The summary and point score follow:

First Round—John W. Appel, Jr., Harvard, defeated Harold D. Harvey, Princeton, 15—2, 15—2; R. G. Coburn, Harvard, won from Alan Corey, Yale, by default.

BAR GERMANY AT SOCCER.

Seven Lands Decline to Meet Teams of Central Powers.

The Peace Treaty and resumption of trade relations notwithstanding, the soccer football players of Great Britain, as represented by the national associations of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, as well as Belgium, France and Luxemburg, will continue on a war footing, in so far as relations with the players of the late Central Powers are concerned, notwithstanding that they are all members of the International Football Association, among the latest acquisitions to which was the United States Football Association, which will not act upon this question until its annual meeting is held in May.

A conference was recently held at the headquarters of the Belgian Football Union in Brussels, at which Holland and Switzerland were also represented, and resolutions to be submitted to the respective national organizations were adopted, in which it was recommended that no relations should be entered into with the former enemy nations nor with any other country having football relations with them; that the parties to the conference withdraw from the International Federation and that a new one, to be called the Federation of National Football Associations, be organized. The Dutch and Swiss representatives lacked authority to participate in the resolutions, and the representatives from France and Belgium preferred to confer with the neutral associations before plunging in and taking extreme measures.

Announce Drawings in Soccer Race.

Drawings for the first round of the annual cup tie competition of the New York Football Association resulted in the pairing of sixteen of the twenty clubs entered, the remaining four getting byes. The teams will meet as follows: Hungarians vs. Longfellows, Clan MacDuff vs. Patchogue, White Rose vs. Robins Dry Dock, Astoria vs. Woodside, Newburgh Shipyards vs. Rangers, Vikings vs. Visitations, Greenpoint vs. Vikings, Team B, and Hudson F. C. vs. New York. These games are scheduled to be played on or before Feb. 15, weather permitting. The byes of the first round went to the Tyrconnell Celts, Tebo Yacht Basin, Interborough R. T. and Morse Dry Dock.

Mrs. Close Wins with Rifle.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 8.—Mrs. F. N. B. Close of Cranford, N. J., was awarded the Annie Oakley prize for the best target in this week's rifle contest for women at the Pinehurst Gun Club.

The weekly putting contest for women was won by Mrs. Albert B. Ashforth of New York. The second prize went to Miss Louise Patterson of Plainfield.

DECLARE THE DOOM OF FREAK PITCHING

Baseball Moguls Reach Decision in Chicago Discussion Preceding Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—The advance guard of baseball magnates, who are to convene here this week in probably the biggest baseball meeting of all time, had an informal session today at which it was made quite certain that all freak deliveries by pitchers are to be wiped out of the pastime forever. Formal action on the question may be taken when the rules committees of the two leagues meet today.

Not only were the four members of the rules committees, Veeck of the Cubs, Dreyfuss of the Pirates, Griffith of Washington and Mack of the Athletics, in attendance at the meeting, but both President Heydler of the National League and President Johnson of the American League also participated in the discussion.

Others who sat in and talked were President Ball of the St. Louis Browns, President Dunn of Cleveland, President Herrmann of the champion Reds, Umpires O'Day and Klem of the National League, Manager Speaker of Cleveland, Secretary Quinn of the Browns, Secretary Shibe of the Athletics, and a number of baseball writers and others connected with the game.

Heavy Penalty Favored.

The whole discussion was devoted to the freak deliveries and the best means of abolishing them. There was no doubt in the mind of President Heydler of the Nationals that the spitball, the shine ball, the emery ball, the licorice ball and all other freaks will have to go.

"It is only a matter of working out a rule that can stamp such things out," Heydler said. "We all seem to favor a heavy penalty to be imposed the first time any pitcher breaks the rule. It wouldn't do to give him a few warnings first, then perhaps a fine or two and finally suspension. It may be a case of suspension and heavy fine for the very first offense. Otherwise a pitcher might employ one of the freaks in a tight place to get his team out of trouble, which would be worth incurring a small fine. He must be dealt with most severely on the first offense. He must learn at once that the rule is made to put an absolute stop to such things.

"Regarding the spitball, I think we shall give the old-time pitchers, who are recognized as spitball throwers, a certain period to develop something to take the place of this delivery. He might be granted a year, or possibly only about two months or so. Every club would have to register with the league the names of the recognized spitball pitchers. No others would be granted that extra time. No newcomer of this year would be permitted to throw the 'spitter.' That was the plan we worked up in our league. I believe the entire National League has only about a dozen recognized spitball pitchers."

The magnates discussed the rules all afternoon and a part of the evening, and now are about ready to take formal action on proposed changes.

When Batter Fouls Out.

President Veeck offered Fred Mitchell's suggestion of abolishing the out by foul fly, for the purpose of increasing hitting. It met with considerable opposition from several of those present, including Umpire O'Day. Indications were it could hardly be carried. Clark Griffith brought up the question of devising a rule that would prohibit the intentional base on balls. If a satisfactory rule—one that could be enforced properly—could be devised, the intentional pass might be abolished, as many of the magnates disapprove of it.

Minor league magnates as well as major were pouring into Chicago all day. The American Association and Three Eye League will meet tomorrow at the Sherman House. The Western leaguers will gather there Tuesday. The Rules Committees of the majors will meet formally tomorrow at the Congress.

The National and the American Leagues will hold the formal schedule meetings at the Congress Tuesday, and the big joint session, at which a man may be picked to head the National Committee, will take place at the Congress Wednesday. On the following day, providing the majors have completed their business, the majors and minors will meet together at the Congress to discuss the advisability of forming a new agreement between the two bodies.

BASEBALL MOGULS LEAVE.

Yankee and Red Sox Directors, with Scribes, Move to Chicago.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert and Colonel T. L. Huston, owners of the Yankees, left here yesterday afternoon for the important baseball meeting to be held this week in Chicago. President Harry Frazee of the Boston Red Sox and Manager Ed Barrow of the same club were members of the party. Ten war correspondents, representing New York papers, also left yesterday for the meetings, which are expected to develop much of interest for New York baseball fans.

Other New Yorkers now on their way to Chicago or already on the scene are President Charles A. Stoneham of the Giants, President Charles H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn club, George Washington Grant, owner of the Boston Braves, and William F. Baker, President of the Philadelphia National League Club. Colonel Ruppert and Mr. Baker are members of the Interleague Committee, which is to recommend a successor to August Herrmann as Chairman of the National Commission. The other members are William Veeck of the Chicago Cubs and Frank J. Navin, President of the Detroit club. This committee is scheduled to hold a meeting today.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, who has been spending the past few days at his home in Cincinnati, will join the Yankee owners at Chicago. He hopes to put through a deal or two, but the players for whom he has been angling do not appear to be on the market at this time. The fight in the American League is also interfering with Huggins's plans to strengthen the Club, as owners who are fighting against the three insurgent members are none too keen about making any deals with any of the battling triumvirate.

Virtually all the veterans of the New York Yankees, with the exception of Outfielder Duffy Lewis, are said to be under contract for the coming season. Lewis is holding out for a sum in excess of what was offered him by the Yankee owners, but it is said that the difference is not great. It is with some of the younger players picked up for trial in the majors that Huggins is having his greatest trouble in the holdout line. Some of the rookies have such high ideas of their worth that it has been impossible to get close to their figures.

The offices of the Yankees are to be moved in a short time, owing to the transfer of the Forty-second Street Building, where the club has held forth for the past six years. The new owners have named May 1 as the time limit for the tenants, and the Yankees owners have leased offices in the Cohan and Harris Building on West Forty-second Street, just west of Seventh Avenue. It is possible that the moving will be done before the opening of the coming season.

The signing of Red Smith as third baseman of the Yankees gives further indication that Manager Huggins is not counting on Frank Baker's return to the club this year. Smith, a hard hitter in his earlier days as a National Leaguer, has never played in the American League, and he may find the pitching to his liking for a time. At any rate, Huggins now can start the season with an experienced third baseman, who will be available if either Fewster or Meusel fails to show up to the expected standard.

COLUMBIA BASEBALL TO START THIS WEEK

Andy Coakley Summons Battery Candidates for Wednesday —21 Games Booked.

The Columbia baseball team will play twenty-one games this Spring, beginning with New York University at South Field on April 7, according to the schedule made public by L. C. Danielson, Graduate Manager of Athletics. Fourteen contests will be played at South Field, the most important of these being with Harvard, Penn, Princeton, Fordham, Syracuse, Dartmouth and Cornell.

Home-and-home games have been arranged with Cornell, Penn, Dartmouth and Fordham. Games will be played away from home with Yale at New Haven, Wesleyan at Middletown, and Brown at Providence. As usual, Penn will end the season with the annual Commencement Day tussle at South Field on Wednesday, June 2.

Battery practice at Columbia will get its earliest start in many years next Wednesday afternoon in the auxiliary gymnasium. The other candidates will not be called out until about March 7, when a batting cage will be erected in the main gymnasium, although Coach Andy Coakley may make an attempt to start practice before that date by having the squad work out in the auxiliary gymnasium.

As a prelude to the first battery practice on Wednesday, Coakley has arranged a baseball meeting for Tuesday night in Earl Hall. All men interested in the diamond sport will be urged to attend, and if present arrangements are completed, the speakers will include Tom Thorp, Reynolds Benson, baseball and basket ball star; and George Smith, the Columbia pitcher who went first to the Giants and is now with the Phillies.

Coakley's Return Hailed.

Andy Coakley's return to Columbia after two years' absence has resulted in a revival of interest in the sport. Coakley himself is one of the most popular of the Blue and White coaches, partly because of his success in the past in developing winning nines. The championship 1916 team, of which George Smith was the leading twirler and which Bobby Watt captained, was one of Coakley's products, and Columbia is hoping that he will repeat in the coming season.

The main problem at Columbia this Spring will be the infield, which has only Hauck and Weinstein left from the four that played last year. Second and third bases will have to be filled from the squad of new candidates, and it is possible that Hauck will be shifted to catching if Ackerman is not eligible to play with the 'Varsity.

In the outfield Captain Al Schnaars will hold down one position, and Goodman, a heavy-hitting veteran of the last two years, should be sure of another. The one vacancy will be competed for by Larner and Carroll, both of whom played in the outfield before they entered war service.

Columbia Strong in Pitching.

In the matter of pitchers, Coakley will be well fortified, with three veterans, Farrell, Meaney and Koenig, a trio that did the brunt of the twirling last year. All three are dependable boxmen. The catching department is less certain, and may need bolstering before it is in satisfactory condition.

The complete 'Varsity schedule follows:

April 7, New York University at South Field; 14, Colgate at South Field; 16, Wesleyan at Middletown; 17, Yale at New Haven; 20, Princeton at South Field; 23, C. C. N. Y. at South Field; 24, Harvard at South Field; 28, Fordham at South Field; 30, Syracuse at South Field.

May 1, Williams at South Field; 4, Johns Hopkins at South Field; 5, Swarthmore at South Field; 8, Cornell at Ithaca; 11 Cornell at South Field; 12, Fordham at Fordham; 14, Dartmouth at Hanover; 15 Brown at Providence; 22, Penn at Philadelphia; 29, Dartmouth at South Field; 31, Lafayette at South Field.

June 2, Penn at South Field.

COLUMBIA WINS AT CHESS.

Defeats Staten Island Club, 5 to 3, and Ties for League Lead.

Columbia University sprang a distinct surprise in the second round of the annual interclub competition of the Metropolitan Chess League, the games of which were wound up in the early hours of yesterday morning, when the Blue and White team obtained a 5—3 verdict over the strong team of the Staten Island Chess Club at the rooms of the latter in Stapleton. As a consequence, the collegians now enjoy the distinction of heading the league table in company with such famous chess clubs as the I. L. Rice Progressive, Brooklyn and Marshall's, all of which scored their second victories.

M. A. Schapiro, W. Thompson, H. Jacobi, Jr., O. Frink, Jr., and M. E. Ross were the five winners from Morningside Heights. At the top board, however, a loss was sustained, owing to the fine play of Dr. H. E. Leede, champion of the Staten Island Chess Club and only recently a Columbia 'Varsity player. W. Litzenberger and S. P. Nabenhauer also won for the home team.

City College, playing on seven boards against the Ocean Hill Chess Club of Brooklyn, came away with a victory by the score of 5—2. New York University went down to defeat at Marshall's Chess Club, where the latter won by 6½—1½. Brooklyn cleaned up at the New York Athletic Club and the champion Progressives worsted the Swedish Chess Club by 7—1.

FINANCIAL SITUATION

Fall of Exchange Precipitates Measures to Readjust International Trade.

It is now clear enough that the deferred readjustment of international trade and finance is gathering headway rapidly. Last week's slump of foreign exchanges told its own story of enforced curtailment of European purchases in the United States and forecast increased endeavor of European manufacturers to produce more goods for domestic needs and for shipment abroad. It was significant that conferences of financial leaders over there brought no new suggestions for correcting exchange rates. The result of deliberations was advice to the people to consume less and produce more materials for export, something which had been presented on numerous occasions in the last year, although not under auspices that promised so wide a hearing as at present. The salient features of the situation may be outlined briefly: Europe cannot spare gold from her reserves to ship to America in settlement of old or new debts. European nations cannot borrow further from the United States Government, and our credit position is such that substantial credits for financing exports privately cannot be negotiated for the time being. It comes down, then, to the necessity of Europe's reducing imports from the United States or offsetting imports by an equivalent value of exports or paying extraordinarily high prices for goods here, counting in the great depreciation of sterling, francs, lire, and other currencies in terms of the dollar. When so acute a situation as that produced by a 30 per cent. depreciation of sterling arises something has to give way. The first pronounced effect came in what was reported by cable to be a practical agreement of Lancashire cotton spinners to stop purchases of American cotton. That news resulted in a convulsion of cotton prices on the American exchanges, and, reaching further in sentimental effect, acted to produce sharp reactions of corn, pork, lard, and other commodity prices on the Chicago Board of Trade. Doubtless future events will show that the British spinners actually did not put a ban upon cotton imports, but were merely moved to postpone purchases until sterling rates improved. With England's trade largely dependent upon the manufacture and sale abroad of cotton goods, it is not conceivable that a step would be taken to cut off the flow of raw material. As stocks of the staple in England are reported in excess of 1,000,000 bales, more than double the quantity a year ago, the British buyer might be able to safely hold back his forward contracts for a while. The cotton episode, however, was only one of a series of developments showing that foreign purchasers were being impelled away from the American market by adverse exchange rates. Cabled discussion of criticism in England, France, and Italy of American reluctance to support the exchanges by advancing liberal credits indicated that the problem was stimulating widespread interest abroad. Uncle Sam and his business men are unpopular in Europe in quarters where underlying causes and effects are considered casually. Mr. Glass's blunt hints to the nations recently to work harder and be patient, rather than seek a short cut to normal conditions by shifting a part of their burden to the United States, has not everywhere been well received. That is not the impression of the financial and business leaders, however, and they know that the allied countries must make increasing efforts to work themselves out of current troubles. It seems probable that some of the exchanges will work lower before they grow better permanently, but there is ground for believing that one corner was turned last week when European Governments and people, too, discovered the necessity of strengthening their position from within rather than depending too extensively on outside support.

Domestic business has a vital interest in the outcome of lessened exports. The stock market showed that last week no less than cotton and commodities, all falling to lower ground in precipitate fashion at times. The slogan since the armistice has been "greater production," but a backing up of goods which would normally go abroad acts the same, as far as the domestic markets are concerned, as an expanded output of raw materials and manufactures. An output in excess of the buying demand certainly would entail lower prices and decreased corporate profits, and that is what the stock market sought to anticipate. But it must not be lost sight of that there has been, and still is, an enormous demand for all sorts of products. Retail merchants have never had opportunity to fill depleted stocks because their receipts during the last year have moved out practically as fast as they came in. Goods have been sold at record prices, partly because of extravagance of purchasers, but mainly for the reason that not enough of certain goods were turned out during the war to provide for normal consumption of the population. Consumers are hardly likely to stop buying because of an impression that prices are on the decline. They may buy less than they had planned, and exercise more discrimination, but the chances are far more favorable to a flow of purchases in the next few months on a scale to prevent anything like a severe slump of quotations than to a sharp curtailment of buying.

The stock market last week stood on a starvation basis in respect to bank credit. Call money fluctuated between 10 and 20 per cent., with greater emphasis upon the higher than the lower rate, and time money was hard to get at 8, 9, and even 10 per cent. for certain maturities. The Treasury drew down its balances with depository banks throughout the country, which evidently restricted loan offerings by interior banks on the New York market. The raising of discount rates to a common level at all the Reserve banks tended to discourage the use of credit in speculation, and that was what the Reserve Board wanted to see. Higher discounts may have played a greater part than was discernible at the time in the drop of cotton and commodities, bringing out offerings of speculative holdings. At any rate, the comment of brokerage circles centred upon the tendency of lenders to keep their pursestrings tight, and it was not surprising that conjecture dealt with the effect upon commercial undertakings which the current bank attitude may have before the loan account is considered in a satisfactory condition. With credit grudgingly offered and at extraordinarily high rates, the possibility thrusts itself forward of forced restriction upon business activities, irrespective of the backaction of lessened sales of American goods abroad. Between the foreign exchange situation and the movement to reduce the bank loan account, the trader in stocks faces a lot of difficulty in guessing the course of prices over the next few months.

MEANING OF NEW OIL PRICES

While the recent advances in the price of crude might be termed seasonal, the new levels attained in the price of high gravity oil mean that the day of low prices for "Gasoline" crude is over. Except for temporary flashes, the effect of flush production which may be the logical result of explorations now under way, crude prices may be expected to keep their upward trend.

The saving which the use of petroleum products effects for industry has as yet not been considered so much as has the wide scope of its use. Not only is petroleum necessary for the operation of industry's machinery, but compared with other agencies it would be economical even if its present price were tripled.

MORE NEW BUILDING ON ACTIVE LISTS

End of Material Price Boosting Nears as Manufacturers Apply Brakes.

'PRESENT LEVELS TOO HIGH'

Future Market Too Big to Warrant Petty Policies in Present Emergency, the Keynote.

Dealers and manufacturers of building materials and equipment have become so decided a unit in protest against further general building material price and construction cost increases that owners and architects are relinquishing construction projects that in the recent past have been put aside indefinitely pending more stable cost conditions.

There are several ways of gauging this change. One is by the volume of materials that have moved out of building material dealers' yards in this city and vicinity to go into actual construction work. The difference between January, 1919, and January, 1920 in the volume of business handled by dealers in New York is more than 870 per cent. in the aggregate.

The difference between the totals reported for last Summer and December is nearly 400 per cent. January reports are not yet compiled but the percentage is likely to be record-breaking for this time of the year, and February, although temporarily handicapped in deliveries by the storm last week, doubtless will head the list for activity.

Current reports of new building work starting reveal unusual activity. There has been a tendency to take bids on projected new work and then defer the work pending decision on the part of the owner regarding the flow of prices. It is dangerous now to defer projected buildings, because delivery and manufacturing conditions have heretofore affected prices.

Orders have been booked for building materials and supplies at almost any price to get them placed, in the general belief that the consumer will be willing to pay. But the day dawned several months ago when the prospective builder made it evident that he could not, nor would not pay a price beyond the bounds of good business policy, merely to proceed with building plans. Hence the heavy withdrawal of new building and alteration projects in October, November, December and almost all of January.

Today, the condition is wholly different. Here is the actual quotation of a certain building material manufacturer, in a trade letter sent to all his customers, dated Jan. 31, the firm being among the largest of its kind, doing a national business:

"Present prices are entirely too high. We advise, for the present, against purchasing * * * products unless required for immediate use in actual construction work. Don't try to cover your future requirements. Prices are sure to come down if the trade will heed this note of warning. The time has arrived to apply the brakes."

Various building material associations are circularizing their trades regarding the danger line of building material price inflation. The language of some of these trade letters says that with the 1920 building season barely a month away, the trade is already in the danger zone, unless price inflation can be stopped.

Other letters point out the fact that while there is a generous amount of vitally necessary construction work in project that will go ahead regardless of cost, the record-breaking potential construction market that would bring prosperity for half a decade or more can be narrowed down to a fitful construction era for a year or eighteen months, wherein a few big contractors and building material supply firms would flourish, while the general building material and contractural industry would not be as well off as they are today, which is only slightly removed from the stress of war time.

The broadest sentiment in the Eastern construction market today is pronouncedly against any limitation to the building market of the future, says The Dow Service Daily Building Reports today. For the first time in more than a generation there is a unanimity of thought in the building industry that seeks to create a market for the greatest good for the greatest number rather than to foster the sort of market that will pander only to one certain trade or interest or industry.

The underlying thought in the Eastern building industry today is that there easily can be sufficient business for every one for the best part of ten years if trade temptations can be foregone during the remainder of the readjustment period, such as cornering supply, stampeding prices, hoarding against demand, curtailment of production and "sub" baiting. It is toward this point the building industry is being drawn by dominant leaders, and it has the indorsement of financiers, owners, architects, contractors and sub-contractors and the best balanced manufacturers.

There are some price changes current in the market this week. Window glass discounts have shrunk another point. There is an increase in the price of expanded metal lath, probably reflecting the dearth of wood lath, and official listings are made in the current price bulletin of the new prices of hollow tile which have been in effect nominally in this market for some time. These new quotations, reported for the first time officially today, will cover this fireproofing material until April 30, when, if conditions warrant it, reaction may occur.

PALMER RETORTS TO PINCHOT

Calls Charges Over Southern Pacific Suits "Contemptible."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Attorney General Palmer tonight issued a statement in which he denounced Gifford Pinchot for attacks the latter had made upon him in connection with the Government's announcement that it would not take an appeal in six cases which had been brought against the Southern Pacific Railroad for the recovery of oil lands said to involve large sums of money.

Mr. Palmer charges that Mr. Pinchot made statements which were "contemptible" and "cowardly" and gives a review of the important cases over which the controversy was started.

The gist of his complaint, he says, is that because the Government last December won the Elk Hills land suit in the United States Supreme Court against the Southern Pacific to recover certain oil lands granted to it in 1904 after the oil discoveries, these cases should be appealed, "when every lawyer who had looked into them has said they were not like the Elk Hills case, and that the Government had no good ground for an appeal."

DR. KELMAN ON THE PRESS.

Minister Tells Congregation Moral Issues It Supports Will Win.

The Rev. Dr. John Kelman, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, in his sermon yesterday afternoon called on the individual citizen, the Church, the press, the State and the educational institutions to use all their powers in the present period of unrest between nations to inculcate the principles of truth and justice. Dr. Kelman preached the third of a series of seven afternoon sermons on "Aspects of International Christianity."

"Let us pledge ourselves to this, that we shall seek to raise the standards of public morality and the public conscience so that it becomes equal to or nearer the approach to the ideal," said the clergyman. Dr. Kelman said if the Church was silent on the great national questions of the day she would not escape judgment.

"The press has incalculable power," said the pastor. "The newspapers are not for the amusement of the public, but are tremendous educators. If there are newspaper writers here today I would ask of you, have you ever realized your responsibility in writing for the newspapers? If the press stands back of the great moral issues of today the moral issues will win."

$800,000 Loss in McKeesport Fire.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 8.—A loss estimated at $800,000, resulted from a fire of undetermined origin which destroyed two buildings and damaged a number of others at McKeesport, near here today. The blaze started in a six-story brick structure occupied by the McKeesport Ice and Cold Storage Company and this building and an adjoining residence were destroyed. A department store, on one side of the ice plant, was badly damaged.

CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY

February 3rd, 1920.

The National City Company,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

The Consumers Power Company, operating in lower Michigan, serves one of the most important and rapidly growing industrial sections of the entire country including many nationally known concerns.

The electric light and power business contributes more than 85% of aggregate net earnings.

The capacity of electric generating stations is 202,000 horsepower. The hydro-electric stations produce over 57% of the electrical output.

Upon completion of the present financing, the Bonds and Debentures will stand ahead of $27,298,600 par value dividend paying capital stock.

The Bonds will be secured by a mortgage containing exceptionally conservative provisions with respect to the issuance of bonds in the future, maintenance of the properties, sinking fund, etc.

Net earnings are over twice annual interest charges on outstanding funded debt including the present issues of Bonds and Debentures.

Sales of electric current are well diversified; 16% to motor car and allied industries; 8% to machine shops; 6% to food product and furniture concerns; 21% to other manufacturers; 10% to electric railways, and 39% to residential and other lighting.

Yours very truly,

Geo E Hardy

Vice-President.

MINERAL LEASING BILL NEAR PASSAGE

House Expected to Adopt Conference Report on the Measure Today.

DISCUSSED FOR TEN YEARS

Republican Leader Mondell Declares It Greatest Triumph of the Cause of Conservation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The Oil and Coal Leasing bill, agreed to in conference and ready for final action of Congress, in the opinion of Representative Frank W. Mondell, Republican House leader, is the "greatest triumph of the cause of proper conservation of public resources up to this time," and represents real constructive legislation. The House is expected to adopt the conference report tomorrow.

By its terms coal under 50,000,000 acres of land, gas and oil in the remaining public domain of 700,000,000 acres and the phosphate and sodium in the public domain would be reserved in public ownership. The rights to develop these minerals would be given to individuals under leases, and the proceeds of rents and royalties would be divided between the States in which the minerals are found and the Federal Government. The latter's share is to be placed in the reclamation fund for future development along irrigation lines in the Western States.

"For more than ten years," said Mr. Mondell, "the question of providing legislation which would retain in the hands of the Government the title to the remaining public coal, oil and oil shale, gas, phosphate and sodium lands, and the deposits of these minerals that have been reserved in lands to which a limited title has passed; and the adoption of a system of development under leases controlled and supervised by the Federal Government, has been before the Congress, and bills proposing such a policy, to a greater or less degree, have passed both Houses several times, but the bills did not satisfy the friends of real leasing legislation and failed to become law.

"Under the provisions of the bill the minerals referred to, and to a certain extent the lands which contain them, will be leased to citizens of the United States in limited areas at royalties which, in a large measure, are to be determined by public bidding, and under conditions which insure the mining and utilization of the minerals without unnecessary loss and under conditions favorable to the health and safety of those engaged in these enterprises.

"The bill is a decided improvement over the legislation that has preceded it, because it is strictly a leasing measure and its provisions safeguarding the public interests are more carefully guarded than heretofore. Its provisions affecting the rights of those now claiming under the present land laws lands containing these minerals are believed to be just and equitable."

Safety for Your Securities

Recent robberies have strikingly demonstrated the danger of keeping securities in the office safe.

The care of securities—whether your own, or those entrusted to you as an official, a trustee, or guardian—is a serious responsibility.

By placing securities with us in a Custody Service Account, you can free yourself of risk of their loss, as well as the routine care and details of management.

We guarantee the physical safety of the securities; collect the income, and credit or forward it; make out income tax ownership certificates; and attend to other matters of detail.

At the same time you have complete control over the securities—you retain all authority, while the physical care devolves on us.

The fee for this service is very moderate.

Our booklet, "The Care of Securities," gives full details.
We shall be pleased to discuss this service with you.

AMERICA IMPORTING HIGH-PRICED GOODS

Enormous Rise in Values of Coffee, Cocoa, Sugar and Leather Fails to Check Buying.

INCREASE IN CONSUMPTION

Demand Much Larger Than a Year Ago, Nothwithstanding General Advance in Cost.

Higher prices for foreign products apparently have not served to check buying of those products in this country, according to an analysis of latest available import figures by the National City Bank. These show that the stated value of our imports in 1919 was $3,904,000,000 as compared with $1,778,000,000 in 1915, an increase of approximately 120 per cent. in the last four years.

"Prices abroad," says the bank's statement, "of many articles have doubled since the close of the war, but this fact has not deterred the people of the United States in their importation of these higher price articles, but apparently has rather stimulated consumption than otherwise. Coffee, as everybody knows, has more than doubled in the import price in the single year 1919, advancing from less than 11 cents per pound in November, 1918, to 24 cents per pound in September, 1919, yet the quantity of coffee brought into the United States in the year just ended is greater than in any earlier year in the history of the trade, and the import value in 1919 exceeds $250,000,000 as against $99,000,000 in 1918. The price of cocoa jumped from 10 cents per pound in November, 1918, to 20 cents per pound in August, 1919, yet the quantity imported in 1919 exceeds that of the preceding year, and the sums paid in 1919 are practically 50 per cent. greater than in 1918.

"Sugar, as everybody knows, has reached a price hitherto unheard of, at least in the memory of the present generation, and hard to get at that, yet all the sugar authorities now agree with the statement that the quantity consumed in the United States in 1919 is 'the biggest ever,' while official figures of the Government show that the sums paid for that entering the ports of the United States in 1919 (including that from our own islands) is approximately $540,000,000 against approximately $350,000,000 in 1918, and $157,000,000 in the year preceding the war.

"In manufacturing materials the advance in prices has been as great as that of foodstuffs, but this has not deterred the purchases from abroad. Raw silk, for example, shows an advance in import price from $5.80 per pound in December, 1918, to an average of $9.10 per pound in November, 1919, and yet the quantity imported in 1919 is one-third more than the preceding year, and the value of the importation about $350,000,000 in 1919 against $194,000,000 in 1918. Calfskins, for which the leather consuming population seemed to have suddenly developed a special taste, have advanced in price from 18 cents per pound in November, 1918, to 67 cents per pound in November, 1919, and notwithstanding this quadrupling in price, the quantity imported has jumped from less than 8,000,000 pounds in 1918 to 65,000,000 pounds in 1919, and the value of the imports from $3,000,000 in 1918 to approximately $35,000,000 in 1919. Goatskins more than doubled in import price, advancing from an average of 42 cents per pound in December, 1918, to 93 cents per pound in November, 1919, yet the quantity imported jumped from 62,000,000 pounds in 1918 to 125,000,000 pounds in 1919, and the value of the importations from $30,000,000 in 1918 to $90,000,000 in 1919."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—On Friday I cabled that there would be placed before the Premiers, at their meeting in London on Thursday, an official report to the effect that Lenin and Trotzky had reorganized the Russian co-operatives in such a manner as to give the Soviet Government complete control of these agencies, through which the allied Premiers propose to deal with Russia without dealing with the Moscow Government.

This is confirmed by the news that Maxim Litvinoff has been named Chief Director of the Russian Co-operatives. Litvinoff, as official representative of the Soviet Government, has been conducting negotiations with James O'Grady, British representative in Copenhagen. It will be difficult, then, to trade with the Co-operatives directed by Litvinoff without treating with the Soviet Government, of which Litvinoff is the official agent.

WOMEN FIGHT DONOHUE BILL

League to Protest Measure Limiting Work Day to Eight Hours.

On the ground that it would be class legislation and therefore unconstitutional, the Women's Equal Opportunity League will send today to the Legislature a protest against the bill, introduced last Friday by Assemblyman Charles D. Donohue, minority leader, which would make it illegal for any woman to work more than eight hours a day.

"This is the most pernicious of the so-called welfare bills," said Mrs. Olive Stott Gabriel. "Apparently there is something subtle and insidious back of the campaign to foist these laws upon women who do not want them. Whenever news of these welfare bills comes from Albany it is accompanied by the statement that they have the support of Governor Smith, the labor unions, women's organizations and many prominent women.

"The facts are that these bills are supported by Governor Smith because the Republicans have made an issue against them, that the unsocialistic women's labor unions are solidly against measures which would militate against the rights of women on account of their sex, that the few women's organizations supporting the bills are women's clubs, composed mostly of idle and nonself-supporting women, and that the many prominent women advocating the bills are prominent in the drawing rooms of Fifth Avenue and not in the offices, factories and shops. They are merely 'uplifting' because they haven't anything else to do and they have neglected to consult the persons these bills would affect most."

Mrs. Jessie Higgins, assistant secretary of the New York County Republican Committee, also opposed the bill and said that if it should be made to apply to women in politics they would have to retire, as it is impossible to limit the working hours of a politician. The bill was said to affect practically all classes of women workers, including those employed in the editorial departments of newspapers or magazines, stenographers, librarians, file clerks, conductors, ticket agents, accountants, cashiers and proof readers.

Blames 8-Hour Day for Production Loss.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Investigations being made by the Ministry of Labor into the effects of the eight-hour day for labor have not been completed. The Echo de Paris, commenting on the investigations, says:

"Further information cannot modify the conclusion generally reached—that the shortened working day has diminished production by 20 per cent."

THE MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE—1827 to 1835

Like the Merchants' Bank, the Merchants' Exchange was founded by merchants for merchants. The beautiful marble Exchange was completed in 1827. Besides the Merchants' Exchange it housed the New York Post Office and the marine telegraph to Staten Island, and thence to Sandy Hook — operated by means of signals and telescopes. This building was destroyed in the great fire of 1835. Three of the founders of the Merchants' Bank were also conspicuous in the affair of the Exchange—William Walton Woolsey, President of the Eagle Fire Insurance Company; Henry I. Wyckoff, a leading merchant, a Governor of the New York Hospital and an Alderman of the First Ward; and Preserved Fish, founder of the first line of packet ships to Liverpool.

DOLLAR RISES IN MADRID.

Legitimate Business Demands Drive Exchange Up to 5.87.

MADRID, Feb. 7.—Dollars, which even some of the big banks fail to quote on the official lists posted at their entrances, had their innings this week. Legitimate business demands sent the dollar up to 5.87 Thursday. It declined to 5.70 on Friday and hovered today around 5.75.

In Barcelona, where the demand was steadier, the dollar remained firm at from 5.83 to 5.85.

A Message To the American Public

From J. Ogden Armour

President, Armour & Company

For some time we have had a thought with which we have wanted to acquaint the American public, and it concerns the future of Armour and Company.

From a small beginning sixty years ago, serving a few people locally and under the management of the Armour family, we have expanded to a point where we now serve many millions of people all over the world.

We have come to the view that a wide distribution of ownership of any corporation serving a large number of people is of advantage not only in maintaining the human relation between employer and employe but between those from whom it buys and those to whom it sells.

Realizing that a business of the character of ours is so necessary to the public, we believe they should be accorded the privilege of participating in its ownership. As a beginning, two years ago we offered our debentures, which were exchangeable into preferred stock. As a result, we now have eleven thousand preferred stockholders.

With the thought in mind of further public participation we have decided to segregate our leather properties. The announcement of the offering of preferred and common stock of the Armour Leather Company will be made in this paper tomorrow.

J. OGDEN ARMOUR

NOTICE TO DEPOSITORS OF THE KANSAS CITY RAILWAYS COMPANY BONDS AND SECURED GOLD NOTES.

NOTICE is hereby given to the holders of the securities of The Kansas City Railways Company who have deposited their respective securities under the terms of an agreement dated November 5, 1919, with any of the Depositaries named in said agreement, that the Committee, which is a party to said agreement, has amended the said agreement and has filed the said amendment with each of the Depositaries constituted by and named in the said agreement, and notice is hereby given that the copies of said amendment deposited with the respective Depositaries are subject to inspection by any of the Depositors and that any Depositor may, within twenty days from the date of the publication of this notice, as fixed by the terms of the said agreement of November 5, 1919, withdraw from the said agreement and from the amendment thereto, and that any Depositor so withdrawing, upon discharging all his then existing obligations under the said agreement of November 5, 1919, including his pro rata part of all expenses, expenditures or compensation incurred by the Committee in the discharge of its duties, will be relieved from further obligation and divested of all further rights under said agreement.

Notice is further give that any Depositor not so withdrawing will be deemed to have consented to the said amendment. The respective Depositaries have been requested to mail copies of the proposed amended agreement to the respective Depositors, but failure to receive such copy will in no way affect the rights and obligations of the Depositors under the terms of said agreement.

Advertising is an Investment

IS YOUR ADVERTISING---?

Is your advertising just pretty, or does it compel attention?

Is your advertising just words, or does it say something of value?

Is your advertising just clever, or does it carry conviction?

Is your advertising merely big in space, or is it great in meaning?

Is your advertising based on superficial imagination, or is it founded on the rock of knowledge?

Is your advertising a profitable investment, or an expense?

Analyze your advertising. Don't be biased entirely by self-opinion. A great artist may know as little about making paint as the paint maker knows about art. Study your market and the people that compose it.

When you come to the conclusion that perhaps the selling power of your advertising may be improved—

"Put it up to men who know your market."

The information given herewith is summarized from a letter from Mr. Samuel F. Patterson, President of the company, a copy of which we have in our files.

Net Assets of the Company, After Giving Effect to the Sale of This Preferred Stock, Will Be Over $385.00 Per Share. Net Quick Assets Will Be $126.00 Per Share

Purpose of Issue. The proceeds from the sale of preferred stock will be used to liquidate current liabilities and will furnish additional working capital and funds to carry on the increased business of the Company.

Business. The manufacture of damask covering. Organized in 1902. J. E. Sirrine, mill architect and engineer, reports that the plant as a whole is the most modern and complete damask mill in this country, if not in the world. The plant has 44,528 spindles and 1,166 Jacquard looms.

Earnings. Net earnings for the past four years, ending December 31, 1919, after making liberal allowance for depreciation and after deducting all fixed charges and taxes, have averaged $287,126.00 per year, or two and one-half times the dividend requirements of this issue. Net earnings for the year 1920, based on the present cost of cotton and the cost of manufacturing, are conservatively estimated to be over $1,000,000 per annum, or over eight times the dividend requirements.

Had the Company had the benefit of the new capital now going into the treasury ($1,500,000.00) the earnings would have averaged $375,000 for the past four years, or over three times the dividend requirements.

Security. Net assets of the company are not to be reduced below $5,500,000.00.

Net quick assets shall not be reduced below 100% of outstanding shares of Preferred Stock.

No dividends shall be paid on Common Stock until there shall have been set up out of annual earnings each year $75,000 as a reserve for depreciation.

No other or additional Preferred Stock having priority over or equality with this issue of Preferred Stock shall be issued without the consent of holders of 80% of the Preferred Stock now proposed to be issued.

No mortgage or lien shall be placed on any of the property, machinery of the corporation or on real estate or machinery of any corporation controlled by this company, without the written consent of the holders of 90% of the Preferred Stock at the time outstanding.

The preferred stock is to have sole voting power in event of default of payment of two semi-annual dividends, in the maintenance of assets or sinking fund payments.

Sinking Fund. Beginning August 15, 1921, the Company shall retire out of the earnings at least 4% ($60,000) of the amount of this issue of Preferred Stock, to be purchased in the open market or called by lot, at $110.00 and accrued dividend.

COMMON STOCK with Excellent Possibilities

An established going-growing corporation, rated over $250,000 high—by Dun and Bradstreet. Doing more Business than its present facilities can well handle.

Products sell at 100% profit over gross cost.

Has paid 3 dividends, has over 2,500 active accounts, incorporated for $2,500,000 (all common stock) under NEW YORK STATE CHARTER.

With tangible assets over $380,000. Offers a block of its COMMON Stock to conservative investors, now paying 8%.

Our business is established and requires capital for purposes of immediate expansion to handle business actually in hand—to increase service to present active accounts who would buy MORE from us if we could supply the goods.

If you have from $2,500 to $25,000 to invest—where substantial and at least 8% income are assured—and where the profit possibilities are only limited by present production facilities, let us show you the evidence we have.

I. R. T. DENIES CITY'S RIGHT.

Mandamus Will Be Needed to Get Changes on Queens Lines.

Transit Construction Commissioner John H. Delaney has announced that the Interborough Rapid Transit Company refuses to make the necessary changes in the elevated railroad structure in Queens to permit the operation of the trains of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. The company denies the right of the city to require the changes, and contends that instead of the I. R. T. changing the structure it is the duty of the B. R. T. to alter its cars.

The dual contracts provide that the Interborough should build the elevated structure, and that the B. R. T. lines should be permitted to operate trains over them to Astoria and Corona. The city paid for the construction and the Interborough paid for the equipment. The Interborough provided only for the operation of its own cars, which are fourteen inches narrower than those of the B. R. T. Company.

It was stated that the Sixtieth Street tunnel would be ready for the operation of the B. R. T. trains about April 15, and that unless the stations of the elevated lines in Queens are cut back, and slight changes made in the power contact rail and in the signal devices, the B. R. T. trains will not be able to run further than Queensboro Plaza. Mr. Delaney is now ready to let the contract for making the station changes.

Commissioner Delaney said that he would probably apply to the Supreme Court for a mandamus to compel the Interborough to make the changes specified in his order.

MAY END HARVEST CONTROL

German Government Will Act on Requests of aFrmers and Consumers

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—The Vossische Zeitung reports the initiation of conferences this morning in the food department of the National Economic Ministry to discuss the appeal of the German agrarians and many consumers' organizations for the elimination of compulsory control during the 1920 harvest. A commission of the National Economic Council will hold a conference on the subject tomorrow.

The newspaper says it is fair to assume that the responsible authorities will decide to go to extremes in complying with the demands of the agrarians and farmers. It asserts that the Economic Ministry leaders have shown that they no longer have any intention of retaining compulsory control in the field of food-raising.

TO THE AMBITIOUS MAN.

The high cost of living means nothing to the man who is making big money. Your present position is probably limited in the money you can make. We are offering to the ambitious man, who possesses distinct personality, the opportunity of getting bigger and better returns for his efforts. If you have had selling experience, your application will be considered the same as the man without experience, as all our new men are instructed in our method of getting results. We are particularly interested in the man who is intent on increasing his income but willing to learn how it is done. This opportunity is offered by the largest and oldest firm of its kind and is a permanent proposition; commission. For further information and personal interview call

GREAT SALE OF USED CARS.

Beginning Wednesday, Feb. 11, to close Sunday, 6 P. M., Feb. 15, of a collection of USED CARS to be sold at 25% less than the market price of today. This opportunity will not come again for a long time as we all know that within 30 days it will be a hard thing to get a USED CAR in good condition.

The reason for this sale is that we have hundreds of new car orders and most of them have trades and the new car buyers are commencing to take delivery. It has handicapped us for room, otherwise we would hold this line of USED CARS a few more weeks and it would be a profitable proposition.

This is an opportunity for those that anticipate buying a fine USED CAR that is guaranteed to leave our place in fine condition.

Our Time Payment Plan makes it easy for those who do not have the ready cash. The prices of the following cars range from $100 to $1,600.

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC PASSES THE PEAK

New Cases and Deaths from the Disease Show a Falling Off from Saturday.

AMBULANCES ARE NEEDED

Nurse Situation Improves—Prohibition Makes It Difficult to Obtain Whisky Ordered.

The peak of the present epidemic of influenza has been passed, Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Commissioner of Health, announced yesterday. The statistics for the twenty-four hours ending yesterday morning showed the smallest number of new cases since Jan. 23. There were 1,872 new cases of influenza reported in the greater city, a decrease of 281 under Saturday. The death rate also fell off, showing 131 as compared with 147 deaths the day before.

The new cases and deaths in the city were:

	—Cases.—		—Deaths.—
	Inf.	Pneu.	Inf.	Pneu.
Manhattan	784	232	67	101
Bronx	349	59	10	15
Brooklyn	527	192	48	57
Queens	146	22	4	12
Richmond	66	8	2	2
Total yesterday	1,872	513	131	187
Total Saturday	2,153	705	147	193
Total Oct. 20, 1918	4,570	675	405	241
Total from Jan. 1	58,442	12,032	1,755	3,141

"There has been a falling off in the number of new cases of influenza and a reduction in the death rate which causes me to believe the epidemic is on the wane," Dr. Copeland said. "Today we only had twenty-three requests for nurses, fifteen of which had already been provided for before we received the telephone calls.

"The only thing that is giving me concern is the ambulance situation. There is only a limited number of ambulances available in the city, and already many of the hospitals have reported their ambulance equipment out of service. The demands for the ambulances have been so heavy that it has been impossible to allow for time to repair and overhaul the machines. The army has loaned a number of their ambulances, which are operating from some of the hospitals, but with the streets in present condition there is the possibility of breakdowns while responding to calls."

Commissioner Copeland said that, acting on a number of complaints he had received from citizens regarding expectorating and carrying lighted cigars and cigarettes in the subway, he had taken the question up with Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough. As a result Mr. Hedley directed all Interborough employes to co-operate with the Health Department in putting an end to these practices.

The Health Department learned that many citizens having doctors' prescriptions for whisky intended for influenza patients were experiencing difficulty in obtaining the liquor through druggists. Although many druggists have secured liquor licenses, they have been unable to obtain a supply of liquor, it was found. One man in the Washington Heights section reported that he had canvassed every drug store for more than a mile along Amsterdam Avenue before finding an apothecary where he could have his prescription filled.

Ole Salthe, acting Director of the Bureau of Foods and Drugs, said that the milk situation had improved materially, and although trains were still being delayed by weather conditions, a fair supply of milk was arriving. On Staten Island, where the milk shortage has been most acute, regular deliveries were resumed yesterday.

SPIKER WEDS MISS KNOWLES

Aviator's Brother Will Take Bride to Baltimore Today.

Special to The New York Times.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 8.—Emily Knowles of Staleybridge, England, the wartime affinity of Lieutenant Perley Spiker of Baltimore, and mother of his five-month-old baby, became the bride this afternoon of Guy Spiker, younger brother of Perley. The couple are to make their home in Baltimore, and were to have left by the Fall River Line tonight but there was no sailing. They will leave in the morning and proceed by rail to Baltimore.

The ceremony took place this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Battersby, who were friends of the Knowles family in England. The Rev. Henry Arnold, pastor of the Bogle Street Christian Church, was the officiating clergyman. The marriage service was simple and only a few were present.

To Aid Jewish Welfare Workers.

A campaign to raise $450,000 to retain employes in the service of the Jewish philanthropic organizations through salary increases commensurate with the higher cost of living was announced yesterday by Dr. Solomon Lowenstein, Executive Director of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, of which Felix M. Warburg is Chairman. The drive, which is to be launched at a meeting at the Hotel Biltmore on Wednesday, will end on March 1.

Near East Relief Day Observed.

Near East Relief Day was observed in most churches in this city yesterday as well as throughout the United States. Appeals were made by the pastors and blank cards for subscriptions to aid in the work of relief among the stricken people of Bible lands were distributed to the church members by committees of laymen.

Dies from Sleeping Sickness.

Samuel Pichefsky, 18 years old, of 59 Broome Street, who was taken to Bellevue Hospital on Feb. 2 after sleeping for four days, died there yesterday without awakening.

COAL AS EXCHANGE RATE AID

Manufacturer Would Have Government Help Europe.

A plan to relieve the foreign exchange situation through prompt supply of coal to France and Italy was broached yesterday by George E. Smith, Chairman of the Shipping Committee of the American Manufacturers' Export Association. Mr. Smith declared that it was time for action rather than discussion, and added that a continuation of the current conditions would react seriously against American merchants seeking future overseas trade. He declared that he had appealed to Homer L. Ferguson, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and to W. L. Saunders, President of the export organization, for aid in relieving existing affairs.

"Italy and France need coal," he said. "I understand Italy is paying $33 a ton for it, $6.25 at the seaboard and about $26.50 freight laid down in Genoa. Coal at $33 a ton is expensive enough, but at the depreciated exchange of practically twenty lire to the dollar it is either ruinous or prohibitive, from my viewpoint as a manufacturer.

"Is it not possible for the Shipping Board to take Italy's bonds for the cost of transportation of laying coal down in Italy. Italy would, no doubt, be very willing to finance the purchase of the coal at the seaboard. Would it not be possible for this country to use its Government-owned ships in this way to help these manufacturers? What is to be gained by the Shipping Board making a profit on $26.50 per ton if Italy and America both suffer as the result of such a course?

"I think that Italy has been persuaded, rightly or wrongly, that America shows very little inclination to help them in their coal troubles. A decided policy in regard to the supply of coal, besides shipping, is necessary. Italy needs approximately 300,000 tons of coal a month and France needs 100,000 tons of coal per month."

'GOOD" HUSBAND WINS SUIT.

Wife's Action Against 'Virtuous Tyrant' Who Scrubbed Floor Dismissed

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Supreme Court Justice Morschauser, at White Plains, has dismissed Mrs. Angelique Reese's suit for a separation from her husband, Richmond Jaffray Reese, a lawyer, of 64 Wall Street, Manhattan. Mrs. Reese charged her husband with being cruel and with humiliating her by forcing her, she said, to associate with uncouth persons. In a letter Mrs. Reese wrote to her husband she called him a virtuous tyrant, and that he was "so good he was impossible."

Mrs. Reese is 25 years old, and her husband is 42. The defendant denied all the charges, and insisted that she wanted to become a movie star. He said she frequently addressed him in public in such endearing terms as "Wooly Lamb" and "Piggy Pie." Justice Morschauser, in his decision, says:

"The most serious charges failed in proof. The defendant was very considerate of his wife. The plaintiff is of a very quick temper, and was very exacting of the defendant. He tolerated much of her conduct. He washed the dishes, got his own breakfast, and even scrubbed the floors at times. There seems to be a prevalent notion that when husband and wife have occasional unhappy differences they can be separated by law. This idea is a mistaken one. It is the policy of the law to keep husband and wife together to carry out their marital relations, and not to encourage separation; that the parties are not mated is no reason why they should be separated. Separations are not to be tolerated for slight causes or occasional unhappy differences, or when mutual love and affection, harmony and peace have been temporarily suspended. Occasional discord and strife or mutual aversion between husband and wife is not a sufficient ground for separation."

BRYAN A DRY VOLUNTEER.

Wheeler Denies He Is "Regularly" on Anti-Saloon League Payroll.

Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, denied yesterday that William Jennings Bryan was on the payroll of the Anti-Saloon League. "He is not on the payroll in the sense that he is a regular employe," Mr. Wheeler said. "He never received any pay for his services for prohibition while the campaign was on to adopt it. In fact, he paid his own expenses. Since the eighteenth amendment was ratified the league has paid him for making some speeches to educate and mobilize public sentiment for the enforcement of prohibition and for world-wide prohibition. I know of no man prominent in public life who has done more for the cause without any compensation."

Mr. Wheeler, who was in the city yesterday to tell the Cosmopolitan Club of the benefits already derived from prohibition in the way of decreased crime, fewer arrests for drunkenness, and better health conditions, said the prohibition forces would gladly accept the challenge of the wets at the conventions of the political parties if they tried to force wet planks into the platforms.

"The united dry forces, representing all the national prohibition organization, agreed not to ask the political parties to take sides on the merits of prohibition, but if the wets raise the issue they will start something that may change the plans."

TO 'REMEMBER THE MAINE.'

Veterans of Foreign Wars Will Observe Havana Anniversary.

All the posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States in Manhattan, Bronx and Richmond Boroughs will combine next Sunday in a joint observance of Maine Memorial Day, the twenty-second anniversary of the destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana Harbor. Tributes to the officers and men who perished on the ship will be paid by all posts of the order. On every ship of the navy, no matter where she is cruising, and in every navy yard and station, the day will be observed. Every member will come to attention and repeat the slogan, "Remember the Maine."

Brooklyn, Queens, and Long Island posts will also hold a joint observance next Sunday afternoon with a parade and exercises at Borough Hall.

In Manhattan the exercises will be held at the 12th Regiment Armory, Sixty-second Street and Columbus Avenue, opening at 12:30, and will be followed by a parade of the posts in the three boroughs down Broadway and back to the Maine Monument at the Columbus Circle entrance to Central Park, where the organization wreath will be placed on the monument.

In the armory Lieut. Col. Henry B. Fairbanks will preside. Addresses will be made by Governor Alfred E. Smith and others. Rear Admiral Charles D. Sigsbee and Mgr. John T. Chidwick, commander and chaplain of the Maine when she was blown up, will be present.

STATE LOSING EMPLOYES.

Charitable Institutions Forced to Use Inmates in Many Places.

ALBANY, Feb. 8.—The State's charitable institutions are having difficulty in keeping their employes because of small pay, the State Board of Charity states in its annual report to the Legislature. The report says investigation of charges of alleged ill-treatment or neglect of patients has revealed in most cases unfounded complaints. Especial attention is called to the need of community effort to prevent poverty, pauperism and delinquency. The commission urges social agencies and organizations to join in an effort to diminish the group of dependent persons who must be admitted to institutions.

Referring to the loss of employes, the report says:

"In many places it has been necessary to utilize inmates, and when these persons are mentally defective or in advanced years the results are sometimes unfortunate. The long working day, the comparatively small compensation and the attractiveness of other forms of labor have decreased the desirability of institution work."

The commission recommends a training school for boys of New York City similar to that in the western part of the State, and adequate facilities for the care of epileptics. It estimates that the ratio of epileptics to general population is 1 in 500. The total number of children in private institutions has decreased about 600 in the last year. Commitments for delinquency during 1919 were 4,102, as compared with 4,305 commitments in 1918. A steady increase is noted in the number of children cared for under the act commonly known as the widows' pension law. In 1916 there were 5,375 beneficiaries; in 1919, 22,921.

Merchant Tailoring

OUR Merchant Tailoring Patrons do not consist of Imitation Englishmen, who'd like you to believe that they slap Lloyd George on the back and call him "Dave." We turn out clothes for level-headed business men, who demand fashionably conservative garments at a price consistent with reasonable expenditure.

CUSTOM-EXCLUSIVE woolens, custom-authoritative fashions, custom-benched needlework, custom drapery and distinction executed with twenty-one years' experience as Journeyman Custom Tailors to Men of the Metropolis.

Special Tree and Shrub Offer to Owners of Large Estates

This inventory sale, made necessary through the clearance of certain parts of our nurseries, offers buyers of nursery trees and shrubs in car-load lots a wonderful opportunity.

Send for "Clearance Sheet," which quotes on large lots only.

Arrangements may also be made for the call of a salesman, for the services of a landscape gardener or for planting plans.

Small orders will be given prompt attention, but these inventory prices cannot, of course, apply. If you will state size of property and planting already done, we shall be glad to offer suggestions.
